NAMES OF G. O. P. 'BIG WIGS' PARADED BEFORE JURY IN COYNE ELECTION TRIAL

Today

In Big New York, Trouble. Everybody Worries, Growls. A Queen's Granddaughter. Death Beckons. What of it?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEW YORK, May 25.

RETURNING TO this big city you always find somebody complaining, "vieving with alarm."

The American Iron and Steel Inscitute, which means all big steel men, employing great armies of workers, is meeting here, "all hot and bothered," as young people say.

Holding up a warning forefinger, each big steel man, except a few, extrawise, who let others talk, says:

"We are being flooded with too much law. Labor unrest is the biggest obstacle to recovecy. We deplore restrictive influences in business."

A BIG STEEL strike that would tie up the whole industry is set for June 16, unless steel companies accept union control. Mr. Tom M. Girdler, head of the important Republic Steel Company, is quite downcast. He says:

"Before I'll spend the rest of my life dealing with Lewis, head of the mine workers, I'll retire and raise apples and potatoes."

He will close down his business, rather than "yield to union dictation."

It would be a tragedy if he should do that, start raising apples and potatoes and then have the government say to him:

"You can't do that, unless you recognize the apple and potatoes union."

In these times it is as well to stick to your old business, and bear those ills you have, than fly to others (unions included) that you know not of.

"LABOR AND CAPITAL," that ought to love each other, work together, and take advantage of Uncle Sam's present readiness to dish out his billions, seem to love each other not at all.

In Toledo, national guardsmen, in gas masks, a fearsome sight, were busy yesterday subduing strikers. Tear gas is efficient, and leaves no dead, an improvement on the old Carnegie strike.

IN MINNEAPOLIS and St. Paul, three regiments of the Minnesota guard were held under arms to help police, if the truck drivers' strike should prolong the riots of two days past. A photograph, more eloquent than words, shows a "special officer," with a club in his hand, knocked unconscious by a striker, just finishing with a baseball bat the swing that laid the special officer low.

THE COUNTRY, with all the protests, strikes and worries, has not lost confidence in President Roosevelt's ability to solve problems. To the Literary Digest question: "Do you on the whole approve or disapprove the policies of the Roosevelt administration?" Ten more cities vote "yes" by 24,899, against 14,805 "no."

ALFONSO, UNTIL recently King of Spain, wants to get rid of his wife, the former Queen Victoria of Spain. To many that will seem hard to believe, considering that Victoria is no less a "somebody" than a granddaughter of Victoria, Queen of England and Empress of India. Alfonso cannot take the simple Mexic or Reno route. The Catholic church, to which he belongs, recognizes no divorce as such, although it does, rarely, "annul" marriages for special reasons.

ALFONSO WILL find it hard, after sitting side by side on the throne with Queen Victoria for so long, and in view of her family of children, to secure the requested annulment of a marriage solemnized by the Catholic church.

Vatican authorities, questioned, indicate that the King's request "shows a misconception of church law, which grants annulment of marriage only for the gravest moral and spiritual reasons." He will not get that annulment.

GEORGE ZIMMERMAN, seventy-five-years old, retired restaurant man, is told by his relentless doctor:

"You can't possibly live more than six months longer. Your heart will do well if it lasts as long as that."

Does George Zimmerman beat his breast like the ancient mariner, that heard the loud bassoon? Does he sink into listless despair? Does he, like Job, arise, and rend his mantle, and shave his head and fall down upon the ground and say:

"Naked I came out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither."

Not at all.

GEORGE ZIMMERMAN says:

"Six months give me time enough to wind up my affairs, and see as many of my good friends as are living."

He discovers, happy man, that at the age of seventy-five, he has seventy-five friends left, and invites them all to the finest dinner that a retired restaurant man can invent. Cheerfully he tells them:

"My heart is unreliable. I can't live more than six months, I might not live more than six minutes. I wanted to see you all again. So here's to your health."

That is a philosopher.

BRAND WHITLOCK, of Ohio, is dead. Only sixty-five years old, and you realize how rapidly time and reputations pass when you reflect that more than half the millions that see this statement will remember only vaguely who Brand Whitlock was, and his work as United States ambassador to Belgium in the big war. There are already millions, full grown, to whom the "big war" is already

TWO MORE POLICE SLAIN IN DILLINGER HUNT; BANDIT KILLED

Across the elusive shadow of the phatnom John Dillinger were cast today three more deaths—those of two policemen and a bank bandit. Although Dillinger himself was not definitely linked, these were the developments:

1—Policemen Martin O'Brien and Floyd Mulvahill were shot to death by machine-gunners at East Chicago, Ind., in their patrol car as they were assigned to watch a deserted road for America's No. 1 desperado.

2—One bandit was slain, another critically wounded and three others put to flight when a bank guard opened fire on the masked gang as they attempted to hold up the South Holland Trust and Savings Bank near Chicago.

International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 25.—One bandit was shot dead and another was critically wounded today when five masked men, reported to be members of the John Dillinger gang, raided the South Holland Trust and Savings Bank in South Holland, near here.

The other bandits escaped in a car.

Police expressed the possibility that the gang was the same one which late last night shot two policemen to death at East Chicago while the officers were assigned to watch roads for Dillinger.

R. E. Boland, an employe of the bank, said the bandits who escaped the machine-gun fire of the man on the balcony fled without loot.

Each morning it is the custom at the bank to post an employe with a machine gun on the balcony as the bank doors and the vaults are opened. As the doors were flung open at 9:30 this morning, two bandits carrying machine guns walked in. Three others remained in an automobile outside the bank.

STICK 'EM UP!

One of the men who had had entered the bank yelled:

"Stick 'em up everybody."

At this instant, however, the bank employe on the balcony opened fire and the two desperadoes fell—one dead, the other wounded.

The other three bandits fled.

A polire alarm meanwhile had been spread through the entire district and several squads took up the chase. Authorities expressed the belief that the bandit gang may have been the same which shot down two policemen in cold blood last night in East Chicago, Ind.

Neither of the bandits shot in the bank was immediately identified.

De Young, the marksman who killed the one bandit, said:

"I am sorry I couldn't have killed them all. I feel sure these are the same men who murdered my son in a robbery of this bank last February."

SLAYYING OFFICERS

With the brutal and mysterious machine gunning of the two policemen assigned to watch for Dillinger, America's No. 1 desperado and his outlaw gang today became the targets of a roaring manhunt.

The policemen were Martin O'Brien, 44, and Floyd Mulvahill, 29. They were shot to death late last night in their patrol car on the little used old Gary-East Chicago road. This area is the focal point of many of Dillinger's crime activities.

Bodies of the two officers were literally riddled with machine gun bullets presumably fired close range from another automobile.

Shortly after the crime was discovered an automobile containing four or five gunmen, two of them flourishing machine guns, roared through Hammond (Ind.), apparently bound for here.

DILLINGER BLAMED

All circumstances indicated that Dillinger and his gang committed the double killing, East Chicago officers said. Chief of Police Nicholas Maker disclosed that the policemen had been assigned to look for Dillinger and his outlaw followers.

When discovered by a watchman the police car, with its two dead occupants in the front seat, was halted at the side of the highway.

The killers, it is believed, opened fire without warning and gave the officers no chance to draw their guns. The two bodies were sitting upright in the front seat.

Japan to Fight Treaty Banning Naval Equality

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, May 25.—Japan will formally denounce the Washington naval treaty before the end of 1934 in keeping with her outspoken demands for increased naval strength, it is believed in official British circles.

It is for that reason, International News Service learned today, that the British government has approached not only the United States but Japan and other powers with the suggestion that preliminary conversations be held in advance of the 1935 naval conference if—and it is an important "if"—such a conference is held.

(Copyright, 1934, International News Serv.)

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(INS.)—While willing to support further reduction of naval armaments, the United States will view with disfavor any increase in existing naval ratios and will oppose any plan that calls for the scrapping of a single American warship already built or being built, until that vessel becomes obsolete.

This, it was learned in authoritative quarters today, will probably from the basis of American naval policy in the preliminary naval discussions which Great Britain is sponsoring in the hope of "saving" the 1935 naval conference.

The United States has notified Great Britain that it is willing to participate in the preliminary discussions to prepare the groundwork for the 1935 naval conference, it was made known today.

Continental Life Taken Over by State

ST. LOUIS, May 25.—(AP.)—The Continental Life Insurance Company, with nearly $100,000,000 of insurance in force, was placed in the hands of the state insurance department today by Circuit Judge O'Neill Ryan, who decided the bitterly-contested dissolution suit filed last January by Insurance Supt. R. E. O'Malley.

O'Malley alleged the company, headed by Ed Mays, one-time Arkansas farm boy, was impaired to an extent rendering it insolvent and that it had been grossly mismanaged.

U. S. GOLF STAR GAINS FINAL

By T. C. WATSON
International News Service.

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 25.—(INS.—America's hope in the British Amateur golf championship rests on the shoulders of W. Lawson Little, of California. He battled his way into the final round today by defeating the sensational British player, Leslie G. Garnett, 1 up, in an extra-hole match that left the big gallery trailing the players fairly gasping with excitement.

Tommorrow Little mets James Wallace, unemployed Scotch carpenter, in the final 36-hole match. Wallace battled his way into the final round by defeating George T. Dunlap, Jr., American Amateur champion, 2 and 1.

Little defeated T. A. Bourn, of England, 4 and 2, and Dunlap won over Alex Walker, Scotland, 3 and 1, in the quarter-final round matches this morning.

Troops Stoned In New Clash In Toledo Strike

BULLETIN.

TOLEDO, O., May 25.—(AP.)—Seven gas bombs were fired at a crowd of 400 persons gathered at Champlain and Elm streets late today as Ohio National Guardsmen sought to break up another recalcitrant throng.

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service.

TOLEDO, O., May 25.—A minor engagement between strikers and Ohio National Guardsmen at the Electric Auto-Lite Company plant this afternoon forecast a renewed outbreak of the serious fighting yesterday in which two persons were killed, nine wounded and scores injured.

Strike sympathizers, numbering more than 500, gathered at a guardsman outpost a block from the Auto-Lite plant and after taunting the militiamen, began hurling bricks. The guardsmen pushed the attackers back, but withheld tear gas and rifle fire.

Reports were received that scores of strike sympathizers were en route to Toledo from Chicago and Detroit. There was no verification of the reports here, however.

PEACE EFFORTS BEGIN

Meanwhile, efforts were made to bring peace to the strike warfare that reached a climax yesterday with the killing of two persons, the wounding of nine others, in-

DOUG DENIES PEER'S CHARGE

International News Service.

LONDON, May 25.—Douglas Fairbanks, named co-respondent in the divorce suit filed by Lord Ashley against Lady Sylvia Ashley, today entered a defense.

It is understood the defense consists of a general denial of Lord Ashley's charges.

The American movie star intervened to protect his own name coincident with announcement that the suit had been set for trial at the next term of the Trinity Law Courts, beginning May 29 and ending July 31.

There had been much speculation in social and theatrical circles as to whether he would defend the suit or whether Lady Ashley would contest it.

Fairbank's action is accepted as indication that Lady Sylvia also will fight her husband's action.

U. S. BEGINS LINKING OF SENATOR, AIDES TO BALLOT BOX FRAUDS

BULLETIN

Government Prosecutor James I. Marsh pleaded surprise late today while examining one of his own witnesses, Charles G. Lane, Jr., and accused Lane of giving different testimony than he gave before the grand jury.

The names of Republican bigwigs, from ex-President Hoover down, tumbled from the witness stand into the records today in Federal Court as government prosecutors went to work in earnest to convict State Senator James J. Coyne and 11 co-defendants of a vote fraud conspiracy.

A government witness who was with Senator Coyne at least twice on that November (1932) election night described the setting for what the government contends was a plot to start out and steal the election from the Democrats carried into office with President Roosevelt.

SOUGHT SOLDIER VOTE

Charles W. McGinnis, an insurance salesmanager, testified that he had headquarters for the Republican Service League in the William Penn Hotel to win back the soldier vote. His chief duty, he said, was to offset the bad feeling against President Hoover created by the bonus army's expedition to Washington.

He testified that some time after midnight he went to Room 897 in the William Penn Hotel wtih Charles G. Lane, Jr., who was assisting him to win the soldier vote, to tell Senator Coyne that Walter Bonitz, active in the east in the Republican campaign, wanted Coyne to call him on the phone.

PLOT CHARGED

The government contends that it was in the William Penn Hotel that the plot was hatched to steal the election.

McGinnis testified there were five or six others in the room, that he and Lane conveyed Bonitz's message, then deported. He said there was no conversation while they were there, that just before they opened the door the conversation stopped.

McGinnis made clear that his own headquarters were on the sixteenth floor of the hotel—headquarters he said were established with the co operation of W. H. Coleman, Republican county chairman.

Coyne had visited the soldier headquarters shortly before 9 p. m., election night, and examined some of the returns, McGinnis added.

NATIONAL RETURNS

He explained, however, that the soldier headquarters were principally interested in the presidential returns and had installed a telegraph wire to obtain na-

Crushed by Car At Safety Zone

Mrs. Sarah Flaherty, 70, of 6 English way, was probably fatally injured today, police reported, when she was crushed between a city-bound Perrysville avenue trolley car and a concrete post at the end of a safety zone in Federal street near Boggs & Buhl's store. She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Witnesses said the operator of the car apparently did not realize he had struck the aged woman.

2 Racers Die In Crash on Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP.)—Pete Kreis, 34, of Knoxville, Tenn., driver, and Bob Hahn, of Chico, Cal., riding mechanic, were killed here today while practicing for the 500-mile automobile race to be run next Wednesday.

The car, traveling at terrific speed, went out of control just after it came out of the first turn. It ran over the outside retaining wall and struck a tree many feet below. The car was cut in two by the impact.

The car was owned by Harry Hartz, of Los Angeles, and was one of the fastest entered in the race. Kreis was tuning it up preparatory to attempting to qualify this afternoon.

Kreis was a construction engineer by profession and annually took his month's vacation at this time of the year in order to participate in the speedway classic. He had raced in earlier years throughout America and abroad.

Kreis and Hahn were the twenty-fourth and tenty-fifth persons killed at the speedway since it was built 25 years ago, according to unofficial records.

Henry Ford Goes Broke On Pittsburgh Visit

GETTYSBURG, May 25.—(AP.)—The chuckles in this historic community today are at Henry Ford's expense.

Stepping from a Pittsburgh-to-Philadelphia train to stretch his legs yesterday, the motor magnate was approached by T. J. Hardy, book salesman, who inquired:

"Like to buy a history of the Battle of Gettysburg? Only a quarter."

The traveler said:

"Well, I know a great deal about that battle. "But I'll take one."

But the quarter was not forthcoming. Ford, smiling, explained:

"We'll have to wait for my secretary. I haven't any money."

Store Executive Praises Shaw's Salesmanship

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw—the business man who best understands the magic art of luring the customers into buying "difficult products."

Such was the role in which the Irish playwright and self-styled Socialist was cast today before business executives at the American Management Association convention by Irwin D. Wolf, secretary of the Kaufmann Department Stores of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Wolf was discussing the problem, which he termed a vital one, of "stage dressing in selling." He explained:

"A dramatic sense is necessary —The thing that has sold the difficult products of Bernard Shaw. His plays are full of what is apparently indigestible material—heavy reading—but they are all what is known as good theater. And they all sell."

Mr. Wolf also explained that it was necessary for the manufacturer to keep in touch with the changing needs of the consumer, and cited the recent highly successful promotion of onion soup by a national concern immediately after the repeal of prohibition and the return of legal drinking.

He discussed in detail what constituted proper distributional channels and promotion methods.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS FAIL IN MOVE TO LIMIT BALLOT EVIDENCE

tional returns in the Hoover-Roosevelt fight.

McGinnis drew a laugh when, asked to describe the Senator's appearance, he smiled:

"I'd say a typical Irishman."

The Senator, too, grinned at this.

McGinnis testified that he had been sent here to assist Col. Hanford MacNider, former Assistant Secretary in the Hoover cabinet, who was associated nationally with the Service League.

SENATOR DAVIS THERE

He said that in his headquarters on election night were United States Senator James J. Davis, who was a successful candidate for re-election, and the late Mayor Charles H. Kline. John Fugassi, a defendant, dropped in, too, and talked for a few minutes with Senator Coyne, McGinnis related.

Before McGinnis took the stand 15 ballot boxes, tainted with what the government contends are fraudulent ballots, were toted into Federal Court and plumped down right in front of the defendants.

With the contents of these boxes Prosecutors Louis E. Graham and James I. Marsh prepared to show that Senator Coyne and his Republican companions, starting from the William Penn Hotel on election night in November, 1932, set out to steal the election from the Democratic dark-horse winners.

The defendants, from the Senator to Alderman John J. Verona, maintained an enviable calm as the boxes were wheeled into the room and deposited close enough to their feet to be kicked around.

It did seem like adding insult to injury.

BOXES FROM 5 WARDS

The boxes are from the Second, Third, Fourth, Tenth and Fifteenth Wards, where, the government contends, the doctoring of ballots took place.

Just before the boxes were brought in the defense suffered a setback when Judge F. P. Schoonmaker refused to rule that certain election records from the Prothonotary's office and the Registration Commission should be admitted as evidence only as they applied to federal office. Attorney Warren Van Kirk, counsel for Harry Fink, made the motion.

Earlier witnesses disposed of some of the preliminaries.

Ray Dever and Ed M. Skapik, custodians in the county's Bureau of Elections, identified certain of the disposed ballot boxes.

Bert Musick, secretary of the grand jury which indicted the dozen defendants, assured Defense Counsel Rossi that only Maurice Nernberg, government handwriting witness, was in the grand jury room, along with the jury, when the ballot box of the Eleventh District, Fourth Ward, was opened and counted.

RETURNS ADMITTED

To save time the defense admitted that the return count made on the ballot boxes was substntially correct, but the defense refused to concede this as to the vote in the Fourth District of the Tenth Ward —a ballot box which has not yet been opened.

It was learned today that seven or more of the government's witnesses have asked to be excused from testifying, but their requests fell on the deaf ears of the prosecutors.

TALLY SHEETS OFFERED

John P. Wilson, Prothonotary's clerk, again took the witness stand as the trial was resumed. He presented a tabulation of the tally sheets and records from the 15 election districts so far involved.

Categorically, Prosecutor Marsh placed in the record the tabulations, which included the number of votes cast, number of assisted voters, number of stubs returned, the number of ballots returned, number spoiled and other incidental data.

When Marsh presented a copy of the original Common Pleas Court order which had designated a depository for the ballot boxes and a custodian, Attorney O. K. Eaton objected on the grounds that the source of such an order might be questioned.

The court overruled, as it had an objection of Attorney Warren H. Van Kirk to the presentation of the return data.

BAILEY TO TESTIFY

Chances are that James P. Bailey, the dismissed city assessor, will be called to the stand this afternoon. It was Bailey who charged that Mayor McNair and his secretary, Theodore L. Moritz, had urged him to change his testimony to favor Senator Coyne.

Bailey was in the Federal Building today, but was kept apart from the crowds which thronged the corridors for the second day of the most important trial in the government's investigation of election frauds in Allegheny County.

Prosecutor Louis E. Graham, in a short opening address, struck right out at Senator Coyne, whom he described as the boss of a ring that set out from the William Penn Hotel to steal the election when early returns indicated the Republican ticket had lost.

GRAHAM'S CHARGES

Graham charged:

"A conference was called at the William Penn Hotel, with Senator Coyne presiding. We will show you that then and there a conspiracy was entered into to change ballots.

"After the conference men were sent out to various sections. Telephone calls were made. The word was sent out, 'The entire Republican ticket is lost. Something must be done.'

"We will show you that some of the conspirators refused to disclose the returns, that ballots were marked by more than one person."

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Arms folded across his chest, Senator Coyne displayed no emotion as he heard Graham bite off short, quick sentences for the jury of 12 men.

Mayor McNair's name was injected into the trial during selection of the jury. At the request of defense counsel, Judge Schoonmaker asked each prospective juror:

"Have you read one or more recent newspaper articles in which James P. Bailey charged that Mayor McNair and Theodore L. Moritz sought to intimidate him by suggesting his testimony be changed in one or more aspects?"

Several of the jurors said they had, but promised to reach a verdict without prejudice.

Only two witnesses were called yesterday. Both were supplied with documentary evidence to help lay the groundwork for the government's contention that the conspiracy to doctor the ballot boxes was directed at the Second, Third, Fourth, Tenth and Fifteenth wards.

RECORDS IDENTIFIED

Edward A. Gearing, of the Registration Commission, identified registration records from these wards. John P. Wilson, clerk in the Prothonotary's office, offered the return sheets of the disputed election.

It was in this election that James J. Davis was returned to the United States Senate and Michael J. Muldowney elected to Congress. Coyne himself was a successful candidate for re-election to the State Senate, but inasmuch as his is a state office, any testimony of altered ballots in his fight will be secondary. It is the cheating for federal offices with which the government is concerned.

JURY OF MEN

The jury selected consisted entirely of men, as women are never called for jury service in Federal Court. The jury, which is being locked up overnight during the trial, is made up of D. H. Baird, realtor, Altoona; George Conner, farmer, Dunns Station, Greene County; John H. Eaton, retired, Beaver; J. W. Fleming, farmer, Saxonburg, Butler County; Harry Ferguson, farmer, Valencia, Butler County; John A. Kuhl, clerk, 5728 Walnut street; Fred Lewis, agent, Unity; Charles O. Minder, telegrapher, Rockwood, Somerset County; W. F. McVay, retired, Waynesburg; S. H. Robinson, inspector, Washington, Pa.; C. F. Stratton, retired, Strattonville, Clarion County; John W. Smith, 1214 Straka street, foreman.

DEFENDANTS NAMED

On trial with Coyne are Alderman John J. Verona, Third Ward leader; John Fugassi, long a voice in inner political circles; Patrick J. O'Malley, Republican chairman of the Strip's Second Ward; former Fire Captain Louis J. Conley, chairman of the Ninth Ward; Tom Coyne, the Senator's brother; Assemblyman Patrick J. Maloney; George W. Savage, former city assessor; Frank O'Halloran, deputy mercantile appraiser; Martin Mullen, Tenth Ward district chairman; Walter Butler, former district chairman of the Fourth Ward, and Harry Fink, private detective and former deputy constable for Verona.

COYNE TRIAL SIDELIGHTS

Any tenseness that pervaded the cold gray courtroom as the Coyne trial was about to resume today was dispelled by Special Prosecutor Louis E. Graham and Senator Coyne.

With his most radiant smile, Coyne said:

"How are ye this morning, Louie?"

And Graham answered with a like smile and a handclasp:

"I'm fine Senator, and hope you are."

They'd been in past campaigns together, the latest that of President Hoover, when they rode side by side in the former President's campaign train.

Eddie Gearing, of the Registration Commission, can lay claim to a mess of aces from the fraud investigation. He was the first witness before the grand jury, he was the first witness in the first of the vote trials, he was the first witness in the Coyne trial. Doubtless he'll be the first to sigh in relief when it's all over.

Senator Coyne was biting his lips to suppress a smile when he entered Judge Schoonmaker's courtroom for the first time. He was five minutes late and bailiffs were shouting his name through the lobbies. Louis J. Conley, another defendant, was with the Senator, but Conley was breathless.

The Senator, however, didn't wear his smile long. He took his seat in the first row, reserved for the 12 defendants, and he wore an air of serious concern. For that matter, you couldn't have found a smile in a row full.

Profering the Olive Branch

TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF SENATOR COYNE AND AIDES

Charles W. McGinnis, an insurance sales manager, was the first of the government's important witnesses. McGinnis testified that in the November, 1932, campaign he assisted Col. Hanford MacNider with the Republican Service League.

Prosecutor James I. Marsh questioned him:

Q.—Did you have headquarters here?

A.—I was instructed by national headquarters to get in touch with the county chairman and get headquarters.

Q.—And you did?

A.—Yes. We got headquarters at 1621-23 in the William Penn Hotel.

Q.—What was the purpose of your activities?

A.—The chief function of the Republican Service League was to offset the bad feeling of the bonus army against President Hoover . . . Mr. Lane, being a well-known soldier, worked with me.

Q.—Will you please describe the rooms in the William Penn?

DESCRIBES SUITE

A.—Well, we have a corner suite. We had two of the three rooms. One was a sitting room, the other a bedroom. There was a stenographer's desk there—and some chairs. We gave up the rooms on election night.

Q.—And was there any telegraph connection?

A.—Yes. On election night we had a telegraph connection to get the presidential returns only to see how Hoover was running.

Q.—Did you take on any other rooms?

A.—We had a soldier organization to offset, as I say, the feeling. I asked the manager of the hotel if he had any place where the people who had really worked in the campaign could hear the returns, with their wives. . . . We took on two more rooms directly opposite—1620 and 22.

Q.—Did you receive any local returns or congressional returns?

A.—No, ours were presidential returns. We got some local returns downstairs.

Q.—And what was downstairs?

A.—The Republican headquarters. I had seen Mr. Coleman and made such arrangements . . . Occasionally some of the boys would bring up some local returns.

Q.—When did you begin to receive the local returns?

A.—I'd say about 8 o'clock—or a quarter after.

Q.—What did the local returns indicate?

A.—It began to look bad for—

EATON OBJECTS

Defense Counsel Eaton jumped to his feet with an objection, saying:

"Wait a minute, that's just what I objected to, Your Honor. I have no objection to the facts themselves, but I object to any conclusions."

Marsh tried to bring out the testimony from another direction.

Q.—Were any of the candidates named in these returns?

A.—It's difficult for me to recall the names.

Q.—Did they (these returns) refer to the Republican candidates and their votes?

Defense Counsel Margiotti then inserted an objection on the grounds that this was hearsay. Marsh withdrew the question and tried another angle.

Q.—Did you see James J. Coyne in your headquarters that evening?

A.—No.

Q.—Did Senator Coyne return later.

A.—Yes; he returned and remained a few minutes. With him was John Fugassi.

FUGASSI BOWS

Attorney Margiotti called to Fugassi and the latter stood up and bowed to the court.

Q.—How long did Fugassi stay?

A.—Two or three minutes. He and Senator Coyne talked, and then left.

Q.—Did they use the telephone?

A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did they close the bedroom door?

A.—No.

Q.—How far was Mayor Kline from them? Or Senator Davis?

A.—About eight feet.

Q.—About what time did they leave?

A.—It must have been between 9 and 9:15.

Q.—Did you see them again that night?

A.—I didn't see Fugassi again. I saw the Senator after midnight. I had instructions from national headquarters to call the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, at midnight, which I did. They requested I get Senator Coyne on the telephone.

Q.—Who did?

A.—Mr. Lonitz (Walter Bonitz).

Q.—Did you know him, recognize his voice?

A.—Yes; he was eastern vice chairman.

Q.—He asked for Senator Coyne?

A.—Yes; and I tried to locate him but couldn't.

Q.—Where did you telephone to?

A.—Republican headquarters downstairs and some rooms in the hotel. I finally got Mr. Coleman, Republican County chairman), who told me to try Room 897.

Q.—Did you see him?

A.—I saw the Senator there, and told him to call Bonitz. That was the last I saw of the Senator.

Q.—As you walked along the eighth floor, who was with you?

A.—Mr. Lane.

Q.—Who would you say walked ahead, you or Mr. Lane?

A.—I'd say we were just walking down the hall; I couldn't say who was ahead.

Q.—Well, who reached the door of the room first?

A.—Lane opened the door, I believe, but I can't say exactly.

Q.—Did anyone knock?

A.—I don't recall; don't think we did.

Q.—Did you hear anyonne talking?

A.—Well, there was a conversation when we opened the door, but after we went in nothing was said.

GROUP "SITTING AROUND"

Q.—After you opened the door what happened?

A.—There were five or six people sitting around. The Senator was the only one I knew. We told the Senator Mr. Bonitz wanted him on the phone in New York.

Q.—What time was that?

A.—All I can say is it was after midnight.

STEEL TO KEEP 'OPEN SHOP,' GRACE SAYS

Bethlehem President Praises Employe Representation Plan

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—The nation's steel industry will continue to "maintain the open shop," Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, declared last night at a dinner of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He said he believed he voiced the opinion of everyone present.

Employe Representation plans, Grace said, are practical because "they embody a mutuality of interests.

He added:

"They do not provide for outsiders or organizations foreign to our industry to dictate to the men and management of the industry as to what constitutes proper relationship between them."

By continuing to maintain the open shop, Grace declared the industry would "insure to employes the recognition and reward for individual effort as against the closed union shop were all men are equal."

Grace spoke after being presented the Gary Memorial Medal for outstanding achievement in the iron and steel industry by Charles M. Schwab, who announced his resignation as chairman of the board of the institute earlier in the day.

Small and large producers and small and large consumers "are for the first time on equal footing," Grace continued.

The industry as a whole during the first quarter of the year lost money, he told his audience.

'Red' Influence Probe Asked in Darrow Battle

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP.)—A resolution has been brought forward to have a congressional committees find out whether the Darrow board was "attempting to corrupt any members of Congress with Soviet and Communistic doctrines."

It was introduced yesterday by Representative Truax (Dem.), of Ohio, and called for the appointment of a special House committee of five to "ascertain the relationship between such board and certain members of Congress."

The first word from a cabinet member in the argument over the Darrow report came today from Postmaster General Farley Speaking over a telephone circuit to a meeting in his home state of New York, Farley said:

"The left wing shouts 'monopoly,' the right wing shouts 'Socialism,' but between these two the good ship NRA has steered ist course."

Darrow to Sever Connection With Board

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Roosevelt's National Recovery Review Board will be without the services of Chairman Clarence Darrow after May 31.

This was learned today from the aged Chicago lawyer in a discussion of the recent action of the board and its effect upon the aims of the National Industrial Recovery Administration. Darrow said:

"When I took this job it was never my intention to serve longer than the end of May."

Whether the review board will function after the departure of Darrow will be decided by President Roosevelt. Should the President decide to continue the board it is likely that few if any members of the present unit will be found upon it.

Disagreement continue to be the general trend of the board.

'SAVING' WAGE DEMAND TOLD

Steel workers want a six-hour day and a "saving" wage, not merely a living wage, Earl J. Forbeck, district president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers asserted in an address before the League for Social Justice last night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. He added:

"If we go out on strike or holiday there will be no let up until there is a complete breakdown of the Iron and Steel Institute."

Forbeck, who spoke after a round-table discussion of collective bargaining, declared the rank and file could get no benefit from the NRA under company unions. He said the workingmen were rallying to independent unions to protect themselves from company organizations.

POND, SABELLI REACH LONDON

HESTON AIRDROME, London, May 25.—(AP.)—Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli landed here at 12:30 p. m. today after a short flight from Cardiff, Wales.

After the fliers had climbed out from behind their smoking motor, Sabelli said the hop today was "almost as tough as the last part of our trans-Atlantic journey."

The Italian flier said they had "a very bad engine" and added:

"We barely made it."

Capt. Pond indicated he was uncertain when they would be able to get away to wind up their flight to Rome.

3 Research Men Win Steel Award

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—The annual award of the American Iron and Steel Institute was presented last night by Charles M. Schwab to Ralph O. Griffis, Reid L. Kenyon and Robert S. Burns, all of the research laboratory of the American Rolling Mills Company, of Middletown, O., for their joint paper on "The Aging of Mild Steel Sheets."

M'NAIR TO TAKE RAMP PLEA TO ROOSEVELT

Mayor Cools Heels for Hours in Vain Effort To See Morgenthau

Mayor McNair will appeal directly to President Roosevelt in an effort to have the government revise its postoffice ramp plan, he said today.

The Mayor went to Washington yesterday to see Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., but only got as far as his secretary, after cooling his heels in Morgenthau's office for two hours. McNair related on his return today.

The Mayor said:

"I didn't want particularly to tell Morgenthau what my plan was.

"I wanted only two minutes in which to tell him that if the ramp was built as planned it would throw Pittsburgh's entire traffic setup into chaos, and wanted to urge him to give it his personal attention.

TO SEE ROOSEVELT

"The nearest I got to Morgenthau was his private secretary.

"The secretary told me I wouldn't be able to see Morgenthau, as he was busy with the President.

"Well, all I know is if I can't see the Treasury secretary, I will wait another week and see the President himself."

The Mayor and traffic experts urge elimination of the narrow ramp now under construction from the postoffice to Seventh avenue; providing a direct driveway from the postoffice into Bigelow boulevard and elevation of the boulevard over Seventh avenue with a runway in the center for Seventh avenue traffic.

TALKS POLITICS

Leaving Washington, McNair hastened to Baltimore where he made two campaign speeches for Mayor Howard W. Jackson, who is candidate for Governor of Maryland on the Democratic ticket.

He then visited the new Baltimore incinerator plant and discovered what he thinks is a way to save $1,250,000 set aside by Council here to build a municipal disposal plant.

This would be to have the firm that built Baltimore's incinerator free of charge to the city, do the same for Pittsburgh in return for privilege of operating it for 10 years.

TARIFF BILL'S PERILS CITED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—A sword of Damocles will be suspended over every industry needing tariff protection if the administration reciprocal tariff bill is passed, Senator Patterson (Rep.) of Missouri, declared in the Senate today. He declared:

"Enact this measure and you suspend a Damocles sword over every industry needing tariff protection. No such industry could possibly know how long it would be permitted to exist. Any day the news may come that the President has negotiated a treaty taking from such industry that protection without which it cannot exist."

Paterson said that the effect of the measure would be especially detrimental to the shoe industry, of which St. Louis is a great center.

The "dream of foreign trade" is a vision of the Brain Trusters, Patterson declared in asserting that the domestic market should be stressed. He added:

"I would not sacrifice one job now held by an American workman for all the foreign trade dreams this administration's Brain Trust can indulge in."

It is a case of:

Every solemn Wall street speculator knows that good old times will return some day. Let the new era do what it may, but the "when?" is what disturbs them.

Hearst at White House, Visited by Johnson

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—William Randolph Hearst spent several hours with President Roosevelt yesterday at the White House.

The publisher, arriving from Chicago in the morning, was met at the station by Col. Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, and driven to the executive mansion in a White House car. He was invited here by the President.

Mr. Hearst and the Chief Executive discussed current affairs in the latter's study. Mr. Hearst remained for luncheon. Leaving the White House, Mr. Hearst said:

"The President looked to be in fine health and apparently he is feeling well also. He is going on a fine trip this summer and I hope it does him a world of good."

During the day, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, paid a visit to Mr. Hearst. Late yesterday afternoon the publisher boarded a train for New York whence he will sail on Saturday for a European trip.

MYSTERY WOMAN, DOPE LINKED TO RACKET DEATH RIDE

GIRL BLAMED AS DECOY IN KILLING

Missing Auto, Bag and Brief Case Hunted; Body Unclaimed

Dope and a woman—described by detectives as decoy for members of a dope ring—were linked today in the murder of Morris (Big George) Kaufmann, 34, Philadelphia, whose body was found Wednesday behind a boulder in a vacant lot in Covode street, Squirrel Hill.

Detectives scouted a suspicion voiced by Mrs. Nan Dodson, of Philadelphia, sister of the slain gangster, that he had been robbed of $2,000 and a large diamond. He had $51 in his pockets when found and morgue attendants said his fingers bore no evidence that he had worn a ring.

The sleuths had found no clues to the killers who put two bullets in Kaufmann's head, or the automobile belonging to Kaufmann's sister in which he was said to have driven to Pittsburgh.

LINKED WITH DOPE

In Philadelphia, Kaufmann let it be known that he was coming to Pittsburgh with a Gladstone bag filled with dope, the detectives said they learned. The woman decoy, the detectives believe, helped lead Kaufmann into the death trap.

Kaufmann was due here Sunday, but did not arrive until early Tuesday, and was in conference in his room at the Fairfax Hotel with another whose identity has not been learned. Carrying a brief case, Kaufmann and the man left the room together.

Returning late that afternoon without the brief case, Kaufmann paid for his room and checked out, taking with him the Gladstone bag.

AUTO SOUGHT

Detectives believed that location of the automobile, the brief case and the bag would bring an early solution, but they doubted they would ever find more than the automobile.

The body of the gangster still lay in the morgue today. His relatives wired they were unable to meet the burial expense. A man said to be an East End racketeer yesterday called at the morgue and offered a decent burial if the family was unable to pay for it.

AGED TEACHER STRANGLED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Her clothes torn, one eye blackened and finger marks on her throat, Miss Mary E. Sheads, 65, retired local school teacher and principal, was found murdered late last night in her apartment in which she lived alone. Death was caused by strangulation.

A few days ago she told another woman occupant of the apartment house:

"If anything ever happens to me there are some papers at the head of my bed which will explain everything."

These papers were missing when police forced entrance to the apartment after the residents heard her screams and then heard the bottom section of the fire escape clang against the sidewalk.

An apartment next to the Sheads suite is unoccupied and one of its windows leading to the fire escape was forced open.

Police believe the murderer hid in the empty rooms before he climbed out on the fire escape and entered the teacher's apartment. He escaped down the fire escape.

Miss Sheads' body was found lying on the floor near her bed.

PRINCE DENIES NAZI CHALLENGE

International News Service.

BERLIN, May 25.—Said a spokesman for former Crown Prince Wilhelm:

"It is a ridiculous lie."

Said the personal secretary to Capt. Hans von Tschammer-Osten, laughingly:

"It is perfect nonsense."

That was the reaction of the principals to reports printed by the London Daily Herald today that the ex-Kaiser's eldest son had challenged the Nazi sports dictator to a duel.

Dr. Wynekoop Has Tuberculosis Attack

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 25.—(AP.)—The state today found that Dr. Alice Wynekoop, bed-ridden within the Dwight reformatory, was suffering from an attack of tuberculosis but had ceased to lose weight.

The Illinois Department of Public Welfare, which has charge of the aged Chicago woman imprisoned for the murder of her daughter-in-law, announced two physicians had examined Dr. Wynekoop.

200 Peace Officers Dared by Robbers

TOPEKA, Kan., May 25.—(AP.)—With 200 policemen and sheriffs in town for a convention, four men robbed two offices of an oil company of $300 and escaped.

Robert Barr, assistant agent for the Sinclair Company, reported four men drove up and three alighted, coming into his office displaying guns. They forced him to open the safe and fled in their automobile.

The Battle of Toledo juries to scores and the arrest of 52 rioters.

The opening wedge in the consummation of peace negotiations was believed to have been struck with the agreement of officials of the Electric Auto-Lite Company, whose plant has been laid low by the strike seige, to close the plant for the remainder of the week.

The federal government ordered Ralph Lind, secretary of the Cleveland Regional Labor Board, here to assist Charles P. Taft, son of the late President Taft, and E. H. Dunnigan in their efforts to arbitrate the dispute.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS

Lind was ordered to Toledo after a conference in Washington between President Roosevelt and Senator Robert Wagner, indicating that the government was deeply concerned over the outbreak of violence which yesterday saw 1,500 workers at the plant held virtual prisoners by 7,000 who stormed the company's buildings.

The rioting was momentarily quelled yesterday afternoon when guardsmen fired into the mobs that milled about the plant. Frank Hubay, 27, and Steve Cyigon, 20, were killed.

Hubay was not the victim of National Guard bullets, according to Coroner Frank Kreft. An inquest today disclosed that Hubay had been ht in the head with five lead slugs, or buckshot. An inquest will be held tomorrow and Prosecutor Fraizer Reames has ordered an investigation into Hubay's death.

The respite in the fighting was brief, however, breaking out anew at dusk when the strikers and their sympathizers tore up the streets in the vicinity of the plant and began hurling rocks at the guardsmen who, in turn, used gas to put the attackers to flight.

It was estimated that at least 125 have been injured in the wild melees.

GAS FUMES SPREAD

Gas fumes from the scene of the rioting were fanned by a strong north wind last night and sent rolling into the downtown section.

Last night's riot renewal was brought to an end shortly after midnight after troopers dispersed a mob of 2,000. During the final sortie, several of the rioting mob were injured when they fell from house-tops from which they were hurling missiles.

A gas bomb was hurled on one roof and three men were seen to fall to the ground.

Property damage in the vicinity of the besieged manufacturing plant was estimated at more than $225,000.

Longshoremen Set For Finish Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—(AP.)—Faced by threats of a "fight to the finish" in the Pacific Coast marine workers' strike, a federal mediation board resumed peace efforts here today with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, taking a hand.

Ryan, who conferred with union leaders after his arrival by airplane from New York last night, said recognition of the I. L. A. appeared to be the main issue.

Weather Conditions

High pressure, centered over the lake region and the Central valleys is dominating the weather over most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains. As a result, the weather is cool, and the skies generally clear. Light frost occurred this morning in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Western New York. Light showers were general over the eastern states yesterday and last night, and it is raining this morning over the Middle Atlantic coast and as far west as Harrisburg. Low pressure is centered over Florida and over Nevada and Alberta.

River Conditions

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is .7 foot; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.1; Pittsburgh, 10.3; Dam No. 4, 9.3; No. 6, 7.6; No. 10, 8.7, and No. 12, 7.1. The dams are up.

6 Months to Live, Millionaire Gives Farewell Party

Universal Service.

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., May 25.—"Life has been a pretty good pal. It never has failed me of beauty, wonder, fascination.

"I don't believe it will throw me down now.

"Death? Why, that will be just another interesting experience we'll meet together, life and I!"

This was the statement made by George Zimmerman, millionaire resident of this fashionable suburb of New York. It was made through his daughter, Ruth, a strikingly lovely blonde of 25. Zimmerman was confined to his bed.

For the furore which followed upon Zimmerman's gallant gesture when he announced to 75 friends gathered in the trophy room of his home that he is doomed to die in six months, was too much for his weakened heart. He invited his guests to drink to "Happy Landings."

The imagination of the public had been stirred. Messages, calls, personal visits besieged the Zimmerman home. People offered encouragement, advice, admiration. Radio companies asked him to broadcast his philosophy. Publishers asked for his biography.

The excitement threatened him with another of the dread attacks of angina pectoris, which hangs like a sword over his head.

Explaining that her father's stand is not a new one, Miss Ruth continued a revelation of his philosophy as he had expressed it to her:

"People live too much in the future. They mean to enjoy themselves, but they keep putting it off. Most of them wait too long.

"Six months are left to me. The heart attacks are getting more severe and closer together.

"There were two things left I wanted to do. One was the farewell party I gave.

"The other is a final hunting trip. A friend and I will leave soon for Santa Fe. We will travel in a leisurely way. You see we want the days to be long and very peaceful. For I won't come back."

MYSTERY AGAIN STIRS VERMONT

PROCTOR, Vt., May 25.—(AP.)—There are mysterious goings on in the vicinity of Proctor again. A month ago Department of Justice agents disturbed the countryside by an investigation of an extortion plot, the intended victim of which they never disclosed.

Agents swarmed through the district and their inquiries brought protests from the parents of several boys who were questioned. The agents disappeared as mysteriously as they came and nothing more has been heard of their investigation.

Today is was a lone automobile and four men who had caused excitement.

Police and a state's attorney have received reports that a car bearing four men, who act suspiciously, has been circulating in the vicinity during the last two weeks. One observer said he thought he had seen a machine gun in the car.

Thomas Meighan Returns to Screen

HOLLYWOOD, May 25.—(AP.)—Thomas Meighan, veteran film actor, who has been out of pictures for more than a year, is coming back to the screen, it was announced yesterday at the studio where Jackie Cooper is making "Peck's Bad Boy."

Meighan was reached at his Long Island home by telephone and instructed to leave for the coast Friday to play the role of Jackie Cooper's father in the motion picture.

Hepburn Manager's Divorce Delayed

NEW YORK, May 25.—(US.)—Mrs. Leland Hayward, the former Lola Gibbs, has abandoned her plans for a Mexican divorce for Leland Hayward, business manager of Katharine Hepburn—but only temporarily and because it's too hot down there now, Mrs. Hayward said:

"It's just that neither of us is in any hurry. And well, you know it is awfully warm in Mexico this time of year."

FIGHT FOR LIFE BEING WON BY EXPLORER

Destroyer Carrying Robinson to Panama After Operation

COLON, Panama, May 25.—(AP.)—William Albert Robinson, author and explorer stricken with appendicitis in the Galapagos Islands, sailed aboard the destroyer Hale for the Panama Canal Zone and American medical attention at 7:30 a. m. today, the destroyer reported by wireless to headquarters here.

His condition was said to be hopeful and his bride, with whom he was taking a honeymoon trip when he was stricken, was with him on the warship.

The two United States Navy planes which carried doctors to Robinson, left the Galapagos an hour and one half before the destroyer. They are expected to make the return flight to Balboa in about 10 hours.

Robinson, stricken Sunday aboard his tiny world-girdling honeymoon craft, the Svaap, was operated upon last night after the arrival of the destroyer Hale, which had been dispatched from the Canal Zone. Two Navy seaplanes carrying medical officers and supplies, had preceded it.

When medical officers, Lieut. Com. Rollo W. Hutchinson, and Lieut. Oscar D. Yarbrough, arrived at Tagus Cove Wednesday night, they found Robinson's appendix apparently was ruptured and delayed an operation until the Hale arrived with better facilities.

The operation climaxed a thrilling trail of events in which the dash of the planes and the destroyer resulted from the frantic appeal for aid from Robinson's bride, the former Florence Crane, Chicago heiress.

Word of his illness was first flashed to Los Angeles Sunday by the Santa Cruz, whose refrigerator furnished ice with which Mrs. Robinson made ice packs for her stricken husband, on advice relayed from a Los Angeles hospital.

TRUCK STRIKE END AGREED

MINNEAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP.)—Peace plans, vesting in a board of arbitration blanket power to adjust all differences between employers and employes, were agreed upon, by representatives of both factions early today after Gov. Floyd B. Olson had worked all night with conferees to terminate the riotious truck drivers' strike.

The Governor predicted trucks "would be moving some time this afternoon," after conferences during an indefinite truce declared following one death and injuries to scores in riots marking the 11-day strike.

Representatives of both sides assured Gov. Olson their advisory committees would sign the pact and recommend its ratification by their memberships.

TEST REVEALS DOPE, MAN HELD

A former dope addict, who testified he had fought the habit successfully for three years, today was held for court after police made a chemical test in court to prove that eight tablets found in his possession were habit-forming drugs.

The test was made in Central Police Court by Lieut. of Homicide Detectives Frank Ferris at the arraignment of Frank Henry, 32, of Altoona. Henry had been arrested five days ago when police alleged they found the eight one-quarter grain dope tablets in his possession.

Henry said he had not taken dope in three years and promised to leave town if freed, but Magistrate J. W. McGowan held him for court on charges of violating the state narcotic law, self-addiction and illegal possession of narcotics.

'Frank Merriwell' Fights Stardom in Movies

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—Frank Merriwell, who eschewed tobacco, foreswore swearing and swallowed nothing stronger than his pride, has come in the full glory of his manhood into a Federal Court.

His creator, W. Gilbert Patten (Burt L. Standish), has asked that the Superior Talking Pictures, Inc., be enjoined from using the name Frank Merriwell in a series of short films it has produced.

Frank Merriwell, boy and man, preserved the honor of dear old Faredale and (later) dear old Yale for 986 consecutive weeks. During that entire period his lips never touched liquor, spoke an epithet or held a cigaret, not even a cubeb. He performed his weekly heroics from April 1, 1896, to January, 1915. This is a long time for anyone to attend Fardale or even Yale, but Frank was a glutton for book learning.

During this lengthy period of acquiring an education Frank dropkicked his schools to approximately 100 victories in the last five seconds of play, hit an incalculable number of homeruns over an incalculable number of fences, and escaped disaster, in one form or another, on an average of once a week throughout the McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson administrations.

Patten, who feels that if Superior Talking Pictures, Inc., went ahead with its Frank Merriwell series he would be damaged $250,000 worth, said the Merriwell stories had circulated 123,600,000 copies to date. He estimates he has used up 40,000,000 words in telling the world what a grand person Frank is.

COLBY LAUDS ROOSEVELT FOR BASIC POLICY BUT WARNS OF ADVISERS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Although "inevitable failure" faces some of the experiments of the present administration, President Roosevelt has "preserved intact" the entire machinery for th correction of any errors he may make, Bainbridge Colby declared last night.

Colby, who was Secretary of State under President Wilson, and Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury under Herbert Hoover, were the chief speakers at a meeting of the Economic Club, held at the Hotel Astor.

BASIC LAW UPHELD

Colby, while viewing critically many of the Roosevelt policies, asserted:

"Despite the pressure and urgency of his task, the President has steadfastly and conscientiously recognized the fact that practical supremacy under our Constitution resides in the representatives of the people.

"This truth he has never lost sight of.

"Truly the cry of usurpation cannot be raised against a President so conscious of the source from which governmental power springs, and so observant of the constitutional channels of its flow."

BUREAUCRACY SCORED

The vast bureaucracy now ruling "down to the smallest and most intimate activities that enter into our daily lives" was one of the chief objects of Colby's criticism.

And he warned forcefully against the counsels of such Brain Trust advisers as Rexford G. Tugwell and Donald Richberg, who lightly dismiss constitutional guarantees "as if they were irrelevancies in the present day life of America."

Mills, returning to the bitter attack on the Roosevelt administration he has developed in several recent speeches, charged that the New Deal stems from the "economic despotism of the Middle Ages."

To return to this despotism, he averred, is "a monstrous perversion of the word 'progress.'"

Only by abandoning any effort to impose a planned, controlled and regimented economy can recovery be obtained, the Republican Old Guard spokesman asserted.

HITS BRAIN TRUSTERS

Colby vigorously scored the Brain Trust members who "flash the word revolution upon us as the dread and solitary alternative to the unpalatable designs upon our liberties."

Without mentioning Tugwell by name, he declared:

"When a man who stands high in the President's confidence, holding an important official position in the administration, and frequently put forward as its spokesman, is disclosed as referring to our popular morality as having its roots in a past age; to our religion as clinging to outworn ethics and being irrelevant for the present; to our public school education as dominated by the two, both thoroughly outmoded; and when this official voice speaks of the present rends as destined to completely remake American economic life, the reaction in the mind of the average American is—How do you get that way?"

COUNTRY PROSTRATED

Emphasizing the tremendous difficulties faced by the present administration, Colby reminded his audience:

"The country was as near prostration as it could come and still avoid collapse when Mr. Roosevelt brought his fresh energy and his inspiriting self-confidence to the work of rescue.

"Our strength had been wasted and consumed by extravagance in every field of expenditure, improvident foreign loans of vast amount, riotous speculation, reckless borrowing. An insane belief prevailed that social and industrial anarchy could continue indefinitely and that stimplants were as nourishing as food."

Faced with these "vanities of thought and conduct" that "came home to roose all at once," Colby declared, President Roosevelt did many things that had to be done and were difficult to do.

EXPERIMENTS JUSTIFIED

Most thoughtful Americans agree, the speaker said, that the President was justified in resorting to experiments in many fields where solutions were not at hand. Action was imperative, he pointed out, and "the dangers of incaution were far less than the dangers of inaction."

Stressing President Roosevelt's scrupulous adherence to the theory of the supremacy of Congress, Colby continued:

"Great variations in this respect are compatible with the essence of representative government, provided the functions are such as secure the representative body in the control of everything in the last resort.

"Instead of the function of governing, for which it is radically unfitted, the proper office of a representative assembly is to watch and control the government; to throw the light of publicity on its acts; to compel the full exposition and justification of all of them which any one considers questionable, to censure them if found deserving of censure, and, if the men who compose the government abuse their trust, or treat it in a manner which conflicts with the deliberate sense of the nation, to expel them from office."

LEADERSHIP TOLERATED

Americans have always been willing to tolerate strong leadership, Colby said, and in fact desire it in their President in a time of crisis. But he warned:

"There is a very definite condition or implication attached to this tolerance, and it is this—that the mould of our constitutional government shall not be broken, and that whatever of innovation is attempted shall be conformable to the spirit of America and to the principles on which the nation has been builded."

But Colby also stressed the value of criticism—even criticism of a negative kind—in keeping the nation from squandering hard-fought gains by plunging too recklessly into experimentation. He declared:

"I feel entitled to ascertain what has happened to my party, that its present leaders should be so intent on crushing every sentiment and garroting every principle, regarded heretofore as characterizing the Democratic party."

FEARS FOR PARTY

He flayed in particular the immense bureaucracy "fastened upon us without our realizing it, much less authorizing it," adding:

"It makes a Democrat thoughtful to behold such a transformation. Almost overnight it has been brought to pass.

"Gradually it has dawned upon the country, and it is now quite plain that recovery was only partially the aim of the administration. A great part of its interest has been in radical institutional overturn and the new-modelling of the state.

"It has moved toward its objective at times, I regret to say, with a certain indirection, avoiding admission of its designs until it was found convenient to lay aside concealment. Thus, measures which were to meet an emergency we are now told are to be permanent.

"Other measures which were to promote recovery, but have had quite the opposite result, are now justified as reforms, regardless of their consequences.

JUGGLING CONSTITUTION

"The basic principles of the Constitution we are told, must be somehow got around. A little jugglery of phrase by an agile bill draughtsman will suffice, or so it is thought by the new school of statesmanship—the adolescent school, I might call it, or perhaps the intuitive.

"But will it suffice? This is a question the determination of which is drawing near."

But the Constitution still is supreme, he declared, and "we have preserved unimpaired the right of free speech, the right of a free press and the complete freedom of amendment, rescission and repeal in our representative body."

Mills declared the improvement has taken place in all countries, regardless of political system and specific government policies.

RECOVERY AT HAND

Prompt recovery is within our grasp, he asserted, only by adopting the following course:

1—End the attempt to impose the alien system of a planned, regimented economy.

2—Give normal forces of recuperation a chance by stopping continuous experiments.

3—Provide for the unemployed while working out a permanent system for dealing with unemployment.

4—Help agriculture by regaining lost markets.

5—Modify tariff policies, eliminate quotas and re-establish a modified gold standard.

6—Stop monkeying with our currency system.

7—Restore capital by modifying the securities act and stock exchange bill.

8—Strengthen the banking system "by working steadfastly for unification."

9—Stop trying to squander our way out of the depression. Cut expenditures. Oust needless employes. Thus help balance the budget and reduce taxes.

10—Retain the good features of the NRA by restricting its operation to truly national enterprises. Maintain the Sherman law, but permit business associations to adopt rules for their own guidance subject to regulation.

RED DRIVE LAID TO TEACHERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Charges that school teachers fostered Communism in many institutions of learning in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Newark, N. J., were voiced before the House Education Committee today by Representative Kenney (Dem.), of New Jersey.

Kenney testified that Communist meetings attended by both teachers and students have been held in public school buildings.

He cited a recent meeting held in the Herman Ridder Junior High School, New York City, which was conducted by the Young Communist League of the Bronx. Prior to the meeting, Kenney testified, hundreds of "Red" circulars were distributed among pupils.

Communism in Chicago schools, particularly in the Senn High School, has become a grave matter, Kenney added.

Belgians Mourn Brand Whitlock

BRUSSELS, May 25.—(AP.)—The Belgian press mirrored today the nation's sadness at the death of Brand Whitlock, America's wartime ambassador, who died after an operation yesterday at Cannes, France.

King Leopold III, the dowager Queen Elizabeth and Foreign Minister Paul Hymans sent messages of condolence to Mrs. Whitlock.

'Mean' Blue Eagle Pictures Banned From Show

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(INS.)—Two drawings, depicting the "Blue Eagle" as a grasping, mean sort of a bird, were absent from the Art League of Philadelphia exhibition today, after a "jury" of park guards decided against them.

FRENCH DEBT UP TO ROOSEVELT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Roosevelt and the French ambassador, Andred de Laboulaye, informally discussed debts in a brief White House conference today.

The ambassador said he came primarily to present a medal to the President in appreciation of the Lafayette ceremonies Sunday.

CONGRESS DRIVE TO LOWER PRICES BEGUN

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP.)—A departure in recovery economics—designed for once to lower consumer prices—was proposed to the House today when its Ways and Means Committee reported a bill to reduce tobacco taxes 40 per cent.

The tobacco companies have agreed to pass all of the reduction on to the consumer, so that a 15-cent pack of cigarets will sell instead for 10.

To the accompaniment of a great advertising campaign, an effort will be made, if the bill passes, to increase consumption to a point where the Federal Treasury may not, after all, lose very much by the tax reduction.

Should the plan work, lower liquor taxes may follow, and the whole trend of administration efforts to rectify prices for recovery may be affected.

Already urgent proposals have been brought forward in Congress to clip down the liquor levies in the hope that bootlegging may be driven out, and the legal liquor trade be put on a basis where lower prices will mean increased Treasury returns.

One of the basic economic policies of the administration has been to restore prices to a normal level. In various ways emphasis has been placed on a restoration to the level of 1926.

FARLEY TO OPEN FINAL AIR BIDS

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Farley planned today to open 61 bids for contracts to fly the mail over 13 routes.

Never before has there been such an avalanche of bids. When the first group of 17 routes was thrown open to bidding, 45 proposals were entered.

2 KILLED ON BUS, 50 INJURED

RICHMOND, Va., May 25.—(AP.)—A head-on collision between a bus and a truck, followed by fire, left two persons dead and at least 50 injured today.

The crash occurred in a blinding rainstrom near here last midnight. The bus was filled with Negroes on a pleasure trip.

Fire broke out while rescuers worked frantically. A woman was burned to death.

Approximately 45 of the injured were brought to Richmond hospitals. Others were sent to Petersburg Hospital.

The crash drove the front wheels and the motor of the truck through the front of the passenger bus.

HILL DISTRICT HELD LIABILITY

The Hill District is the city's "greatest liability area" and is "rotten ripe for reconstruction," the Pittsburgh Housing Association held today in its first printed report in three years.

The report attacked city departments as well as public and private relief agencies.

Conceding that more progress has been made under the present administration than formerly, the Housing Asociation declared:

"The function of the Department of Public Health is to safeguard the community against hazard and the main job of its Bureau of Building Inspection is to protect the city against the erection or continuance of unsafe buildings."

Florida Anglers Back on Gold Standard

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 25.—(AP.)—Florida fishermen are back on the gold standard, with the capture of the first golden-sealed tarpon since President Roosevelt's inauguration.

The fish, weighing 58 pounds, was caught by Phil Shearer, local barber.

Fishermen say the color transformation from the usual silver hue is caused by contact with fresh water.

Heinz Named Head Of Planning Board

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—Howard Heinz, of Pittsburgh, was elected chairman of the National Industrial Planning Board at the board's eighteenth annual meeting.

WORKS PAYROLL PLAN REVISED

Council has revised the recommendations on payroll submitted by Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston.

Council yesterday refused to make numerous changes in title which would have had the effect of depriving the job-holders of their civil service protection.

They did cut out of the budget one file clerk in the general office and five cleaners in the City-County Building. They added the jobs of photographers' assistant and engineer at the North Side Market.

They refused to set up a $5,000 chief engineer's job in the Bureau of Engineering and to add six new jobs in the Bureau of Bridges.

Pair Sentenced for Liquor Law Violation

Guildo Bardi and John Patton, Jr., were each fined $500 yesterday and sentenced to serve six months in jail by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, when during a trial on an indictment charging violation of the internal revenue law, they withdrew pleas of not guilty and pleaded guilty. They were charged with operating a still in a cave along the bank of the Monongahela River, Forward Township.

STATE SENATOR HURT IN CRASH

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., May 25.—(AP.)—State Senator Harry J. Bell, of Fayette County, received a fractured left arm in an automobile collision last night, and two other persons were injured.

D. Kenneth Winebrenner, of Alverton, driver of the other machine, is in a Mt. Pleasant hospital suffering from concussions of the brain and a possible skull fracture.

Miss Beatrice Vance, of Scottdale, riding with Winebrenner, received a dislocated collar bone. Her sister, Catherine, escaped uninjured.

The accident occurred near Scottdale.

Senator Bell, himself a physician, was treated at a Uniontown hospital and returned to his Dawson home. His wife, with him in the car, escaped serious injury.

Boy From Braddock To Become Priest

A former Braddock boy and graduate of Braddock High School is to be ordained to the priesthood tomorrow by Cardinal Dougherty in Philadelphia. He is the Rev. Stanislaus Gorak, son of Mrs. Mary Gorak, 624 Corey avenue, Braddock.

The ceremony will take place in SS. Peter and Paul Cathedral. Father Gorak will celebrate his first high mass Sunday in Sacred Heart Church, here. He is the first young man to be ordained to the priesthood from Sacred Heart Parish. He was graduated from St. Mary's Seminary, Orchard Lake, Mich.

'ADELINE' STILL PACKS THRILL, SHOW BARES

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—What dozen popular songs of recent years have a chance to live, particularly in a day when constant repetition of a catchy tune can kill it in a week?

A tentative answer was given the other night when American composers put on a show for the benefit of the Authors' League and incidentally at the same time probably allayed curiosity as what they considered their best tunes.

"Sweet Adeline," "School Days," "Under the Bamboo Tree," and other songs of yesteryear still have the power to thrill, not only the barber shop chord boys, but a sophisticated audience in evening dress which has become accustomed to the suaver melodies and more intricate rhythms of later day composers, the show revealed.

'ADELINE' THRILLS

When Harry Armstrong ambled out on the stage, his fatherly face wreathed in smiles, and struck the opening chord of "Adeline," the audience cheered, and then whooped up the chorus till the poverbial rafters rang.

Gus Edwards, also playing his own music, found that "School Days" still was popular, while J. Rosamond Johnson, squat, dusky and smiling, learned that plenty of his auditors knew not only the tune but the words of his song about the bamboo tree and could sing them lustily.

There was plenty of applause, too, for the moderns, including George Gershwin, who selected "I've Got Rhythm," with variations, as his contribution. Irving Berlin, who has been turning out hits for years and years went back to "Alexander's Ragtime Band," for an opener, encoring with his latest musical smash about the Easter bonnet.

CHOICES LISTED

George M. Cohan, long a song writer, produced a brand new tune, something about he'd rather write a song than be President, but it was to the strains of "Over There" that the house went wild and sent George into a few of the famous Cohanesque steps of his song and dance days.

Here are the songs that the other composers played:

Ferde Grofe—"Mardi Gras."
Sigmund Romberg—"One Alone."
Harold Arlen—"Stormy Weather."
Jean Schwartz—"Chinatown."
Richard Rodgers—"With a Song in My Heart."
Harry Warren—"Shuffle Off to Buffalo."
Dana Suesse—"You Ought to Be in Pictures."
Arthur Schwartz—"Dancing in the Dark."
Rudy Vallee—"Vagabond Lover."
Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh—"I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

Christen Fast TWA Plane In Chicago

Carrying a group of the nation's foremost industrial leaders, the world's fastest passenger plane, the Douglas airliner of T. W. A.'s fleet, yesterday stopped at the City-County Airport on the way to Chicago. The plane will be christened there today.

Passengers included Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation; Cornelius F. Kelley, president of the Anaconda Copper Company, and Arthur V. Davis, chairman of the board of the Aluminum Company of America.

Widow Talks Self Out of Rich Man's Estate

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(AP.)—Lillian Albertson, theatrical producer, talked herself out of an inheritance from her husband, the late Abraham M. Levy, wealthy New Yorker, in Superior Court yesterday, but she did it intentionally.

She gave testimony that induced Judge Charles S. Crail to admit to probate a lost will in which Levy left his entire estate, amounting to about $10,000, to his son, Edward Albertson Levy. Under a previous will held by a bank here, the estate would have been divided among young Levy, Miss Albertson and her mother, Mrs. Elize Albertson.

The elder Levy, who died last April 18, was said to have lost more than $1,000,000 on the stock market in the past few years.

ALUMNI HONORS BROTHERS

More than 500 alumni, representing every class of St. Michael's School, Pius street, South Side, since 1882, attended a testimonial party in honor of the Brothers of the Society of Mary in Lithuanian Hall, 1723 Jane street, last night.

The celebration, at which Common Pleas Court Judge John P. Egan was the principal speaker, marked the society's fifty-second year of teaching at St. Michael's School.

Two former directors of the school, Brother James E. Yack, of Mineola, L. I., and Brother George Schneider, of Dayton, were greeted by the alumni. Brother Joseph A. Banzer is present director of the school.

Among the honor guest were the priests of St. Michael's Church and brothers of St. Mary's School, North Side.

BANK'S ASSETS HELD WORTH MORE THAN APPRAISAL

Future Liquidation Expected to Find Value Higher

Although the apraisal of assets of the Pensylvania Trust Company show a deflation of book value from $3,824,381 to $1,125,758, it was declared today that considerably more probably would be realized through liquidation.

The appraisal is necessarily low, State Banking Department officials explain, due to present day conditions. None of the assets may be sold below the appraised figure.

However, it was explained, the appraisal does not necessarily represent the figure at which the assets will be sold. Liquidation probably will not take place for several years during which time the assets in all likelihood will materially increase in value.

SCHOOLEY BIG CREDITOR

It was pointed out also that the assets cannot be sold without a court order. Should the receiver sell anything without a court order, he would be subject to a surcharge by the court of any differential in valuation.

Despite the low appraisal, a former official of the bank contends that but for the national bank holiday, the trust company would be operating today.

The official, who prefers his identity to remain unknown for the present, attributed the bank's closing to a combination of poor management and unsuccessful loans and investments.

The late City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley was one of the largest creditors of the bank and is credited with "embarrassing" the bank with city deposits, improperly secured and amounting to more than $1,000,000 beyond the legal limit for such deposits.

NEARLY 2 MILLION

These deposits at one time had been nearly $2,000,000 over the limit, according to Dr. James P. Kerr, City Controller.

And, today the possibility of ordinary deposits being paid any considerable portion of their deposits, depends upon the liquidation of securities to pay off the city's preferred deposit of $1,047,866, according to Frank W. Jackson, special deputy secretary of banking in charge of the Pennsylvania Trust Company.

The receiver has applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan on the bank's assets, which may provide an immediate dividend to depositors, he stated.

There are demand accounts of 436,035.92 and savings accounts of $834,089 listed among the bank's liabilities, besides the huge city deposit.

APPRAISED AT $1

Schooley, whose name appears in the appraisal filed in Common Pleas Court as a debtor of the bank, obtained a personal loan of $25,000 secured with Pitt Hockey Club stock. It was appraised at $1.

A $9,000 note for the Pitt Hockey Club, indorsed by County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, is appraised at $1.

These appraisals, based on the book value of the loans as of the date the bank closed, indicates a decrease in the value of the notes but do not necessarily mean that the notes are worth only $1. Many of the loans have been considerably reduced since the closing.

Appraisals of this kind are always as conservative as possible, the hope being that the amount later realized will be greater than that set forth in the appraisal.

The appraisers explained today that in many instances the notes were quoted at only $1 in order not to "tie" the receiver's hands. They said:

"If we fix a specific value for the notes, under the state banking laws the receiver cannot accept less than the appraised value, so we fixed the values as low as possible in most instances to allow the receiver as much leeway as possible in liquidating the loans."

POLITICIANS GET LOANS

Loans totaling several thousand dollars were made to such powers in Republican and Democratic politics in the state and county as Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic candidate for United States Senate; Walter Bonitz, reputed financial backer of the Francis Shunk Brown campaign for Governor; [illegible]mer Congressman Guy E. [illegible]obell, Joseph Engelsberg, [illegible]iore L. Moritz, secretary to [illegible] McNair; former City De[illegible] John J. Dean, Judge F. A. [illegible]ski and W. McK. Reed, recently appointed member of the Allegheny County Authority.

Bonitz, who became a director in the bank in 1931, had done business with the bank for many years previous and previous to his becoming a director had obtained a $100,000 loan for his Crescent Brick Company. This note, unsecured, is now listed at $8,001.26.

Bonitz also borrowed $43,500, putting up Crescent Brick Company stock as collateral. This note is appraised at $133.

BONITZ CONFIDENT

Confidence that the bank will be able to pay off its depositors, at least in part, was expressed by Bonitz in an exclusive statement to the Sun-Telegraph. He said:

"Certainly I have notes in the Pennsylvania Trust Company.

"These are not all the obligations I have or have had.

"Every businessman from time to time borrows money, as business in this country is and must be conducted on a credit basis.

"I have met and will meet all my obligations. The money I owe the Pennsylvania Trust Company is a legitimate obligation which will be discharged 100 per cent both for myself and for my company.

"I endeavored, with other substantial businessmen, to save this bank, but the burden placed on it by its previous management proved too great.

"As one who did not come into the bank as a director until 1931, I will do all in my power to see that the depositors are protected.

"I am confident if the liquidation proceeds in an orderly manner the bank can pay all or most of the money owing depositors."

HOPES FOR BEST

Benjamin Page, who was president of the bank until a year and a half before its closing, and his family borrowed approximately $100,000 on notes, most of which are now appraised at $1.

To the Sun-Telegraph Page said:

"I hope it will work out satisfactorily."

Page also indorsed two notes for Floyd E. Clinton, the former bank treasurer, totaling $10,065, and now listed at $1 each.

In addition, Clinton had notes amounting to approximately $54,000 and appraised at approximately $6,000.

Besides having a $300 loan now appraised at $1, Senate Candidate Guffey was indorser on a $9,900 note for Ida V. Guffey, appraised at $106, and a $320 note for James D. F. Schneider, appraised at $1.

Former Congressman Campbell borrowed $655 on a note now listed at $1.

Engelsberg has a note for $5,000, appraised at $1. He told the Sun-Telegraph he had nothing to say about it.

The Mayor's secretary borrowed $940. His note is appraised at $319.17. Moritz explained:

"That note was for a personal loan. It was secured by my interest in a house, and, furthermore, I still have something more than $300 in a savings deposit in the bank."

The note of Detective Dean, indorsed by Schooley, was for $500 and appraised at $1.

W. McK. Reed obtained a $5,000 loan on a note now appraised at $1. It was secured by stock in the closed Third National Bank of which Reed was president. Reed told the Sun-Telegraph:

"I have nothing to say."

JUDGE TO PAY

Judge Piekarski obtained two loans totaling $3,700, now appraised at $431.93. Of these he said:

"Those notes will be paid in full."

Then there are two notes for Herman Friedman, who gained notoriety in the Franklin Savings and Trust failure, amounting to $55,000. One is appraised at $1 and the other at $104.52. Friedman explained:

"These were loans needed in the process of my business. You know what happened to values after the depression set in."

There also are two notes amounting to $5,900 and appraised indorsed by Thomas M. Benner, indorsed by Thomas B. Benner, an assistant city solicitor.

Judge John P. Egan has a note for $1,050, indorsed by John H. Murray, and appraised at $1.

COLLATERAL CITED

W. P. Ortale, recently arrested, charged with embezzling from the Bank of America Trust Company, of which he was president, had a loan for $5,500, and appraised at $1, and his Ortale Contracting Company has another for $11,825 and appraised at $77.50. He also was the indorser on a note for $13,400 for A. Iacovitti, which is appraised at $1.

Ortale said:

"I had 200 shares of the Bank of America Trust as collateral. That was worth more than $15,000 when I obtained my loan before 1931."

Regarding his Ortale contracting loan, he said:

"There is something wrong there, because 500 shares of Mesta Machine stock was put up as collateral for that, and it certainly is worth more than that."

Elmer Whitehill had a $2,000 note, indorsed by Earl F. Reed, former special counsel to the government in the federal vote fraud cases, now appraised at $1.

Benjamin L. Steinberg, a former assistant city solicitor, has five notes totaling $10,855 and appraised at $1 each.

James H. Duff, a director in the bank, had a secured note for $47,820, appraised at $1,218, and another note with J. H. Sanford for $2,387.54, appraised at $1.

Duff had obtained other large loans for a land company in which he is interested. These loans are appraised at their book value.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Duff said:

"I have nothing to add. The accounting speaks for itself."

Heavy real estate holdings and investments contributed to the bank's failure, as revealed in the appraisal.

Bills receivable of the bank had a book value of $1,191,247, while the appraisers, Oliver P. Nicola and W. S. Linderman, list them at $328,381.

Unsecured bills receivable have a book value of $1,328,469 and an appraised value of $235,489.

Mortgages with a book value of $266,492 are appraised at $196,803.

The bank's stocks, listed at $489,683 are appraised at $114,478.

Bonds listed at $146,623 are appraised at $66,646.

An example of the loss by stock investment is given by an investment of $22,718 in Kreuger and Toll Company, appraised at $1.

BANK DEPOSIT TIEUP LOOMS

Depositors of the Bank of America Trust Company cannot be paid their deposit insurance by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation unless the bank is placed in receivership, Leo T. Crowley, head of the FDIC, revealed today.

The bank has been operating on a restricted basis since April 20, when the State Banking Department preferred charges of embezzlement against William P. Ortale, its president.

"All provisions have been made and we are ready to pay the depositors if and when the bank is placed in liquidation by the State Banking Department."

Meanwhile, directors of the bank are still hopeful of a reorganization that will release the deposits without having to place the institution in receivership.

EIGHTY PUPILS SHOW ART

Eighy art pupils at the De Paul Institute for deaf children are proud today to show visitors their art exhibit which will be on display in the gymnasium until June 3.

This was the first year for art classes at De Paul with William McDermott, Carnegie Tech art graduate, in charge of the lessons.

More than half of the 150 students enrolled for the course, and with this encouragement the Rev. Thomas F. Coakley, superintendent, has made plans to extend the course to the entire school during the coming year.

McDermott, the sisters say, has discovered some extraordinary art talent in some of the pupils, including Massa Takagi, Japanese girl.

Visitors are especially impressed, the teachers say, by the pictures showing the flowers of fairyland as the students imagine them.

QUITS WIFE NO. 3 'TO DIE' AT NO. 1'S HOME

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—His December-May romance with wife No. 3 having dissolved in the atmosphere of disillusionment, 76-year-old Samuel Martin, self-styled doctor, was back with wife No. 1 here today. He said:

"I've come home to die."

But the peace he seeks in the winter life may yet elude him.

Wife No. 3—Pretty Ada Bell, of Red Lion, N. J., who celebrated her twientieth birthday yesterday—threatens to bring action in court against the aged lothario, alleging that he deceived her when they were married, last April 2. Before conferring with her attorney in Camden, the daughter of a roadside refreshment stand proprietor declared:

"Before we were married he told me his first wife was dead. I knew his second wife was dead because I went with him last Christmas when he placed a blanket of greens on her grave."

Martin was operating a sanitorium at Vincentown, N. J., when he met the girl who is nearly one-fourth of his age. After their marriage they went to Miami, Fla., on a honeymoon. The girl later returned to her parents' home, while Martin came back to Philadelphia to resume life with the woman to whom he was married 47 years ago.

The first Mrs. Martin today said she has forgiven her husband again. They have three children and several grandchildren. She declared:

"It was just his nature to run after women. He's been doing it all his life. I met him at a temperance meeting at the home of friends in 1885. I was told he was a flirt and he's been at it ever since. We were married two years later."

Martin asked:

"But I always came back, didn't I? I'm through with women. I've come home to die."

$1,100 in Trunk Reported Stolen

When Mrs. Elizabeth Ando, rooming house proprietor, of 735 Railroad street, Springdale, took valuables from a trunk a week ago she neglected to replace a bag containing $1,100. Today she reported to the county detectives that both bag and money were missing. Detective John Duderstadt is investigating.

RUSH TEXT FOR RUSHMORE

Recognition of the trsmendous patriotic influence being created through the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition is expressed in masses of letters accompanying texts submitted to the Pittsburgh Rushmore committee.

As the thousands of participants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia rush their entries in the mails before the closing date of midnight, Memorial Day, May 30, many letters laud the competition as expressed by Melton W. Schulhof, of McKeesport.

Mr. Schulhof wrote:

"I would like to take this opportunity to commend the Sun-Telegraph for its continuous fight in behalf of good government and right now for its magnificent attempt to arouse the spirit of patriotism in our people by sponsoring the Mount Rushmore contest."

The competition being conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers not alone seeks to arouse the patriotic pride of the nation's men, women and youth, but is searching for the natural expression of America's epic from the country's own people.

The Mount Rushmore National Commission will select the best expression of these people and from it form the basis of the inscription which will be carved on the greatest national monument of all times.

While only six days remain for new participants to prepare a text, it is not too late. A special folder containing the rules and list of awards will be mailed free IF a request addressed to the Mount Rushmore Editor, care the Sun-Telegraph, IS ACCOMPANIED BY A STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

KNICKERBOCKER AIRS JAP DEAL IN EUROPE

(Editor's Note—H. R. Knickerbocker, noted correspondent of International News Service and Pulitzer prize winner, discusses in the following article the negotiations launched last week for a Franco-Russian alliance in the light of the question, "Will War Come?" the subject of his recent series of dispatches which attracted international attention. France and Russia, he believes, are heading a movement to reserve the status quo throughout the world as against powers seeking territorial expansion.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

LONDON, May 25.—"Will war come?" is the question which today more than ever has assumed the dominant role in the politics of Europe and Asia and it has now become clear that the latest moves toward re-shuffling Europe's alliances have more than usual significance for America.

For today in London the fact has emerged that it is the Soviets' fear of a Japanese-German military understanding which lies back of the unprecedented proposal of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, to join France in a pact of mutual assistance and, perhaps, to join the League of Nations.

In plain terms, the pact Litvinoff appears to have proposed is a straight-out military alliance, differing in no essential particular from the pre-war Franco-Russian pact. Nothing but the strongest motives could induce the Soviet Union thus to depart from its traditional refusal to ally itself with bourgeois states. Nothing but desperate considerations could induce her to entertain the thought of entering the league.

STRONG MOTIVES

The strong motives and desperate considerations may perhaps be found in the story which, whether true or not, illuminates the fears the Soviet Union shares with France and which may ultimately bring them together in a treaty which would be the most important since Versailles.

It may be remembered that a certain Japanese admiral, visiting Berlin on May 8, delivered an address before the German-Japanese Association in which he declared:

"Our Japanese fatherland finds itself today in approximately the same position as Germany was before the war, but our whole nation is at one in the knowledge it must strive and achieve the fortune and the welfare of the people of the fatherland with all its vigor."

Now, according to the story which informed circles in London are discussing vigorously, this same Japanese admiral, visiting London en route, finally reached Angora. There in the congenial atmosphere of an eastern country, it is related, he urged upon Kemal Pasha the advantages of Turkey joining Germany, Japan and Poland for the partition of Russia and the redistribution of the territory surrounding the Baltic Sea.

Turkey, however, is much too friendly to the Soviet Union to entertain such suggestions and no attempt was made by Turkish sources to keep the conversation secret.

ROOSEVELT VIEW

Whether the Franco-Russian pact becomes a reality or not, what is known of Litvinoff's proposals indicates they are the first attempt to put into practical effect the thought that lay back of President Roosevelt's remarks last year when he said:

"Ninety per cent of the world's population are content with their present territorial limits and are willing to disarm if the others will. The fear that the other 10 per cent may be swayed by that leadership which seeks territorial expansion is responsible for the threat to world peace."

France and the Soviet union appear now to be taking the first step toward organizing some of the 90 per cent against the 10 per cent.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tang which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

U.S. Racer 'Blends' American Flag With Swastika

BERLIN, May 25.—(AP.)—Peter de Paolo, barnstorming United States auto driver, can qualify for the diplomatic corps when he forsakes the speedways. Arriving today to engage in the international races at the Avis track Sunday, de Paolo crossed the Swastika, emblem of the Nazis, with the American flag in paint on the side of his racing car. He was greeted with thunderous applause when he went out for a tune-up spin.

ARMS EMBARGO AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP.)—Equipped with power to forbid the sale of arms and implements of war intended for the Paraguayan-Bolivian conflict, the administration today concentrated upon obtaining the co-operation of adjoining countries on measures intended to end the strife there.

The Senate late yesterday completed congressional action upon a resolution requested by President Roosevelt giving him authority to place a virtual embargo upon munitions shipments to the warring nations.

There remained, however, the task of keeping munitions from reaching them by way of the countries which surround them and shut them off from the sea—Peru, Chile, Brazil and Argentina.

FRANCE BALKS AT ARMS CUT

PARIS, May 25.—(AP.)—Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, today bluntly proclaimed a French policy of "no immediate disarmament of France—no immediate rearmament of Germany."

The Foreign Minister sought to silence war talk in the Chamber of Deputies, where he was under interpellation, by making an emphatic rejection of the idea that a conflict was coming. However, he pledged a strong stand on the matter of German border clashes.

A whole galaxy of French military chieftains, including War Minister Petain, Air Minister Denain and Navel Minister Pietri, is expected to accompany M. Barthou to Geneva next week to back up the French demand for a showdown on the question of armaments.

REVOLT MENACE IN MACEDONIA

SOFIA, May 25. — (AP.) — A mysterious quiet hangs today over most districts of Bulgarian Macedonia—regions which have been the subject of startling rumors since the week-end coup d'etat.

One of the first acts of the new military dictatorship of Premier Kimon Gueorguieff was to partition this stronghold of the dread inner Macedonian revolutionary organization, the Imro, between two provinces, Sofia and Plovdiv, just as though the Imro and "King" Ivan Mihailoff did not exist.

Mihailoff, a fighting man, is the leader of the independence movement in Macedonia, which has been divided among Bulgaria, Greece and Jugo-Slavia.

Rumors of armed conflict between Mihailoff's men and Bulgarian government troops soon filled the air after the partition of Bulgaria's Macedonian territory. But, in a motor tour through the heart of "King" Ivan's country, a correspondent failed to find any evidence of actual fighting.

1,125 MILLIONS VOTED FOR DEPOSITORS

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Relief to the extent of 1,125 million dollars for the depositors of closed banks was agreed upon by the House last night.

The chamber unanimously adopted the Steagall permissive payoff measure which Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, hailed as going "90 per cent of the total of my own full payoff bill."

The measure authorized the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to purchase or make loans on the assets of closed banks after appraising them at their value in normal business times.

While the measure is only permissive, Chairman Crowley, of the FDIC has indicated he will carry out the bank relief authority given him. The House defeated a motion by McLeod to make the provision mandatory.

McLeod served notice he will continue the battle for a vote on his full pay-off measure. A petition to discharge the banking committee from its consideration now lacks only seven of the 145 signatures needed to force it to the floor for a vote on June 11.

The Steagall bill, designed originally only to continue the temporary bank deposit insurance and extend the effective date of the permanent insurance plan for one year, or until July 1, 1935, already has passed the Senate without the pay-off amendment. The pay-off feature must go to conference.

Subway Reveals Hidden Meat Cache

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 25.—(AP.)—Spring cleaning in the subway that follows the course of the old Erie Canal through the city brought to light more than 1,000 pounds of smoked meat.

The meat had been issued to welfare recipients during the winter, and thrown away. So now every applicant at the food depot will be asked if he wants smoked meat before it is given to him.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS :-: :-: :-: By Paul Mallon

Roosevelt Family Has Made $67,000 for Year by Writings

WASHINGTON, May 25. — There is a lot of national backstairs whispering about how much the writing Roosevelts are making out of their literary efforts.

Such talk undoubtedly has been inspired by a Congressman who charged that White House royalties would bring more than $1,000,000 a year. Another Congressman publicly said $500,000. Neither knew what he was talking about.

If you check around among the right people on the inside of the publishing and magazine trade you can get a good idea of the facts. The White House and the publishers consider their writing contracts as personal and confidential, and they probably are right about that. But men on the inside of the writing game know what is going on in their trade and their expert judgment cannot be far wrong.

You may accept the following facts as unofficial but authoritative.

BOOKS

Mr. Roosevelt's first book, "Looking Forward," has sold approximately 30,000 copies at $2.50 retail. The gross income from it, therefore, was around $75,000.

Unquestionably the President received a better royalty than ordinary writers. It would be somewhere between 15 and 20 per cent, probably the latter. On that basis the royalties would amount to about $15,000.

The second book, "On Our Way," has ,to date, reached just about the sale ofthe first book. It will not sell any substantal amount beyond its present sale. It also retails at $2.50, so the royalty from it approximately will be the same.

If you figure the total income to date from the two books at between $25,000 and $30,000, you will be just about correct. Mr. Roosevelt has done no other writing.

MAGAZINES

Mrs. Roosevelt's best contract is supposed to be with a woman's magazine for a monthly article. There is fairly good information available that this contract calls for $1,000 per article. The total proceeds so far cannot be more than $6,000 to $8,000.

The First Lady has written for several feature news syndicates, receiving $500 an article for some and less for others. These are the ones which appear in Sunday newspapers over the country. It is not possible to estimate the proceeds of these closely, but they netted less than $8,000 in the last year. Occasional other magazine articles have brought about $2,000.

An estimate of $20,000 for Mrs. Roosevelt's total output to date would be considered fair.

This means that the literary production of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt was around $50,000 for the first year.

REQUIREMENTS

These are unusually good returns for writing, as writing goes. They are certainly sufficient to keep the wolf away from the door. Little more than just enough to entertain all the wolves who have to be entertained by the Executive.

They offer just about a respectable private income to meet the demands of White House occupancy. For instance, most Presidents have drawn much larger sums than these from their private incomes when they could afford to. The presidency certainly cost Mr. Hoover that much beyond his salary.

There is a congressional appropriation for entertainment and traveling, but only Mr. Coolidge and a few others have been able to stretch that to cover the requirements of the office.

Also, President Roosevelt will be the first President to pay income taxes on his salary. These will amount to around $12,500.

All business arrangements for Mr. Roosevelt's writings are handled by the President's confidential adviser, Louis Howe. He also handles Mrs. Dall's output. Howe knows the business thoroughly and gives nothing away. Unquestionably he aids in the preparation of the articles and puts his final O. K. on them before they go out, but he does very little ghost-writing for his literary charges.

OTHER AUTHORS

Other members of the family receive much less than the parents. Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall is supposed to have received $75 to $100 for most of her magazine articles. Son James got $2,000 for a series of news stories he sent from the yacht Amberjack during the President's cruise last summer. Son Elliott is under a regular contract as aviation editor for a group of newspapers at a figure around $10,000 a year.

Receipts from these undertakings over the past year would be no more than $17,000.

If you add them all up, you will find that the total income of the entire Roosevelt family from literature was no more than $67,000 the first year.

That is a far cry from the days when authors were suppostd to live on crusts of bread in garrets. It is also a long way from $500,000 or $1,000,000.

SPORTS PERIL TUBERCULAR STUDENTS

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP.)—Strenuous high school sports are described by Dr. R. H. McCutcheon, director of the Mont Alto tuberculosis sanitorium, as "suicidal" for many players who unknowingly have a latent form of the White Plague.

Addressing the closing session of the Pennsylvania Public Health Association, he declared the tuberculosis death rate would be lower if children were x-rayed to determine whether they had the disease before they were permitted to play on school teams.

An examination of 30,000 Pennsylvania high school pupils showed 9,000 to have latent tuberculosis and 900 to have it in active form, Dr. McCutcheon said.

Of the 900, 810 were on one or more of their school teams. He asserted:

"The stress and strain placed upon school boys and girls by such athletic activities is injurious even for healthy individuals but for those who are suffering from tuberculosis in a latent form it is suicidal. And there are many such."

Sterilization of the mentally deficient was recommended by Mrs. Edward W. Bixby, Wilkes-Barre welfare worker. She said:

"The percentage of mentally deficient and congenitally diseased children under public care is increasing with great rapidity. With taxes rising by leaps and bounds to meet unemployment and poor relief, sterilization is nothing less than a necessity."

Bullet Holes That Spelled Death

THE BULLET-RIDDLED CAR IN WHICH CLYDE BARROW AND 'SUICIDE SAL' CAME TO DEATH

You can count the bullet holes in this car—some of about 160 that pierced it in the fierce fusillade of bullets from the guns of ambushing peace officers who brought to a bitter, fatal end a chase of 15,000 miles after Clyde Barrow, handit and killer, and his gal, Bonnie Parker. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

U. S. Agents Shot Battling Smugglers

EL PASO, Tex., May 25.—(AP.)—Two United States customs officers were wounded, one seriously, and two suspected smugglers are believed to have been shot in an exchange of fire on the Rio Grande near Fabens last night.

The suspects opened fire on the officers when they were ordered to halt on the American side.

OUTLAW, GIRL PART IN DEATH

DALLAS, Tex., May 25.—(AP.)—Contrary to her own prediction, Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow, her companion in crime for the past two years, won't be buried side by side.

Their sorrowing mothers made other plans yesterday as the bullet-riddled bodies of the outlaw couple were brought here from Arcadia, La., where they were trapped and killed by officers.

In a poem written several months ago, Bonnie had predicted she would be buried by the side of the Southwest's No. 1 outlaw.

Private services were arranged for Clyde, free from the curious mob that pushed and jostled past his bier in an undertaking parlor last night. Burial will be in the West Dallas Cemetery.

Bonnie's relatives were reluctant to announce funeral plans, but they indicated she would be buried in another cemetery a mile away.

Track Meet, Phil Baker On Radio

The government hasn't confiscated all the letters in the alphabet for administrative groups.

There's still the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field meet, and you'll hear a description of its various events broadcast from Franklin Field, Philadelphia, over WCAE and WJAS this afternoon at various intervals.

Thirty-six college teams participate in the contests.

* * *

"The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," "Love, Goodbye," and the "Bell Song" are among Jessica Dragonette's solos offered during her WCAE concert tonight at 8 o'clock.

* * *

PHIL HARRIS

Quin Hall, cartoonist, rates Phil Harris and Leah Ray among the most pleasing radio entertainers. They're heard over KDKA at 9 p. m.

* * *

Fred Hufsmith, tenor, is guest soloist on the "One Night Stand" program on WCAE tonight at 9:30.

Pick and Pat and Joseph Bonime's orchestra supply the comedy and instrumental background.

* * *

Robert Garland, president of City Council, recalls some of the highlights of his 23 year's service in that august aggregation, when he speaks over WCAE tonight at 7:15 as guest of the Four Service Men and the cab driver's band.

* * *

JACK DENNY

Jack Denny's band, Jeannie Lang and Jack Whiting entertain the WJAS listeners from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

* * *

Jimmy Murray recreates the second game of the Pirates-Braves series on KQV at 3:15 this afternoon.

* * *

Jesse Hawkins' musicians play for the KQV dance fans at 10:30 p. m.

* * *

Ray Strumm strums his banjo and hums a few tunes for his WWSW audience at 8:30 this evening.

* * *

"The Home I Hated," a $500 prize story, is dramatized over WJAS at 8:30 p. m., as the Court of Human Relations presentation.

* * *

Phil Baker regales the KDKA listeners at 9:30.

* * *

Antonio Modarelli, conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, makes his first personal appearance before a microphone during the Symphony String Quartet's recital over KDKA tonight at 7:30.

Modarelli is interviewed by Richard S. Rauh, secretary of the Symphony Society.

Joy Lynne

This young songbird, of Turkish descent, is heard over WCAE every Friday night at 10:30 with Mary Livingston, Jack Benny and Don Bestor's orchestra.

STALLION HELD FOR RANSOM

LOUISA, Ky., May 25.—(AP.)—The ransom racket has invaded the Kentucky mountains.

A registered stallion owned by Dr. R. C. Moore, veterinarian and former Lawrence County judge, was taken from his stall in the dead of night.

The horsenapers tacked a ransom note on the barn door. It demanded $500, but a postscript added:

"This horse ain't worth what we furst thot; bring $250."

Dr. Moore, who values the four-year-old Percheron at $500 no matter what the horsenapers think he is worth, was instructed:

"Come to Town Hill tonight at twelve. Start walking from Bill Fisher house to gate. Go in cemetery, when you hear whistle like Bob White drop money on road and keep walkin."

Dr. Moore turned the note over to authorities, and announced he would not meet the ransom demand.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Is there a youngster who is not excited over the news that the magicians are coming to town? The Society of American Magicians is conventioning in Pittsburgh, and tomorrow night at 6:30 the Globe Trotter will introduce the national president, William McCafferey.

Then, girls and boys, we'll find out where the disappearing lady goes when she disappears.

* * *

Talking about future broadcasts, I'm sure that all the blind will be on hand for the Monday noontime broadcast when Margaret L. Miller, executive secretary of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Blind Pensions, will explain the procedure necessary to make application for the pension voted not long ago by the people of Pennsylvania for the blind.

Appointment cards are being sent out today or tomorrow to all of the blind who have registered already with the Mothers' Assistance Fund.

Those who have not registered can send me a postal saying, "I am interested in the pension for the blind."

I'll register the names I receive at the Mothers' Assistance Fund of Allegheny County and appointment cards will be sent out to them later.

Mrs. Neil Shope, East Liverpool.—My best advice on the subject is to contact Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh. The elimination of termites is a highly technical and scientific operation. Replacing infested wood doesn't always give permanent relief.

Celebrate Italy's Entry Into War

Cavalier Don Leone Sireana, Italian vice consul, was honor guest at a celebration of the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the World War in Victoria Club, 1714 Forbes street, last night. Speakers included John B. Fortunate, national grand master of the Italian Sons and Daughters of America; John S. Aldisert, state grand master; H. Carletti, lodge master, and R. Ludovici, secretary.

Jimmy Long Gives Sports Review

At 4:45 this afternoon, the Slippery Rock High School Quartet appears on the Sun-Telegraph Family program from the studios of WCAE.

William B. Rodgers, president of Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, speaks at 5:15 from WCAE in behalf of the safety campaign of the Pennsylvania Highway Department.

At 6 o'clock, James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports authority, reviews and previews the major activities in athletics.

Hal Kemp

Hal brought his orchestra to Pittsburgh for a week's stay that has been prolonged into a month. He remains in the Urban Room until June 1, with Dick Fidler and his bandsmen take his place.

DASH TO SAVE BABY FAILS

His parents unable to pay for medical treatment, 4-month-old Lawrence Dyer, Jr., died in the arms of his mother shortly before midnight as he was being rushed by police to South Side Hospital to ward off pneumonia.

The baby had been ill for three days. Dr. V. N. Fields, of the City Health Department, was called. Last night the infant grew weaker. Dr. Fields had paid a visit earlier in the day.

Mrs. Dyer, whose husband has been unemployed for a year, called police and pleaded for aid. Thomas Titus and William Braddock, South Side patrolmen, answered the appeal in a scout car.

At the Dyer home at 68 Roscoe street, police found the baby in a weakened condition and told his mother he should be taken to a hospital. She assented, wrapped him in a blanket and, holding him in her arms, rode in the police car to the hospital. When they arrived, the baby was dead.

Lombardo's Orchestra In Town

Guy Lombardo arrived in town today for a week's stay.

* * *

Behind the news of Guy's switch from Columbia to the NBC waves in July, is the story of a pledge which has run out.

It was Lombardo's pledge that he would not leave the CBS kilocycles for five years. The five years are now up, and Lombardo has made his choice.

It was back in the days of Guy's obscurity, when he was playing at the Granada in Chicago. The proprietor was practically broke, but wanted to go on the air through WBBM, Columbia's Chicago outlet today.

The owner of WBBM was Ralph Atlass. He liked the Lombardo band, and saw its possibilities, and he volunteered to put the Granada on the air without counting on any fees.

Both the proprietor and Lombardo were grateful. Lombardo for the sake of his boss, pledged he would never leave Atlass or any station he was associated with for five years.

Though other opportunities have come along, Guy has turned them all down, until now, when his pledge expires.

* * *

SYMPHONY

Four solid hours of symphony a week is the answer of the Columbia Broadcasting System to the question, "Do you think the radio audience wants better music than just a round of dance tempos, even though the latter are adroitly and beautifully presented?"

"We do," replied the executives at CBS-WJAS, "and that's why we have booked the Detroit Symphony at the Chicago fair for Saturdays, at 9:30 p. m.; Sundays at 3 p. m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4 p. m. Each of the concerts to consume 60 minutes."

The move toward all this time for one symphony orchestra sets a precedent in radio booking, particularly when the presentations are to be without commercial aspects.

A network must be fairly certain of the audience preference when it leans over that far on the side of the classical type of melody.

* * *

Pulling Straws

Lanny Ross is in a quandary about his future. He is uncertain whether to take the road to further radio fame, or turn down the other lane to enduring cinema success.

He must make the decision before going westward in July, to make two pictures.

Regardless of what rumors may have been passed around, Lanny and his sponsor are on the friendliest of terms and Lanny is free to decide whether to return in October to "Showboat," go on for another of his sponsor's wares, or give up the microphone altogether.

He is vacationing from "Showboat" while on the coast, because one-way wire cut-ins from Hollywood make the broadcasting a bit awkward, and a two-way wire is not available until daylight saving time is over, and the city of Omaha cut in.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Fran Eichler's band moves back to its old spot, being billed tonight from 6:15 to 6:45.

Prof. Herbert L. Spencer is scheduled for an early evening talk in the interest of the "Cathedral Drive."

Other features—Paul Gannon's songs at 6:45 and Eddie Peyton's band at 11:30.

Pontiff Receives American Students

VATICAN CITY, May 25.—(AP.)—Pope Pius gave a special audience to 60 alumni and 200 students of the American College at Rome on the occasion of the college's celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding.

The students were accompanied by Monsignor Eugene S. Burke, Jr., of Newark, N. J., the rector of the college, and the Rev. George A. Parker, of Chicago, president of the alumni association.

Radio Car to Aid Dog Catchers In Denver

DENVER, May 25.—(AP.)—It'll be a nimble dog that evades Denver's dog catchers from now on.

Recently equipped with fast automobiles, the dog snatchers are about to acquire radios.

The theory is that an irate housewife can report a pooch digging up her dahlia bed and before the last bulb is unearthed the officer will be standing over the culprit with his patented "dog grabber."

Irish Dail Votes Senate Abolition

DUBLIN, May 25.—(AP.)—President Eamon De Valera's bill to abolish the Free State Senate was finally passed by the Dail Eireann, or House, today, by a vote of 54 to 38.

De Valera charged the Senate with being "an absolute menace" and said it had gone out of its way to wreck legislation sponsored by him.

Rubber Heels Fool Pen's Electric Eye

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP.)—When they called the roll of inmates of the detective bureau's "escape proof jail," George Spina was missing.

He had slipped by the "electric eye," an apparatus which rings a bell whenever a bit of metal on a prisoner comes near, despite his 240 pounds. Detectives said they thought he wore rubber heels.

Fourth Lesson in Model Building Lists Necessary Materials to Use

By LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director.

(Editor's Note—The jury of 12 prominent national motto contest committeemen and committee women having failed to submit their verdict on the prize winning motto at the time this column was ready to go to press, I substitute this fourth lesson in our model construction course for beginners in place of the announcement of the result of our national motto contest which I had hoped I would be able to publish for you today.)

JUNIOR BIRDMEN MODEL BUILDERS' COURSE FOR BEGINNERS.

LESSON IV.—Materials (Continued.)

Before continuing with this lesson I want to call to your attention once more the fact that the materials listed, described and discussed in this article are those which are generally used by model builders for all types of craft and are not the materials we will use in the construction of our first model, which will be a glider. The glider will use but few of the materials mentioned here.

However, before starting on our glider next Tuesday, it is advisable to know more about materials in general for all model planes.

Rubber Power

After the balsa wood, which was discussed in our last lesson, the most important material in the construction of a model is rubber strand, which gives us the motor power to operate the propeller and send our craft on its way through the air lanes.

Bruce Moorhouse

Rubber strand for model airplanes (figure 2 in last Tuesday's column) looks like a long rubber band that has been cut and straightened out. It comes in two varieties, flat and square, and in many sizes.

You can use the size you think most suitable, and this comes to you after tests, experiments and experience. As a general guide, model builders have found that a one-thirty second (1-32) of an inch square rubber is just about the best for light indoor models as the baby rise-off-ground type, which will be the second model you will build in this course.

Lindo Watkins

Then there is the three-sixty-fourths (3-64) of an ich square, which most model builders prefer for the larger rise-off-ground models. The one-eighth (⅛) of an inch flat rubber is probably the most popular of all sizes.

Covering Materials

When we come to flying models we will want to cover our wings and tail unit with a fabric just like real aircraft. Fabric cloth would be too heavy for our models, so we turn to an alternative—usually Japanese tissue.

There are various grades and types of Japanese tissue, such as rice paper, hakone, bamboo, superfine, etc. The average sheet of tissue costs about five cents.

Some model builders even prefer to use a lightweight Japanese silk but I do not recommend this to you. Tissue is much better.

Microfoil, a new substance that any boy or girl can make right at home, is gaining in favor and, although difficult to handle, it is one of the lightest of all coverings and enhances the beauty of the model.

Other Materials For Models

In our lesson on tools I told you that we use a quick-drying cement, never nails, to keep our wood members together. There are many cements on the market for model builders. Ambroid is about the best, for it is light, waterproof and has excellent adhesive power. Model builders' cement can be purchased in either small tubes or bottles at any model builders' supply store for 10 cents.

Another liquid used in model construction work is "dope." When covering your wing, tail unit and other parts with Japanese tissue, it is impossible to put it on so that there are absolutely no wrinkles. After the covering dries we then take our dope and coat the tissue with it. This makes it tight and taut.

The only other materials generally used for model work are small washers or bearings which are purchased ready made for about three cents a dozen and bamboo strips which are used only on the more advanced models.

Our First Model

In our next lesson, which will appear in this column on Tuesday we will actually get under way with our first model—a baby soaring glider.

Be sure you watch for Tuesday's column and obtain the complete list of materials that will be needed for the construction of the non-power craft. It will be a dandy featherweight flier.

The first pictures of our Junior Bidmen members are those of Lindo Watkins, of State Street, Timblin, Pa., and Bruce Moorhouse, of 741 Highland Avenue, Greensburg, Pa. Lindo is Charter Member No. 4, while Bruce's number is 513. Send your pictures in!

STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKY

SHE LOST 27 LBS. IN 8 WEEKS HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE DOWN, TOO

"I am more than glad I used the SYL-VETTE method to reduce because I lost 27 pounds in 8 weeks. And it served a double purpose in my case. When I started taking SYL-VETTE my blood pressure was 245 and it came down to 150 while using it, so I cannot praise this delicious food enough. I felt wonderful all the time I was reducing, and feel better now than I have for years. SYL-VETTE certainly does satisfy the appetite and also improves you physically."

Mrs. Alberta Noland, 306 N. Wabash St., Wheeling, W. Va.

NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.

SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week—10 to 15 pounds a month—which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too—30 slenderizing meals 1.00.

The Private Papers of a Reporter

Interesting story this one about some of the better known stars . . . Before Hollywood was known around the world, there was a restaurant owner, who was known only as John . . . John's place was the third eating establishment habited by the cinema sinners . . . John, a Greek, became the "angel" of those who were seeking their place in the Hollywood sun—and today he is broke . . . The depresh got John—even as you and the other fellow . . . John went through some old papers recently—and imagine his surprise when he happened across a few "tabs"—still unpaid . . . Among them were: Charlie Chaplin—$15 . . . Hoot Gibson—$22 . . . Adolphe Menjou was another and a fourth was Darryl Zanuck—all of them now in the heavy money division . . . The late Barbara La Marr at one time owed John $480 . . . When she got back into the money, however, she paid off . . . John now runs a hole-in-the-wall dining den in Hollywood—we merely thought that Charlie, Adolphe and Hoot would like to know.

My confreres have already jotted down exciting passages about Ben Marden's recently-revived Riviera, across the Washington Bridge . . . It is only proper that this corner salute them all for improving on their reporting . . . For the rendezvous, indeed, is one of the superior spots . . . The girls are frocked beautifully, the better to admire, of course, and Fred Berren's capable crew contributes to the carnival capers . . . Una Villon's torso shifting serves to synchronize the tempos (instead of Berren's directing—this young lady directs the tooters with her wiggling), and there are numerous other exciting events . . . The star is Harry Richman, whose song sermons were never better . . . Richman, one means to add, sings with such abandon—and so deliberately—that his half hour (or an hour) of solo entertainment seems too short . . . To coin a word, Richman is vocoiossal.

I learn that networkers have come back to their senses—and removed the restriction against the word "Thy" in the smash hit, "Love Thy Neighbor" . . . Because, it appears, the ruling (ridiculous as it was) was snubbed by the stars on the air, particularly Bing Crosby . . . It was some comfort, too, to learn last night that in Britain it is considered good form to use the fork with the left paw . . . Because for too many reasons—this left-hander served as the target for the eyebrow lifters, when he dined with them . . . In London, they tell me, when Americans cut their food—and then shift the fork from the left to the right mitt—the Britishers are amused . . . Talk about being in a spot—I'm certainly in one. My favorite Irishman for the past few years has been and still is—James McLarnin, the best of the legal murderers . . . And I go in a tremendous way—for Barney Ross! . . . Imagine then—next Monday night when that gong gongs! . . . I hope it's a draw.

Have a shudder on me . . . I got it from following one of the better editorial writers . . . He discovered an advertisement by an American munitions maker, as quoted by a Senator from Michigan . . . It follows: "Fragments of this shell become coated with acid. Wounds caused by these fragments mean death in terrible agony within four hours" . . . Wonder if the Mayor knows about this aggravation . . . An American Legion Post in Richmond Hill (L. I.) arranged to bring 25,000 cigarettes and a minstrel show to the war veterans at Northport, L. I., on May 13 . . . In order to transport the cast and luggage, they used several buses . . . The Sunday traffic, of course, interfered . . . And so Commander L. J. Kearns requested a police escort for the ride through the congested area . . . In Queens it was refused . . . The State Troopers, however, aided when the Legion members crossed the city line. But the New York Police Department couldn't be bothered . . . The 500 disabled men you see, were not important . . . This is 1934—not 1917! . . . But all foreign diplomats (ritz for money borrowers) and even the King of Siam rate screaming sirens and motor cops!!!

The mail that comes in a day is not always easy to juggle . . . One of the more intelligently prepared letters is from a fugitive from justice, who now is a respectable executive—handling from 50 to 75 thousand in cash a day . . . He urges me to help him get a pardon—so that he can sleep nights . . . Home towners, it appears, encounter him and know his disgrace—and shake him down for hush coin . . . He is going mad . . . I will use his letter one day . . . Here in the column without his name or any tip-off, of course . . . But another letter leaves me a little ill . . . It is from a lady, whose chorus man husband has treated her shabbily . . . His abuse and neglect distresses her so—the child died soon after birth . . . He told her that if she didn't promote money for him—that he could easily get it from his Broadway girl friends . . . And that he will arrange a divorce for her, too . . . She urges me to counsel her . . Of course, it is none of my business, and there is nothing I can do to help her . . . I know too many lads and lassies, who wound up behind the well-known eight ball trying to interfere with married people . . . But this is what floored me in her sad letter . . . She just left the hospital and is very weak and without friends—and is so helpless . . . And her last line reads . . . "I could tell you his name, but he is going to open in a new show soon—and I would not like to hurt him!!!"

THEATERS -:- Comment on New Shows -:- HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD

E. Caruso, Jr., No Longer Bachelor

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, May 25.—Hello. Gathering up the loose strands of the week-end's news notes.

It was some time ago that Enrico Caruso, Jr., took out an intention to wed notice. In fact, everybody (including the snoopers) forgot to check up—but he's married, and has been for a couple of weeks!

* * *

Somebody asked Stepin Fetchit Hollywood's laziest inky-complexioned actor, if he took any sitting-up exercises, and he replied:

"No, suh—ah just take mah exercise sittin' down!"

* * *

Wanderings Around Hollywood: Hazel Forbes, the tooth powder heiress, tried the movies merely as something to do, and ended up with a nice, long-term ticket at RKO. And, what's more, she'll be groomed for featured roles . . . The Clover Club, which has been rather quiet of late, is about to feature the Yacht Club Boys . . . Chester Morris is out of the stellar role in "Romance in the Rain" at Universal. Roger Pryor replaces him . . . Gordon Westcott got the worst end of an auto smash and is laid up for a couple of days . . . The Andy Devines are baby buggy shopping . . . Buck Mack went back to Broadway with Frank Fay to play a stooge in a flock of personal appearances.

* * *

The Brown Derby lowered its prices and such celebs as Mickey Walker, Jack Kearns, Dave Rubinoff, Hedda Hopper and Marjorie Rambeau with "Klondike Kate" Rockwell were all nibbling at the newest tasties . . . The Harry Joe Browns (Sally Eilers) and the Milton Breens, a-sailing for Honolulu, invited folks down to the docks to wave at, but all in vain. During the dock strike visitors and goodby-sayers aren't allowed!

Frank Buck, the bring-'em-back - alive - or-sometimes-unconscious animal feller, entertained His Highness, Sir Ibrahim, the Sultor of Johore, and the Sultan at the Biltmore Bowl t'other eve . . . Universal is angling for George M. Cohan to do the title role in "The Great Ziegfeld." My choice would be Frank Morgan—if anyone asked me, which they didn't . . . Vera Stedman (remember her as a Christie comedy star?) got a nice role in "Ladies First," which Gil Pratt directs for Paramount.

Bills for the Children Saturday Morning

At special matinees for children at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, sponsored by women's organizations, there will be stage acts in the Enright, East Liberty, and Harris South Hills theaters. Attractions will be "Popeye," from Ripley's Odditorium, Sailor Jack and his dog, and Joe Allen, "Human Corkscrew." Mrs. George W. Postgate will be in charge of the Enright show, and Mrs. C. W. Scheck, in the South Hills. The screen in the Enright will offer Tom Mix in "Hidden Gold" and "Three Little Pigs." The Mix will be seen in the South Hills, too, in "Flaming Guns," and there also will be a Mickey Mouse and "Our Gang" films.

Steamer Excursion Sunday, June 3

The excursion steamer Washington will open her season here Sunday, June 3, when she will operate an excursion to Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va. The Washington has been in winter quarters at Paducah, Ky., where she was completely redecorated and remodeled. A new amplifying system has been installed in the ballroom, where Hardesty's Californians will play.

In charge will be Captain E. F. Mabrey, C. W. Elder, purser; Kenneth Booth, mate; Captain P. Elsey and W. Pollock, pilots; William Emmick, chief engineer; J. G. Broadway, second engineer; J. M. Thomas, quartermaster, and J. Ross, officer.

Humorist As Actor

Irvin S. Cobb, writer and humorist, in first photoplay role, steamboat captain in film tentatively titled "Fisherman's Luck." This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Mystery and Murder Grip Fulton Audience

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

An interesting and neatly handled mystery thriller, "Murder In Trinidad," screen feature in the Fulton, will keep you glued to your seat—figuratively speaking, of course. Furthermore the solution of a couple of murders and putting the finger on an elusive diamond smuggler will prove to be so baffling that the best amateur detective in the house will be puzzled. We'll go further and say "professional" instead of "amateur." We'll even go as far as to admit that the one who is proven the cluprit, is among those you'll suspect—but then you'll suspect everybody.

"Murder In Trinidad" is straight melodrama without any haunted rooms, clutching hands or screams in the dark to set your nerves on edge while you wrestle with the problem, but there is a nice swamp filled with aligators and such to give it a touch of the horrific if you must have it.

In the featured roles are Nigel Bruce, Heather Angel and Victor Jory, the former as a Scotland Yard detective sent to Port of Spain, Trinidad, by the British government, to clean up diamond smuggling that has proven too much for the local authorities. Soon after his arrival an attempt is made to murder him. Then he finds that an assistant has been killed. Next the Governor goes the same way—stabbed by a knife of peculiar pattern. Follows the disappearance of a suspect and his daughter.

That's the situation, and you are left to suspect an army officer, who has been trying to solve the case, the Governor's secretary, a rich planter, a businessman and another government attache. To help you are several clues that you see come into the hands of the detective, but we rather think you'll have to do as the detective does—employ a ruse to make the criminal reveal himself.

It is very well acted—especially by Bruce. The romantic interest is small, but is nicely carried by Miss Angel and Douglas Walton. Victor Jory plays a suave chap capably, and Francis Ford plays the rich planter with quiet assurance.

So Herbert Clicks In Warner

By KARL KRUG

The chief claim to distinction, if any, possessed by "Merry Wives of Reno," the first half of the new double bill in the Warner, is the sly comedy of Hugh Herbert, who easily walks away with all honors from a cast that includes Glenda Farrell, Guy Kibbee, Donald Wood, Margaret Lindsay and Frank McHugh, of the Homestead McHughs.

Under a gigantic sombrero and leading a sheep, which he calls "Eloise," by a string, the ingratiating Mr. Herbert is the life and laughter of "Merry Wives of Reno," which more than once sags, sways and bends in the middle, but always with Mr. Herbert to call upon for aid in getting it back on its feet.

Miss Farrell, who more often than not, can be counted on to give a satisfactory performance, flounders somewhat as she attempts the tactics and drawl of Miss Mae West in this talkie of two wives who took their supposed troubles to the Nevada divorce center. Once the action shifts from New York to Reno, the film is fairly funny and lightly entertaining, with Frank McHugh contributing mildly to the mirth.

There are brief glimpses of "Wild" Reno goings-on, talk about pajama parades in hotel corridors and several bedroom shots in the best Hollywood manner, but when and if "Merry Wives of Reno" is mentioned the conversation must center around Mr. Herbert, who certainly merits the chance at featured comedy roles which I hear the Warners are to give him.

If the story and acting of "Wharf Angel" matched the fine attention to atmospheric detail that Paramount has lavished on this production the result would no doubt, have been far more satisfactory. "Wharf Angel" serves to introduce Miss Dorothy Dell in her first featured part, and while the role is far from an inspiring one, the young lady, who resembles Sam Goldwyn's costly importation, Anna Sten, gives certain indications of having what it takes.

Such stalwarts of melodrama as Victor McLaglen, Preston Foster and David Landau take part in "Wharf Angel," laid chiefly on the San Francisco waterfront. In the role of Mother Bright, keeper of a Barbary Coast dive, is Miss Allison Skipworth, who might, if someone went to the trouble of giving her the proper roles, develop into another Dressler.

The plot is the time-honored "Triangle", with Miss Dell flanked by such husky lovers as McLaglen and Foster. However, neither McLaglen nor Foster are aware of the other's intentions toward the girl, who gives up a life of sin, as they always do in the movies, for love of Foster, a soap-box orator, wanted for murder, cast up among the flotsam and jetsam of the Frisco dens of iniquity. McLaglen, as usual, loses the girl, but only after a sacrifice of very noble proportions for a tramp steamer hold stoker.

The feature to lay your money on in the Warner program is one of the Vitapnone Pepper Pot series, a delight to the eye and a joy to the ear as it unfolds a number of by-gone melodies, warbled chiefly by singing waiters in the saloons that dotted the land in 1914. Those foaming schooners sliding the entire length of the bar to an accurate anchorage are especially recommended for all students of the bartending schools.

Two Backed By Stars

Stuart Holmes, actor-astrologist, predicts just who among the 13 Wampas baby stars will win success on the screen. He picks only two of the aspiring young actresses for certain realization of their dreams. Four others, he says, will have moderate success and the remaining seven probably will become character actresses. He also predicts secret love affairs for six of the starlets. The two lucky ones, according to his horoscope, will be Lu Ann Meredith, of Dallas, Tex., and Katherine Williams, from Seattle, Wash. The four who can look forward to moderate success are Judith Arlen, Hollywood; Helen Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan; Jean Carmen, from Portland, Ore., and Lucille Lund, from Buckley, Wash. The latter's success, according to Holmes, will be in the writing instead of the acting field.

Which leaves Jacqueline Wells, Ann Hovey, Hazel Hayes, Dorothy Drake, Gigi Parrish, Jean Gale and Betty Bryson to think about it.

Star In Disguise Proves Point

At a Hollywood party, Mae Clarke, Sidney Blackmer and Ralph Bellamy were discussing the importance of "breaks" in pictures. Miss Clarke bet Bellamy that she could get a job in a studio under an assumed name. Wearing a red wig, she went to Paramount and saw Joe Egli, of the casting department. He commented on her resemblance to Mae Clarke, and she replied that that was one of the reasons why she was trying to get picture work. He promised her a test

The Columnist Interviews Himself

HERE'S another of those interview columns that say so much and mean so little. Have a groan on me:

QUESTION: Good morning, Mr. Hellinger. Do you enjoy the hot weather?

ANSWER: Not at all.

Q. That's strange. A few weeks ago you told me you didn't like the cold weather.

A. That proves my even disposition.

Q. How do you like the new State liquor laws?

A. Which of the 7,894 are you talking about?

Q. Why, you know. The one that now permits you to drink hard liquor against a bar.

A. It's okay with me, but the Broadwayites don't like it.

Q. Why not?

A. They say that now, even at bars, their girls can give them a stand-up.

Q. Is that good?

A. Skip it.

Q. What's your opinion of General Hugh Johnson?

A. I think he's doing some excellent work.

Q. Some folks say no.

A. Can I help it if some people are Darrow-minded?

Q. You mean narrow-minded, don't you, Mr. Hellinger?

A. Skip it.

Q. How about a few theme songs, sir?

A. Shoot.

Q. Give me a theme song for a hospital.

A. "The Beat of My Heart."

Q. Okay. Now give me one for Huey Long.

A. "The House Is Haunted."

Q. Not bad. Let's get serious for a moment. What's the best book you've read in recent weeks?

A. "Finnley Wren," a new novel by Phil Wylie.

Q. What's the best picture you've seen lately?

A. "Little Miss Marker."

Q. What's the best mystery play of the season?

A. Invitation to a Murder," at the Masque Theater.

Q. Who's the most beautiful girl in the world?

A. Skip it.

Q. Did you read about Jean Harlow's latest divorce?

A. I should say so. I never miss one.

Q. What did you think of it?

A. Well, with her husbands, it seems to be a case of "Harlow and goodbye."

Q. And how do you think Hal Rosson, her photographer-husband feels about it?

A. Well, as Jack Berger says, he must have discovered that married life isn't all he had pictured it.

Q. You seem a bit skeptical about Hollywood. If you had your choice of jobs in Hollywood, what would you take?

A. The first train East.

Q. Let's turn to politics for a change. What do you think of Herbert Hoover's chances in the next Presidential election?

A. Much smaller than one of his collars.

Q. What does that mean?

A. Necks to nothing.

Q. I don't quite get you.

A. Skip it.

Q. Tell me, Mr. Hellinger. Who's going to win the big fight?

A. It looks like Mae Murray.

Q. No, no. You don't understand. I mean between Baer and Carnera.

A. I'm going to bet on Carnera.

Q. Why?

A. Because I want Baer to win.

Q. You don't know your logic.

A. You don't know your Hellinger.

Q. I suppose you've heard the news that Peggy Joyce is going into the cosmetic business?

A. She'll probably find that it's not what it's painted.

Q. You mean you think she won't succeed?

A. Don't be silly. All she needs as customers are the wives of her ex-husbands and she'll clean up a fortune.

Q. Don't you think we should have something in here about Dillinger?

A. Okay with me. I just found out from Howard Snyder why the police refuse to dicker with John.

Q. What's the reason?

A. They hate his gats.

Q. Did I understand you correctly?

A. Skip it.

Q. I hear that there may be some governmental changes shortly.

A. Good. In what direction?

Q. All right, let's quit for the day.

A. Wait a minute. You can't do that. I've got to find a good last line.

Q. I have a better idea than that.

A. What is it?

Q. Skip it . . . . .

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

More and more are actors who succumb to the lure of Hollywood gold taking pains to secure anchorage on the stage while they experiment with the drama as expressed in terms of the studio. Latest to accept an invitation from Movieland is Henry Hull, star of one of the successes of the New York season, "Tobacco Road." Mr. Hull has signed a five-year contract with Universal, withholding to himself, however, the right to return to the stage for at least six months of each 12. He will make his bow in "The Red Cat." It will not be his screen debut, however, inasmuch as he appeared in at least one silent picture some years back. Perhaps before the expiration of his contract, Mr. Hull may decide that Hollywood's climate suits him, and that he will join the permanent colony. Especially if he should make a big hit. The Barrymore boys seem to have forgotten all about the stage, with which their name was once more distinctly associated than with the movies. Walter Connolly had an escape to the stage in his film contract but he has stayed a long time in Hollywood. So has Mary Boland. Charles Laughton has just gone back to the photoplay center, after a London season of Shakespeare. About the only stage players of prominence who have resisted appeals of studios to forsake their first love, the stage, have been Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and Katharine Cornell.

* * *

Baby ReLoy, it appears, has taken to making public appearances. At least, he was a center of interest among women attending the motion picture conference of the American Federation of Women's Clubs in Los Angeles. He was photographed with a group of prominent western club women.

* * *

Some managers of shows appearing in small towns—there are still a few—seem to feel that there eventually will be a revival of repertoire. There remains some demand for drama everywhere, and since, in the present status of the theater, there is no chance of seeing the prominent touring companies, that go only into the larger cities, it is felt that repertoire is the answer. But it will be different from the ten-twenty-thirts of old. The small town folks don't want the ancient played-out stuff, and they don't want the sophisticated or moody plays of New York. Perhaps a school of authors will be developed to suit the rural taste—writers of real life for small casts that can be inexpensively presented.

Your Theater and Mine -:- By KARL KRUG

Prof. Philip Harold Spitalny, the big tune and melody maker, who relishes nothing if not a little get-together with the newspaper boys, once told me that the return of long skirts was responsible for the prevailing slow dance tempo of the moment and promised to lead the nation away from the menace. In other words, a fox trot was no longer a fox trot as the Professor defined a dance.

As the professor likes to see his name in the public prints I never checked up on his prophecy that he would soon be playing four notes to the bar instead of eight, and the only reason I recall the conversation (the professor kept a straight face during the entire interview) is because another of the dance band maestros, Guy Lombardo, who brings his Royal Canadians to the Stanley today, is now certain that the day of the fast terpsichorean tempo is over.

One of the leading exponents of languorous rhythms, Prof. Lombardo (he may as well hold the same rank as Prof. Spitalny) bases his opinion on "an observation that leads him to believe that the public is more emotional and romantically inclined than at any time during the past 10 years." To which I can only repeat that I wouldn't know.

It seems that the professor must have heard about "Roberta," because he takes great pains to assure me that the folks want to dance with tears in their eyes, and most emphatically declares that "that type of music which achieves an emotional effect cannot be played rapidly for people to pant through."

And so, because Prof. Lombardo believes that dancing should be a graceful and comfortable art, he will continue indefinitely to put the brakes on jazz and keep it within the physical limit of young and old. Proving what? Proving that between Profs. Spitalny and Lombardo I got a "lead" for a column.

THAW CASE IN TALKIE

In M-G-M's publicity anent "Manhattan Melodrama," the new screen arrival at the Penn, and, incidentally, a very good picture, is a story in which Pittsburghers will be especially interested. It concerns the shooting of Stanford White by Harry Thaw, which is touched on briefly in "Manhattan Melodrama." The killing was witnessed by "Diamond Jim" Brady, who was escorting the lovely Lillian Russell. Grace George was also there, as was Virginia Earle. But, strangely enough, M-G-M found on its own payroll during the making of the picture a man who not only was present when Thaw killed White but the author of the show, "Mamzelle Champagne," which was being presented when the shooting took place. He is Edgar Allan Woolf, playwright and scenarist.

Woolf was a student at Columbia when he wrote "Mamzelle Champagne." It was prepared for student presentation, but a Broadway producer saw it and decided it would be an appropriate vehicle for the old Madison Square Garden roof. Woolf confesses that the show was pretty terrible on the opening night. He had taken his mother to the premiere, but his pride was quickly shattered by the comments of people at nearby tables. The present day's most popular descriptive term, lousy, wasn't in usage then, but Woolf says his face got so red that he decided to walk to the back of the roof and have a smoke.

That stroll left Woolf with a laughable memory of what is still the most famous crime in American history. As he tells it:

"It seems that after I left the table, a woman friend joined my mother. They were forced to listen to all the adverse criticism of 'Mamzelle Champagne,' which was getting worse right along. They were naturally sympathizing with me, and it was just about this time that the sound of three shots crashed through the singing of a comic song. Leaping to her feet, my mother screamed:

"My goodness! Somebody's shot my son!"

TURNER CALLED 'SPEED KING OF AIR'

Chamber of Commerce Honors Flier Seeking Pittsburgh Record

Poised to hop off on what he hopes will be a record-breaking flight to Chicago, Col. Roscoe Turner was given a new title today by the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon in the chamber auditorium.

The title—"Speed King of the Air"—was bestowed by the chamber's president, former Gov. John S. Fisher, after the flier had outlined his hopes of setting a number of records by flights in and out of Pittsburgh.

Starting on the first of those flights tomorrow morning, Col. Turner will take the greetings of the chamber and also of several large manufacturers to Rufus C. Dawes, head of the World's Fair, which opens again tomorrow.

In his 300-mile-an-hour plane, Col. Turner said he hoped to establish a record from Pittsburgh, one of the greatest industrial centers of the world, to Chicago.

His plane, he said, is the forerunner of planes which will be in common usage three or four years from now, although now flying such a plane is "quite a risky proposition." He added:

"In the very near future I hope to cross the country in six hours."

Predicting a great development in and around Pittsburgh in the aviation field, he stated:

"I hope you realize the importance Pittsburgh plays in aviation, because probably 50 per cent of the things we use in a plane are made or developed here, especially aluminum, propellers and instruments."

The flier explained he had entered the field of speed flying because "people who established the fastest communication were leaders in all walks of life."

Miss Helen Richey, of McKeesport, who holds the women's flying endurance record, made a very brief talk in which she wished Col. Turner "lots of luck."

DAVIS ON WAY TO ILLINOIS

Handcuffed to a deputy sheriff, Tom Davis, Jr., the pale, slim South Hills High School student, acquitted of the murder of State Highway Patrolman Herbert Brantlinger, today was en route to Clinton County, Illinois, where he is to face trial for assault with intent to kill and robbery at pistol point.

The youth's father was at the county jail late yesterday to bid him goodby as Sheriff J. D. Erlinger, of Clinton County, and his deputy, Allen Jackson, led him into the automobile. Davis' fight against extradition was lost yesterday.

French Vessel in N. Y. For Fleet Review

NEW YORK, May 25.—(INS.)—First French naval vessel to visit New York in three years, the cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, with 30 officers and 156 French naval cadets today was docked in the Hudson River where the vessel will remain until June 2, so the cadets can witness the review of the American fleet here May 31.

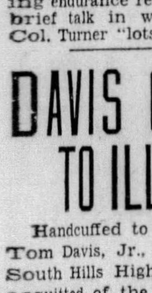
WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal, May 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The government is trying to fix silver, gold, Wall street, tariffs, how much to plant, and a thousand other problems; yet the greatest and most urgent need in our land now, is the settlement of strikes. It's so far above the needs of any other legislation that there is no comparison. Can't the government make arbitration compulsory. Everybody knows that there is wrongs—everybody knows there are strikes with just cause, and some that are not, but with the labor union, one man, the man that hires him, one man, and the government, one man. It looks like the side that wouldn't agree to that there is something wrong with, let everybody stay on the job during arbitration. If they get the raise of wages, it starts back from the day the complaint was made. If that was fixed all these other things wouldn't need fixing.

Yours, WILL.



Will Rogers.

MOYER'S CHOICE OF AIDES PROBED

Naming of Moritz, Brother of McNair's Secretary, Rapped

City Council is attempting to find out how Health Director Ray P. Moyer selects food inspectors and how it was that Frank M. Moritz, brother of Theodore L. Moritz, secretary to Mayor McNair, happens to be on the payroll.

Four food inspectors, whose dismissal by Director Moyer was recently upheld by the Civil Service Commission, have appealed to Council.

They are William P. Kane, Albert Schleiden, J. W. Farrell and Edward L. Workmaster.

A hearing for them will be held next Thursday.

MOYER ACCUSED

Councilman William J. Soost yesterday accused Dr. Moyer of breaking faith with Council in not putting the former inspectors back on the job after changes in the titles of the positions were made in the budget.

Councilman William A. Magee demanded:

"How did you choose the new men who were appointed?"

Director Moyer replied:

"Well, I don't know. They seemed to be the ones who could do the work."

Asked who recommended Frank M. Moritz, he said he believed it was Leicester Patton, superintendent of the Bureau of Food Inspection.

FORMER STEWARD

Patton said he named Moritz because he worked 15 years at a meat stand in the Diamond Market and had experience as steward for a club. Questioned by Soost, he verified the fact that Moritz, the food inspector, is a brother of the Mayor's secretary.

Out of 13 food inspectors, six had been permitted to take a new civil service examination and rehired.

COURT UPHOLDS FOSTER GIFT

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, in Orphans' Court, has allowed a bequest of $100,000 from the $2,900,000 estate of the late Mrs. Belle C. Martinek to the proposed Stephen C. Foster memorial on condition that the memorial is built.

E. T. Whiter, retired vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a trustee of the memorial, informed the court that the trustees are almost ready to proceed with construction of the memorial in Forbes street, opposite Schenley Park.

Mrs. Martinek, before her second marriage, was the widow of Col. Oliver S. Hershman, former Pittsburgh publisher.

Miss Margaret Neely, of Avalon, a school teacher, a distant relative of Col. Hershman, presented a claim for $10,000 against the Martinek estate.

Council Sends Group To Relief Meeting

Council is planning to send a delegation to Harrisburg Tuesday to find out the State Emergency Relief Board's attitude toward the Federal Surplus Food distribution. Unemployed groups in Allegheny County have protested the failure of the state board to hand out the Federal food supplies. Two organizations, the Unemployed Citizens' League and the Unemployed Councils, met yesterday with a committee of Council to ask increased relief.

Scalded in Home When Pan Upsets

Mrs. Ethel Lewis, 42, of 404 East Lacock street, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with burns received when she tripped and upset a pan of hot water in her home last night.

Only One Thing Left to Clear Up NRA Armistice

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Our Washington snooper cables that Darrow and Johnson are like that.

Now, if more of our big men agreed with each other we would have a beautiful string of unmatched pearls.

Hugh and Clarence spoke ninety minutes on the Neanderthal man. That's a stone citizen who should know all about unfair competition. He was chiseled one million years ago.

A non-aggression pact between Hugh and Darrow is welcome at a time when our strong, silent men are all radio announcers.

BOOK TO LIST PITT DONORS

University of Pittsburgh co-eds today scanned the pages of the "Great Book" in which Chancellor John G. Bowman plans to have inscribed the names of every donor to the Cathedral of Learning.

One copy is to be ever in view in the Cathedral, containing the names of every person who contributes to the building fund, however small their gift. Another copy will be sealed in the cornerstone to stay as long as the Cathedral stands.

A special group of 12 men and eight co-eds, selected for their outstanding aid in the campaign, will meet today with the 500 volunteer committee members who are conducting a drive to raise the $1,650,000 needed to complete the cathedral.

Yesterday's report, made at a luncheon in the William Penn's Italian room, increased the total raised to date by $29,100 to $470,859.

A. E. Braun, chairman of the primary gifts committee, reported $11,000, including one subscription of $10,000. J. C. Trees, chairman of the corporations' committee, reported two subscriptions of $5,000 each from the Reliance Life Insurance Company and the Peoples Natural Gas Company. A group in the citizens' committee headed by Robert H. McClintic, reported $5,640.

HOSPITAL NOW IN NEW HOME

Nurses, doctors and patients of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital today were at home in their new building, newest unit of the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, located between Lothrop and De Soto streets, above Fifth avenue, Oakland. Entrance is from Lothrop street.

Actual moving day from the old building, the Eye and Ear Hospital, 1945 Fifth avenue, was yesterday. Chauffered limousines, sent by the hospital's trustees, carried patients able to sit up, including a bevy of children—the little girls hugging their dolls.

The first patient to enter the new building was Miss Margaret Steele.

The new building has a capacity of 114 patients. There are six operating rooms.

Two Men Held In Store Robbery

Accused of holding up the Cramer's Clothes, Inc., store at 509 Ohio street, Edward Regan, 34, of 217 Cremo street, was held for court today at a hearing before Magistrate R. B. McNutt.

William Dailey, 38, of West Etna, seized last night as Regan's accomplice in the holdup, was ordered held for further investigation.

Cousins, Since Rewed, Seek to Annul Old Tie

One of the strangest marital entanglements ever to come before Common Pleas Court here was on record today in the suit of Helen Linn, of 315 Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, for annullment of her marriage to her first cousin, Sylvester Linn, of Lincoln Place.

Although the marriage took place more than 15 years ago, the couple never lived together, the woman's petition stated.

Since that time both principals have re-married, believing that they had the legal right to do so, according to the woman's counsel, Attorney Samuel A. Weiss.

Weiss declared today that the pair had been married January 5, 1919, before a Justice of the Peace in Dravosburg, but the same day they sought to have the marriage revoked.

The Justice of the Peace, according to Weiss, informed them not to worry, as he would not send the marriage papers for recording at the Courthouse.

It was only after the second marriages, Weiss said, that the couple discovered that the original papers had been recorded.

AVONMORE BANK SUSPECTS HELD

Three men were held by the state police at Greensburg today for questioning in connection with the $10,000 holdup Monday of the First National Bank of Avonmore.

The prisoners, arrested yesterday by County Detectives Walter Monaghan and Peter Connors and Sergt. Vincent Bunch, of the state police, said they were "Red" Hays, of Harvard street, East End, and Thomas Gierson, 24, and his brother, Austin, 20, both of Center, Pa. The two brothers have been rooming at Station street and Colins avenue.

An automobile owned by Hays and seized by the detectives answers the description of the bandit car, Monaghan said. Hays, according to Monaghan, was in jail at the time of the robbery and had no direct connection with it.

The cashier and the teller of the bank were said to have partially identified photographs of the two Giersons. The trio was taken to the Greensburg barracks.

HERRON SEEKS VIEWER POST

With former Mayor John S. Herron among the 35 applicants, a heated contest was on today for the vacancy on the Board of County Viewers caused by the recent death of Edwin E. Phillips.

The vacancy is to be filled by judges of the Common Pleas Court, who have not set a time to act on the applications.

Among the other prominent applicants are Robert D. Murray, present chief clerk of the board, and Attorney William V. Swearingen, son of retired Judge Joseph M. Swearingen.

The job pays $6,500 a year.

Claims to Estate Of Recluse Dismissed

Dismissing exceptions filed by persons who claimed to be "relatives" Judge Thomas P. Trimble in Orphans Court today decided that the state should get the entire $41,000 estate of John H. Link, West View recluse.

The "relatives" had filed exception to a previous decision escheating the estate to the state, after an exhaustive inquiry failed to locate any "relatives," according to the court records.

Umbrella Gone, Diner Arrested

Arba Handy, 42, ate in a Liberty avenue restaurant last night and shortly after he left, the cashier reported the loss of an old umbrella and a package. Half hour later Arba was arrested. He was found to be carrying an old umbrella and a package—containing a woman's shoe.

Attorney Robb's Apartment Looted

Jewerly, clothing, a painting and a revolver valued at $400, were stolen from the home of Attorney John S. Robb III, Pennsylvania Apartments, Center avenue and Dithridge street, late yesterday, he reported.

Entrance was gained through a bathroom window.

RUN THEM OUT, URGES AIDE OF M'NAIR

Human Phase Lacking, Need More Lawyers, Report Says

Social workers virtually run the city's Morals Court and should be put in their place as servants of that court, in the opinion of Attorney W. D. Grimes, recently named a committee of one by Mayor McNair to investigate that institution.

Attorney Grimes has made these suggestions in a letter to the Mayor:

1.—A larger court room should be used in which the public should be free to enter.

2.—Social workers should be put in one room and kept under the control of the court.

3.—Hearings should start promptly and the advice of social workers should be secondary to judgment of the magistrate.

4.—Procedure of the court should be made more human, with less formality and attention to trivialities.

5.—Defendants should be encouraged to have lawyers present and seek the advice of lawyers.

ARREST SCORED

Nearly all of the cases, according to Attorney Grimes, would never have arrived in the court had they been in the hands of a sensible lawyer.

The arrest of husbands on the complaint of wives, without information and without warrant, was scored by Attorney Grimes. Police should be instructed, he declared, to make no such arrests unless they see indications of disorder or serious difficulty.

As to social workers, Attorney Grimes said:

"They parade around with much importance, take charge of the cases, taking defendants and witnesses into their private rooms for discussions both before and after hearings. The social workers also participate in the hearings, hanging over the judge's desk, sitting beside him, and these social workers, policemen, tipstaves, deputy sheriffs, etc., intrude on the case without any excuse."

Aside from such intrusions, according to the report, the hearings are conducted in a dignified manner by Magistrate J. W. McGowan.

CALLS IT 'RACKET'

The report stated:

"Most of the second floor, where the court is, is occupied by the offices of the social workers. They seem to be the chief guys running the institution, and are quite important in their own opinion, and are maintaining a splendid 'racket' as it is called by those who observe every day."

Attorney Grimes has promised to continue his investigations at Morals Court and make a further report.

KANE QUESTIONS OVERSEER JOBS

Councilman John J. Kane has asked an investigation by Council of the reported appointment as general construction overseers of two men who also rent equipment to the city.

Kane announced he has been informed that James Nardulli, of Mt. Lebanon, and Daniel DiNardi had been placed on the city payroll recently at $1.25 per hour to supervise Relief Works Administration projects.

A report has been asked by Council from the Public Works Department along with a query on whether employes whose jobs have been eliminated in previous economy measures would not be eligible for such positions.

Fall Down Stairs Fatal to Woman, 73

Mrs. Elizabeth Hemmerlin, 73, of 121 Dewey street, West Etna, died in St. Francis Hospital early today from a broken neck and skull fracture received when she fell down a flight of stairs in her home last Monday.

She was found at the foot of the landing by her son, Joseph, when the latter returned from work.

PRESBYTERIANS FACE TEST ON MERGER

CLEVELAND, May 25.—(AP.)—Appointment of E. Earle Hoover, of Glenside, Pa., as vice moderator, was announced today by Dr. William Chalmers Covert, newly elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Covert, retiring general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, was elected on the second ballot by more than 900 commissioners at the one hundred and forty-sixth general assembly yesterday.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBER

A member of the conservative group of the church, Dr. Covert earlier in his career was the youngest moderator the synod of Minnesota ever had. He succeeds Dr. John McDowell.

Dr. Covert received 485 ballots and another conservative, the Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, of Los Angeles, received 391. The Rev. James C. McConnell, of Upper Darby, Pa., a candidate of the Fundamentalist group, received 31 votes on the second and final ballot.

The conservative group in the assembly, which forms a majority of the commissioners, has followed in matters of dogma and church principles a course midway between that of the so-called Fundamentalists and Modernists.

VIEWS AT ODDS

The Modernists are those inclined to interpret Biblical and other questions in the light of scientific discoveries, while the Fundamentalists stress a more literal viewpoint.

The election was regarded as showing the strength of the Conservatives, which again will be tested when the Fundamentalists oppose the organic union with the United Presbyterian Church.

A fourth candidate, Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis, of Erie, Pa., was entered in a surprise nomination, but Dr. Davis withdrew his name before the balloting started.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

Dr. Covert also announced the appointment of chairmen for the standing committees. They are:

The Rev. Henry S. Brown, of Chicago, bills and overtures; The Rev. Henry B. Smith, of Los Angeles, national missions; The Rev. William L. McCormick, of Philadelphia, foreign missions; The Rev. Raymond C. Walker, of Harrisburg, Pa., christian education; The Rev. Rasmus Thomson, of Amarillo, Tex., pensions; The Rev. Jesse Herrmann, of Lexington, Ky., polity.

The Rev. Adelbert P. Higley, of Cleveland, theological seminaries; F. Leonard Wailes, of Salisbury, Md., finance; George L. Eastman, of Los Angeles, mileage; The Rev. J. Servis La Rue, of Hudson Falls N. Y., leave of absence; The Rev. Peter Snyder, of Pittsburgh, synodical records. The Rev. S. Willis McKelvey, of Kansas City, Mo., nominations of members of permanent judicial commission, The Rev. Walter L. Whallon, of Newark, N. J., social welfare, and The Rev. Carl P. Miller, of Seattle, resolutions of thanks.

Georgia Judge Named Moderator

MONTREAL, N. C., May 25.—(AP.)—Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of Marietta, Ga., was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States today, succeeding Dr. Ernest Thompson, of Charleston, W. Va.

4 Centuries of Theater Art Shown Here With 14 Nations Represented

Display at Carnegie Institute Assembled By Lee Simonson

By PENELOPE REDD

Carnegie Institute presented yesterday the International Exhibition of Theater Art which illustrates four centuries in time and fourteen centuries in space through the medium of 750 pictorial objects. The collection was assembled under the direction of one of the most famous of modern designers for the stage, Lee Simonson. The institution energetic enough to make this colossal undertaking successful is the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Miss Redd

Mr. Simonson explains:

"I coresponded for three months before going abroad and traveled through half of Europe for two months. In the short space of time that I could stay abroad I was unable to arrange other loans with absentee owners, to trace many drawings, to get in touch with many artists and directors.

"Nevertheless the exhibition does give a fairly complete picture of the development of stage design from the 16th century to the present day. And it is possible to indicate on the basis of the examples displayed what the trend of that development has been."

Although Mr. Simonson declares "this exhibition . . . is perhaps rather for the theater-goer than for the aesthete," the quality of some of the designs indicates that a creative talent greatly enhances an interpretative art. To cite but one example, Isaac Grunewald, of Sweden, long known to us through his paintings in Carnegie Internationals, has veritably a special one-man show in his 35 pictures.

Other artists who have shown at Carnegie Internationals include Grunewald's compatriots, Sjoberg and Skold; the French painters, Braque, Derain, Picasso, and Segonzac; the Italian, Chirico; the Englishmen, Charles Ricketts and Norman Wilkinson, and the Russian, Soudekine.

Of local interest is the work of Woodman Thompson for "Iphigenia in Tauris," which if we remember correctly was one of the earliest productions of his alma mater, Carnegie Tech Drama School. Cleon Throckmorton, who did the "Emperor Jones" sets, spent his period at Carnegie Tech in the engineering school. Molander and Skawonius, Swedes, have designs for Marc Connelly's "Green Pastures" to compare with the familiar ones of Robert Edmond Jones.

My ignorance of the theater is abysmal, but I do not understand why such an exhibition could be held with not a scrap to indicate that there was once a man who brought visual joy unbounded into the American theater and his name was Joseph Urban.

The show will be on view until May 17.

Knees as Evidence Barred by Judge

WEST CHESTER, PA., May 25—(AP)—The 12-man jury was willing and opposing attorneys were not averse, but Judge J. F. E. Hause refused to permit pretty Josephine Brown to show her knees as evidence.

So William Pancoast, who was depending on the knees as evidenc of a motor crash, lost his damage suit.

Club Loses 4th Plea For Liquor License

For the fourth time the Business Men's Club, of 555 Seventh avenue, today was refused a liquor license.

Three times the Liquor Control Board had refused the club a license on the ground it was a "one-man club" from 1925 to March 5 of this year. Judge W. Heber Dithrich today upheld the refusal.

I Was Disgusted with my FALSE TEETH

My plate slipped, rocked, chafed—made my mouth miserable. Messy glue, paste and gum tragacanth were no help. Then I heard of DENTAY, the marvelous pure food powder that you just sprinkle on your plate in the morning. Mouth moisture instantly turns it into a velvety, natural-adhesive cushion that holds snug, firm and comfortably the whole day through. Prevents gum shrinkage. Gently adapts gum tissues to plate. Now I can laugh, sing, sneeze, yawn without "checking myself" at all! Try DENTAY today for real mouth happiness. Few cents buys large package. Money back if not delighted.

MERGERS O. K.'D BY LUTHERANS

HARRISBURG, May 25.—(AP.)—Consolidation of the states' six synods into three has the support of the West Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church.

The proposal for the mergers was approved at the closing session of the synod in suburban Camp Hill yesterday.

Meeting in Harrisburg, the East Pennsylvania Synod also adjourned after deciding that no financial aid should be given a college student during the 1934-35 term until after the first semester.

The Eastern Synod also ruled that after the 1934-35 term no aid will be given until the student's sophomore year, and that all notes signed when scholastic aid is offered will be canceled after the student has completed 10 years of preaching.

Four Schools Hold Outings at Park

More than 6,000 pupils from schools in Wilkinsburg, Chalfant Borough, Pitcairn and West Elizabeth are flocking to Kennywood Park today for one of the largest outings of the early picnic season. L. R. Hagan, secretary of the Board of Education, is general chairman of the event.

REFUSE TO PAY SMITH RANSOM

SHANGHAI, May 25.—(AP.)—The Rev. Howard Smith, kidnaped American missionary, of Washington, Pa., appeared doomed today to long captivity in the hands of the notorious bandit leader, Gen. Ho Lung.

The renegade chieftain's negotiator for the $35,000 ransom demanded arrived from Chunking today and was told by officials of the American consulate and of the Christian Missionary Alliance that no ransom would be paid.

Instead the Americans made known they are preparing a note addressed to the national government at Nanking and to Szechwan provincial authorities maintaining responsibility for the ransom lies with them. The negotiator withdrew from the conference.

How to enjoy White Horse as Scotsmen do

Thousands are now finding a new enjoyment in drinking White Horse Scotch. They follow the example of the real connoisseur—the Scotsman.

First, pour out your White Horse, and add an equal portion of water or other mixer. Then roll it round in your glass, anticipatingly. Now, inhale deeply of an aroma so pleasing that it almost baffles description. Sip, slowly, very slowly. Roll it round your tongue—let your palate appreciate the delicate flavor of peat and heather—the very essence of Real Old Scotch. Note how smoothly it "swallows"—how pleasantly it "sets"—how quickly it helps you to throw off cares.

When you drink White Horse this way, you will appreciate to the full its distinctive qualities. Insist on White Horse—enjoy it today.

Instant relief from sore, tired, burning feet

New, healing, vanishing foot cream quickly soothes away aches, pains and burning—or the trial is free

THOUSANDS are suffering needlessly from tired, aching, burning feet—from corns, bunions, blisters and callouses. For now, thanks to a marvelous new soothing foot cream, freedom from this nerve-racking torture may be had overnight!

This remarkable cream contains, in dainty, greaseless form, those two world-old unguents—frankincense and myrrh—used centuries ago by the people of the East to heal their feet after exposure to the harsh, burning sands of the desert.

How it works

Ordinary baths, plasters and powders do not reach the real cause of sore, aching, burning feet. But this wonderful new cream called COOLENE, with its rare, penetrating oils, quickly works its way down to the irritated nerves and inflamed tissues—gently soothes and cools them—relieves congestion—and, sooner than you'd ever believe possible, your poor, tired, burning feet feel wonderfully cool, refreshed and easy.

Get COOLENE today. Apply night and morning—it's greaseless, vanishes instantly and cannot stain. You must enjoy real, glorious foot comfort or the trial is free.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Sandwiched between news of weddings and of sporting events such as horse shows is news of our travelers.

The Louis B. Hayses, of Beechwood boulevard, started last night for California. They took their two children, Caroline Adair Hays, who's 8 years old, and Howard Adair Hays, who's 6, with them.

May Go On To Honolulu

They sailed on the Santa Paula of the Grace Line, and will go to Los Angeles by way of the Panama Canal. They have a home in the Hollywood Hills.

Perhaps they'll leave the children there, Mrs. Hays tells me, and go on to Honolulu. They expect to leave California late in July for their summer home in Beaumaris, where they'll stay until mid-September.

And I almost forgot to mention —the children took their dog Binx, whom they call Binky, with them.

* * *

There'll be a reunion of the alumnae of the Bishop Bowman Institute, now long out of existence, June 4 in the Hotel Schenley.

Mrs. W. H. Stevenson, long president of the alumnae, will be chairman of the reunion, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cleland, vice president; Mrs. William T. McCullough, treasurer and Miss Margaret Sugden, secretary.

Martha Niemann Weds Bartlett F. Carley

Martha Virginia Niemann, daughter of the Charles Franklin Niemanns, of South Linden avenue, and Bartlett Fenton Carley, son of the Edward Fenton Carleys, of Wilmington, Del., were married last night at 7:30 o'clock in the music room of the Niemann home by the Rev. Dr. Karl A. Stein, of the Grace Reformed Church.

An altar of cibotium ferns, lighted by cathedral tapers in candelabra, was the setting for the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin period gown with a train, and a veil cascading from a coronet of tulle, edged with tiny flower seed pearls. She wore her mother's horseshoe of diamonds to help keep the old advice to brides to wear something old and something new; something borrowed and something blue. She carried gardenias, lilies of the valley and bridal roses.

Will Live in Philadelphia

Her maid of honor, her sister, Gwendolin Niemann, was in aquatone blue silk net, fashioned empire style, and her bridesmaid, Margaret Sander, peach silk net, in similar fashion.

Dr. Edward S. Parvis, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and Dr. Charles Franklin Niemann, Jr., brother of the bride; and William W. Matson were ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony. At the bride's table there were centerpieces of pastel spring flowers, reflected in mirrors, and pink tapers.

After the honeymoon at White Sulphur Springs, the bride and bridgroom will be at home at 6050 Ovebrook avenue, Philadelphia.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the Herbert Sanders and their daughter Margaret Sander at the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

Cruise Date Is Set by G. F. S.

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Thursday, June 14, has been selected as the date for the second annual cruise on the Steamer Washington by the Trinity Cathedral Branch, Girls Friendly Society. The proceeds will be used for Trinity Manor, the G. F. S. holiday house on the William Penn highway, near Murrysville.

The Trinity Manor Committee is having a tea on Sunday, June 3, from 4 until 7 o'clock to inaugurate the season at the manor. The house, an old Colonial building set amid Pennsylvania's beautiful hills, will be open to the public. Indeed, family dinners (at an unheard of low price) are an especial attraction. There are no accommodations for men as house guests, but arrangements are made for them at neighboring houses and their meals are served at the manor. Between Decoration Day and October 1 last year 1,653 persons were served with meals.

Someone who knows the place well says its chief charm (although its charms are numerous) is that there is no rising bell. Guests arise as they wish and are served breakfast at their pleasure also. Moreover, it is the boast of the house that they are "served by smiling people." There is no planned recreation, but tennis courts, a putting course, croquet grounds and acres and acres for hiking and nearby riding stables, swimming and golfing are available.

A Girls' Friendly bus leaves the Wilkinsburg station every day except Saturday and Sunday at 5:45 in the evening, Saturdays at 2:30, and Sundays at 10:30. For seats in this reservation may be made through Trinity Cathedral.

An amusing and at the same time attractive and interesting program was presented by the music department at the annual luncheon of the Oakmont Woman's Club held at the Longue Vue Country Club yesterday. There was a Clara, Lou and Em sketch in which the work of the department was discussed and then followed solos and trios by other department members.

Speakers were Mrs. James G. Chalfant, president of the southwestern district, State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and Mrs. Robert K. Cochrane, president of the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs.

* * *

Dolly Springer, daughter of the A. W. Springers, of North avenue, Wilkinsburg, will give a dinner for 16 tomorrow night in the Springer home, preceding the spring dance at Pennsylvania College for Women.

P. T. A. Events To End With Luncheon

A luncheon at the College Club on June 2 honoring Miss Margaret Frew, principal of the Wightman School, the teaching staff and Mrs. Edgar Hirsh, the retiring president, will bring to a close the activities of the Wightman Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Richard S. Large, the newly elected president of the association, is chairman of arrangements and reservations.

Other officers of the association are: Vice president, Mrs. Clarence A. Fink; recording secretary, Mrs. LaSalle Girts; corresponding secretary, Miss Elsie Wilt, and treasurer, Mrs. Frances Adams.

Federation Adds Another Theater

The State Federation's district motion picture committee has added another theater — the Schenley—to its list of those where specially selected programs for children are shown each Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. A representative of the Oakland Woman's Club will be in charge.

Final Program Set By Dormont Club

Miss Ruth Parker, director for the music department will sing at the tea with which the Dormont New Century Club will close its season next Friday. Miss Parker will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Edith Parker Kind, from Toronto, Canada. A farce pantomime, which is to be a part of the program, will be presented by Mrs. J. W. Young, Mrs. W. Bruce Smith, Mrs. Philip E. Franklin and Mrs. Freeman Hammond, directed by Mrs. R. A. Shipley.

Emilie J. Husted Becomes Bride Of Hartford Man

Miss Emilie Jane Husted, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude L. Husted, of West Liberty avenue, Dormont, and Carl Ohrn, son of Alexander T. Ohrn, of Hartford, Conn., were married Wednesday afternoon in the Hotel William Penn.

The bride, who wore a beige silk travel suit with a corsage of bridal roses and lilies of the valley, was attended by here sister, Miss Kathryn Husted. Alonzo Husted, her brother, was best man.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Syracuse University and studied engineering at New York University. Mr. and Mrs. Ohrn are on an eastern wedding trip.

New Century Band To Have Bake Sale

The New Century Band will hold a bake sale in the Farmers' Market, Diamond street, tomorrow, with Mrs. Robert Robertson, chairman of the ways and means committee, in charge. The booths for sale of home-made baked good and candies will open at 8 o'clock.

Ingram Women To Inspect Gardens

A garden pilgrimage is being arranged by the Ingram Woman's Club for Monday after the regular business meeting. Installation of officers and reports of committee chairmen is the chief business to be transacted. The garden committee will conduct the pilgrimage by motor under the leadership of Mrs. L. C. Ferrell.

Mrs. Arthur Neale, Mrs. J. H. Taylor and Miss Mary Parsons will serve tea on Miss Parson's lawn, at the conclusion of the pilgrimage.

Delta Delta Delta Spring Dance June 1

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

—: Viewing the New :—

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

One more da-ay! Just tomorrow, and then kiss this opportunity goodbye. That famous toilet goods house whose Herbal Oil Blend and other preparations are all but making history on faces . . . whose Facial Meal for blackheads was so popular with you la-dees about a week ago that we were avalanched in inquiries . . . THIS house of D— has been having a 20% discount sale on all their preparations!

And among them the wonderful gadget . . . the Magic Stick, whose touch, like a fairy godmother, transforms perspiration and such into mere nothings . . . checks and deodorizes. And considering that this was $1.00 . . . now 50c . . . and with discount, 40c . . . we think that with summer coming on, you had all better think a thought or two regarding it.

* * *

(We can just feel it coming on . . . that this column is going to be a cold-cream-y and powdery one!)

Apparently this is the time of year when all good manufacturers run amuck and play hob with their products! Here is a well-known makes up and announcing that . . .

Their compacts containing a cake of powder and WITH a "detachable" powder sifter for dry powder is now 48c . . . not $1.00 as usual.

Second . . . that their loose powder compacts regularly $1.00 are now 70c including (note this) a small box of powder! Third . . . that their $2 double compacts for rouge and powder are 88c now. AND . . . that the double compacts with place for loose powder, usually $2, are now $1.25 including a box of powder!

And now that we got this off our chest . . . run in and get your little nose a dusting case!

* * *

Presumably, you're getting Decoration Day minded about now! And you're beginning to ponder the question of whether to "hang your suit on a hickory limb" and merely do a little beach-wallowing . . . or whether to pooh-pooh all limbs and really "go IN the water!" And anyhow you do it, it means you'll want new rags and tags (because who would hang a last-year's suit on the puniest of "hickory limbs" anyway . . . we ask you!) SOOOO . . . we have gone poking our nose into the bathing-suit-buyer's affairs and have found eye-openers of all sorts. Such as printed handkerchief linen suits . . . something like rompers and nicely lined with matching wool Jersey underneath of being carelessly and smartly clad for a romp . . . whilst in reality you're grimly outfitted for a good stiff swim! Frightfully feminine and alluring! $8.95.

* * *

And silk jersey ones of clinging, svelte lines that make modern mermaids want to spend hours sitting on a rock for all the world to see! With drawstring tops that allow you to let the straps down for more complete sunning.

* * *

Little bathing caps that borrow their styles from the Tyrolians (rather funny too . . . because we never heard of Tyrolians going in for swimming in a big way!) . . . peaked caps with a fizzle-te-boom top. And distinctive styles in various colorings . . . beginning 50c.

And high-heeled beach shoes with rope thongs to hold them on . . . and cork heels . . . or strange and interesting "clogs" with an Oriental air! These are just a few of the swank new things that there are to be had for beaching and bathing. And at all prices.—DOROTHY RANDALL.

PRINT-AND-PLAIN-SUMMER ENSEMBLES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MAYBE THE sun isn't doing too much to warm up the corner where you are, but the fact remains that summer is right around the corner and light, festive clothes are in order.

Memorial Day will bring out a whole batch of avenue paraders, and many of them will be garbed in warm weather frock and coat ensembles. Sketched to the right are three unusual versions of this style, every one of them perfectly good costumes, with or without their toppers. As the artist has foreseen, the part-colored shoe—white with a trim of brown, black, or navy to pick up the tone of the costume worn with it—is in again, the neatest, most comfortable city or country shoe for casual wear.

* * *

THIS IS the season, too, when trousseau and travel clothes come in for lots of attention. Visitors to shore and mountains will find practical value in the frock which has its own costume coat, or which may be worn under a light woolen odd coat on train or ship.

* * *

IT IS NO accident that two of the costumes sketched here are built on a navy blue scheme; that is the proportion just now—two of navy to one of any other color, when you analize ensembles. It is a good traveler and a good city color, so there is reason in the scheme.

The great variety of materials used for clothes of the sort sketched makes shopping them happy hunting. Sheers are just as well represented as warmer fabrics, cotton as easy to find as silk. Every coat is the nucleus of another costume, too, for changes of frocks and accessories find most of them amenable to style.

It is a swell draped sleeve on this brown crepe redingote with the white cherry print. The frock is white with an ascot of the print.

Here is a redingote that fits like a reefer. It is navy with linen blue dots, and a frock to match the dots. The collar is on the frock.

Below, a navy blue frock with French blue polka dot pattern. The coat is a swanky linen brocade, cut to swing open and with big, loose sleeves.

TASTY RECIPES GIVEN FOR ALL OCCASIONS

FROZEN CUSTARD—3 cups milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 egg yolks, 1 cup whipping cream, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup chopped nuts (optional).

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Cool. Add salt and pour gradually with constant stirring, over egg yolks. Cook for 2 minutes in top of double boiler. Remove from fire and add sugar, stirring until dissolved. Pour into freezer tray and freeze until mixture reaches the mushy stage. Then whip the cream stiff and fold it into the mixture. Freeze until firm.

* * *

CHOP SUEY—4 tablespoons olive oil, 3 tablespoons chopped onions, ⅓ cup chopped celery, 1 cup diced pork (raw), 1 cup diced veal (raw), 3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 1½ cups boiling water, ½ cup bean sprouts, ½ cup cooked noodles, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon chop suey sauce.

Heat oil in frying pan. Add and brown onions, celery and meat. Add peppers and water. Cover and cook 10 minutes over low fire. Add rest of ingredients and cook 5 minutes. Serve.

* * *

SPANISH RICE FOR THREE—½ cup diced bacon, 3 tablespoons chopped onions, 3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 1½ cups boiled rice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups tomatoes.

Heat bacon in frying pan and cook until browned. Add and brown onions, peppers and rice. Add rest of ingredients. Cook slowly for 15 minutes. Stir frequently.

Two Pair of Pants Used to Keep Cash Safe

PORTLAND, Ore., May 25.—(AP.)—The secret of how he concealed money from his wife was divulged in Federal Court by Thomas David, Warm Springs Indian, who faced parole revocation. He said:

"She searched me, but she didn't find it, because I had on two pairs of pants and the money was in the bottom pair."

Safety Aide Fined As Reckless Driver

MADISON, Wis., May 25—(AP)—William Cash, one of the governor's committee of 100, appointed to devise means of reducing automobile accidents, was fined $5 and costs for reckless driving.

GEORGIA DENIES NUDIST FAD

ATLANTA, Ga., May 25.—(AP.)—Nudism in Georgia? Certainly not! The people of this state still wear clothes!

In proof we have the word of Attorney General M. J. Yeomans, who has so written Dean J. W. Moreland, of the Valparaiso (Indiana) University.

Dean Moreland advised Yeomans that the state on the banks of the Wabash is confronted with the problem of regulating nudist colonies, and asked what the State of Georgia is doing about it.

Attorney General Yeomans wrote:

"For your information I beg to advise that we of the South are not confronted with any of the fads which are afflicting other sections of our country. The people of this state still wear clothes and also wear shoes, Miss Perkins, Secretary of Labor, to the contrary notwithstanding."

Rainy Day Fund Bares Charity Fraud

CAMDEN, N. J., May 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Louis Johnson, 30, put $1,000 in the bank for a rainy day and then asked aid from the county emergency relief board.

She got the relief—$426 worth—but someone learned of her bank account. She was brought into court for fraud. Now she must draw her rainy day fund to repay the relief board.

WOMAN ENTERS GOVERNOR RACE

DENVER, May 25.—(AP.)—Miss Josephine Roche, widely known for her activities in social and labor circles in Colorado, has announced her aspiration to the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Her decision was disclosed in a telegram she sent to James A. Marsh, Democratic state chairman, from Washington, where she has been visiting several days.

Former Gov. William H. Adams and Gov. Ed C. Johnson are among Democrats who may oppose her in the September primary.

Miss Roche has been head of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company since March, 1929, inheriting from her father his holdings in the concern.

She was born in Nebraska and came to Denver with her parents in 1906. After her graduation from Vassar and receiving a master's degree at Columbia University, she became a probation officer in the Denver Juvenile Court, and worked there under Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

Blind Dog Mourns Loss of Playmate

SPOKANE, Wash., May 25.—(AP.)—Big Boy, a Boston bull-spaniel, is lost, strayed or stolen, and his sister, Boots, is both broken hearted and unable to stir from her doorstep.

For seven years Boots, blind since birth, romped with her brother as guide and protector.

FAIR 'POLISHED' FOR OPENING TOMORROW

International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 25.—This was cleanup day at A Century of Progress Exposition with an army of workmen making last-minute changes and brushing up the World's Fair grounds for tomorrow's grand opening.

With colorful ceremonies scheduled, the gates of the sparkling city beside Lake Michigan will be thrown open to the public at 9 a. m., tomorrow.

That the exposition is ready was demonstrated by a dress rehearsal held last night for 200 invited guests. Maj. Lenox Lohr, general manager, declared after the preview:

"We are satisfied that the fair is as complete in essential details as it will ever be. Of course, minor repairs and small construction will be going on all summer. Also some of the exhibits have minor adjustments to make. But as far as the general public can see the fair is in its finished stage right now."

All day today and all tonight, little trains of cars, hauled by motors, will move about the grounds taking away the debris of construction work. Larger trucks were carrying the heavier material left over.

Gangs of workmen will be in continuous service for 24 hours, up to 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the gathes open, cleaning up every nook and corner of the grounds, giving the lawns a final rolling, the streets a final sweeping, gathering in waste paper and shavings that have drifted about the grounds.

Kin of Mrs. Suratt Dies in Maryland

CATONSVILLE, Md., May 25.—(AP.)—William Hunter Suratt, grandson of Mrs. Mary E. Suratt, who was hanged at Washington for harboring John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of President Lincoln, died yesterday at his home here.

Suratt, an attorney, had been in failing health for a year. He was 59 years old and is survived by his widow and two children.

McKeesport Host To B'nai B'rith

The eighty-second annual convention of District Grand Lodge, No. 3, B'nai B'rith, at which Senator W. H. King, of Utah, is to be the principal speaker, will open at the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport, tomorrow morning.

Delegates from more than 50 lodges in West Virginia, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania will attend.

Valuable Place in Diet Held by Ice Cream

Manufactured Under Pure Food Laws That Guarantee Perfect Ingredients; Great Percentage of Milk Contains Elements Necessary to Growth

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

Former Health Commissioner of New York City; United States Senator from New York.

Desserts have an important place in the diet. I can think of none more wholesome and nutritious than ice cream. This is a welcome addition to the diet of the young and old.

The originator of this delectable food is believed to have been the famous Dolly Madison. Though there is no actual proof of this, it is said that one hot summer day, Mrs. Madison decided to experiment with ice and cream in an endeavor to make a cool and tasty dish. The experiment was successful and the product received great praise by all who tasted the new food. The recipe soon became generally known, and ice cream became a favorite dessert in Washington circles.

HEALTHFUL CONFECTION

Ice cream made of pure ingredients is a healthful and tasty confection. It should contain cream, condensed milk or dried or evaporated milk, sugar and a flavoring. Fresh or preserved fruits, or nuts may be added. French ice cream is made with a cooked custard base. Eggs are added to give it additional thickness. Some housewives use junket as a foundation for ice cream. This makes the mixture more digestible and gives it greater consistency.

Even if you do not make your own ice cream, you are assured of pure and wholesome ice cream when you purchase it. The ice cream industry is under the rigid supervision of the pure food law administrators. Fresh and pure food materials are used in its manufacture. It is made under sanitary and hygienic conditions.

NEARLY PERFECT FOOD

We all know that milk is the most nearly perfect food. Milk is essential in making ice cream. Its presence in ice cream makes this food especially valuable in the diet of the child who refuses his milk. Milk contains all the elements necessary for growth. It is a rich source of proteins, minerals and vitamins. Every human being is benefited when milk and its by-products, such as ice cream, cheese and butter, are included in the diet.

Each state establishes regulations governing the manufacture of ice cream and what its fat content should be. This varies from 8 per cent to 14 per cent. A survey in many states was made to determine the average fat content of commercially made ice cream. This was found to be nearly 12 per cent.

EASILY DIGESTED

The fat found in ice cream is completely and easily digested. Like other fats, it has a high fuel value and furnishes the body with heat and energy. Of course, if an excessive amount of fat is taken in the diet, it is stored in the body as fatty tissue and will cause overweight. If you are overweight, eat fatty foods only in moderation. But to most of us, ice cream is a proper and delicious item in the diet.

Physicians now recommend ice cream in the diet of patients suffering from high fever. It is also valuable for the convalescent because it is easily digested and well retained. Served as "a sweet" or dessert at the end of a meal, it fills a valuable and definite place in the menu.

McGovern Booklet To Be Published

The McGovern phamplets explaining the tax and financial structure of Allegheny County's government are going out, it was revealed today, when bids were awarded for 350,000 of them. The phamplets have been an issue for a month between Capt. Robert G. Woodside, county controller, and Col C. C. McGovern, chairman of the County Commissioners. The differences were settled when the controller authorized bids for the phamplets last week.

'Literary' Friend Of Undenill Gets 50 Yers

OKLAHOMA CITY, ay 25.—(AP.) — Houston Na contended he was just an author out gathering local colo

The county attorney erted no author had any legmate business out with Wilbur derhill, Southwest desperado since slain, while Wilbur an his gang were attempting to haul away the safe of the National Bank at Harrah last December 11.

The jury agreed and Nash was sentenced today to 50 years in the penitentiary.

Lewis R. Morris, presenting the case for the state, appeal to the jury as lovers of literature to send the defendant to pris where he could gather a gre deal of material without a danger of misunderstanding the part of peace officers.

$50,000 ESTATE TO WIDOW

Joseph Wasser, director of the Sterling-Wasser Box Company, who died May 12, left the bulk of his $50,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Ida Wasser, according to his will filed today. Wasser, who lived at 6382 Jackson street, bequeathed his mother, Dora, $500.

Leaving his Seward street, Duquesne, property to his sister, Mary Curran, the late John D. Donnelly, of Duquesne, divided the rest of his $14,200 estate among eight nieces and nephews, in his will filed for probate.

St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum will receive $500 and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul will get $200 by the terms of the will of Julia Trautman. She left an estate of $12,500, the bulk of which will go to her sons, John and Charles.

BANDIT TO DIE FOR SLAYING

HARRODSBURG, Ky., May 25—(AP.)—Neal Bowman, accused of two murders and a series of robberies in Kentucky after his escape from the state hospital for the insane at Lima, Ohio, was sentenced to death today by a jury that tried him for the murder of Comer Franklin, 17, of Jamestown Tenn. Franklin's body was found weighted down in Herrington lake.

Stanley Mercer, 19, one of Bowman's companions, testified that the former Portsmouth, (Ohio), man shot Franklin because the lad wanted to leave the gang and Bowman feared he would "squeal." Bowman on the stand accused Mercer of Killing Franklin because of jealousy, and then made a plea in self defense to the jury during the closing arguments saying:

"I know I am a theif and a crook, but I don't believe in killing a man, and if I ever did kill any one, I'd shoot him in front."

2,000 Seek Permits To Dispense Beer

Applications for almost 2,000 er licenses are on file in the fice of the county treasurer, according to Deputy Treasurer A. E. Ake. Of these, 90 per cent are renewals. The total is only half of last year's, Anke said. The dr is due in part, he explained, to quor licenses, which also include the privilege of selling beer. Yesterday was the last day to file.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

(© The Sun-Telegraph, 1934.)

Don't Be Too Suspicious Of Person You Love

From the other end of the city he comes a-wooing . . . And he is well thought of and goes to a university, and she is a high school girl and thinks my advice ever so good.

She likes me because I am from the home town, and it seems so comfy to have someone to advise her who knows the mills and the factories, and the side lanes of Pittsburgh, one who understands the Western Pennsylvania people because she is one of them.

And so she writes to the Speak Up, Sister column:

Dear Miss Brunot:

The column you conduct has been familiar to me for a long while. A person in one's home town writing one's own friends' experience, and tell us what to do under stressful circumstances, is so interesting.

Miss Brunot

I read many of your correspondents' woes and trials, and so as misery loves company, I join them.

A few months ago I met a boy. I am a girl of 17, going to high school and living in a highly respectable district. The boy is from the other side of the city, and goes to one of our universities. He is a very well thought-of person.

I met him through a friend of mine and a frat brother of his. We attracted each other, and so went around together. My relatives thought a lot of him because of his high rating and gentlemanly ways.

When his frat had a special week of entertainment, he could not come to see me, and I did not see him for two whole weeks. Then one night he called and asked me to go to a dance. But I had accepted a date with another old friend of mine and could not break it.

I was frank and told him I would have this other friend take the four of us who were going out together to this dance.

He refused. Anyhow, the four of us drove over just to say "Hello."

He was not there yet, and so I told one of the other boys to tell him I had been there and sent him greetings.

SEEN WITH GIRL

A friend of mine who goes steady with one of the boys who was at the dance, said my boy friend had had a cute blonde with him. I called the place where the boy lives on a Sunday, and he said he could not see me for a good while as he was compelled to slave away to make his school work safe.

I had no reason to doubt him. And I lived in ignorant bliss until last week. One day I was out and when I got home a friend said our telephone had been ringing all afternoon. I presumed it was this boy and called him. He said it was not he and still could not see me.

So when another boy called me, we went to a dance. And there he was sitting beside a strange girl. I might have spoken but the girl with him was one about whom there is a great deal of talk. I don't know what to do. Is he worth going with any longer? I do care for him.

E. S. G.

DISCOUNT GOSSIP

Maybe what you have heard about this girl is greatly magnified. Sometimes a light-hearted, and care-free type of girl will cause people to criticize her when really, there is not much reason. You must admit there has been considerable mix-up in this boy's friendship with you. When he was able to be with you, something prevented you from seeing him. And vice versa.

In a case of this kind, a fellow often accepts the girl's company who is more easily gotten. You also were OUT with someone else . . . so he can feel SORE at you. If I were you, I would act as if nothing had happened, and win back the boy's attentions.

He has the same rights as you have. I have no doubt he was deeply engrossed in his lessons. But even lessons cannot take every minute of a fellow's time, and perhaps just in a free hour, you chanced to catch him.

It never pays to be too suspicious about those whom we really care for.

I am glad you like my column so much, and appreciate the compliment upon my local associations.

THIS KISSING PROBLEM

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am not any too popular. I know I am not ugly, and that I dress well. But when it comes to boy friends, I don't know how to go about to getting them. I don't know what to do about this kissink business. I don't want you to misunderstand me and for you to think I let every Tom, Dick and Harry kiss me.

I have been going with a fellow for a half year, but he moved out of the state and I can't see him often. It is terribly monotonous to stay at home night after night. Yet who wants one of those he-men who wants to kiss you right away?

Respectfully yours, JANE.

Jane, I agree with you about the kissing right away. Yet maybe the he-man is just trying you out and doesn't really expect you to be kissed too easily.

I am sure if you learn to talk well and join in entertainments, and if you dance well and are pretty and well dressed as you say, you soon will have some other young man to relieve the tedious evenings. Write to me again, and let me know how things turn out for you.

Also don't forget your old friend, even if he has gone over the border line of Pennsylvania. Write to him, and tell him interesting facts about the home town. He may be very lonely, even as lonely as you are.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

VIGEE LE BRUN PAINTED SELF AS YOUNG MOTHER, SAYS FAY KING

WHEN VIGEE LE BRUN WAS PAINTING ONE OF HER NUMEROUS PORTRAITS OF MARIE ANTOINETTE ALL HER BRUSHES FELL TO THE FLOOR AND THE QUEEN HELPED HER GATHER THEM UP AGAIN
MADAME VIGEE LE BRUN AND HER LITTLE DAUGHTER
THE ARTIST HAD A BRILLIANT CAREER. SHE DIED AGED 87 AND LEFT AN INTERESTING AUTOBIOGRAPHY
FAY. KING

By FAY KING

As Whistler's is the most popular painting of an aged mother, Vigee Le Brun with her little girl seems the favorite painting of a young mother.

It is one of the several self-portraits this French artist made. We are most familiar with her work in the number of beautiful paintings she made of Marie Antoinette.

Marie Vigee, daughter of an artist, was already famous for her beauty and talents when in her teens. She married Le Brun, an art dealer, who squandered much of the great fortune her prolific brush earned.

After a marriage of which her mother disapproved, the daughter avoided her mother. But to the end Vigee Le Brun adored her child, whom, to her great sorrow, she survived.

Fears Another Attempt to Kill Husband

Hugh Grantland is past master of the art of keeping his face immobile, no matter what emergency confronts him or what emotion is swaying him, but at my quiet declaration of acquiesence in whatever judgment he had formed concerning the mental state of Lee Chow his face suddenly lost its drawn, stern look and his eyes softened, shining.

"You—you mean—that," he stammered, as might a school boy. Then he caught himself up abruptly.

"Please forgive me!" he pleaded, embarrassment and chagrin in his voice. "I know you never say anything that you do not mean. But it seems too wonderful, almost unbelievable, that you should be willing to accept my belief concerning Lee Chow's sanity when it contradicts your own opinion upon the subject."

"It isn't wonderful at all," I told him. "It is the only thing possible for me to believe. Your knowledge of Lee Chow is a matter of years of intimate association, mine an almost casual thing. It would be preposterous for me to pit what is really a prejudiced intuition—no, that isn't the word, but I have no better—against your knowledge of the man."

He started, and looked at me searchingly.

"Does your intuition tell you that Lee Chow is sane?" he asked quickly. "If it does, I should be inclined to question my own judgment. I have known too many instances of your almost psychic powers to be skeptical of any intuition of yours."

His troubled face, his shadowed eyes made my reply prompt.

NOT RIGHT WORD

"I told you that 'intuition' was not the right word," I said, feeling the while that I could not swear to "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," if anyone were to pin me down as to the exact meaning of my statement. "It is only a vague feeling, and not to be considered for a moment in the face of your conviction. Please believe me!"

I almost had argued myself into believing my own words—almost, but not quite. For deep down in my consciousness there was a fear, a doubt of Lee Chow.

Hugh's face and eyes were suddenly joyous again, but I was not so sure of Lillian's reaction, although her voice was cheerily impudent as she struck into our colloquy.

"All this 'Alphonse and Gaston' stuff is a bit cloying," she said with her gamin grin. "A little of it goes a long way with the innocent bystanders. Suppose you bring up a chair, set yourself down and tell us what's doing, in words of one syllable or thereabouts. Or can't you stay away that long?"

He seated himself before he answered, then he looked over at Lillian with a grateful smile.

"You heartening person!" he said. "You can be depended upon to blow away the cobwebs. As for staying away from Lee Chow, no one is needed there now, although the chief volunteered to stand by until I returned. But at Lee Chow's own request I gave him a hypodermic calculated to send him off to sleep immediately. And I can guarantee that he will not waken for hours."

"That being the case," Lillian retorted, "suppose you relax a bit yourself. You are as taut as a fiddle string. Come over here to the couch and stretch out."

MAKES HUGH REST

She was at his side as she finished, holding out authoritative hands to his. He took them meekly and she pulled him to a standing position, then led him to the couch. He sank down on it as if he were utterly spent, and Lillian slipped a pillow under his head.

"Now," she said briskly, after a long, searching look at his face, "you're going to be babied a bit before you say a word. Thanks be to Allah, Katrina is a most efficient and up-to-date person. Her nursery equipment includes a tiny gas stove and refrigerator. You're going to have something hot and nourishing and, let us hope, palatable—I'm not much of a cook—in what Katie calls 'tree shakes of leetle sheep's tail'."

She grinned at him and vanished behind a curtain concealing the corner which Katherine laughingly calls her "kitchenette." Hugh looked up at me, and I put my finger to my lips.

"Better obey!" I said. "Close your eyes and relax while you're waiting."

He shook his head.

"I'll relax," he said, "and I shall be glad of something hot, but I don't want to close my eyes, not while—"

He broke off abruptly, but I knew—and struggled fiercely to appear unconscious of the knowledge—that if that sentence had been finished it would have run:

"Not while I can see you."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Facts About 'St Vitus Dance'

Chorea or "St. Vitus dance," as it is more commonly called, is a serious ailment of childhood. Unfortunately, the disease is often overlooked, or is recognized only after the child has suffered permanent damage. It is a pity parents are not more familiar with this serious disturbance.

Dr. Copeland

Though the cause of the disease has never been discovered, it is believed to be due to an infection by a germ. This germ never has been isolated but scientists are daily engaged in research work to discover it. When that time comes we will learn more about the prevention and cure of this disabling disorder.

As I have said, the disease is often entirely overlooked. This is not to be wondered at because of the absence of pain or other suspicious symptoms during the early stages of the disorder. But chorea should always be suspected in a young child who is nervous, fidgety and clumsy in actions and movements.

The victim of St. Vitus dance appears to be nervous, agitated and is likely to be in constant aimless motion. The hands alone may be involved. But, as a rule, the feet and even the head of the young sufferer jerk about, seemingly in constant motion.

In a mild case, the child is scolded for being "nervous," and no effort is made to determine the underlying cause. As the child grows older, the socalled nervousness seems to increase and after a while the youngster has difficulty in speaking. The seriousness of the trouble may not be recognized until school age has been reached and the child is sent home from school repeatedly. The report card states he is backward in his studies, has poor memory and fails to concentrate on his work.

This experience should arouse the suspicion of chorea. Every effort should be made to discover the underlying cause and determine whether the child is a victim of St. Vitus dance. Of course, this can be determined only by a complete physical examination by a physician.

I cannot overstate the importance of early recognition of this disorder. When recognized in its early stages and proper measures of cure are taken, complete recovery is to be expected. Neglect may lead to serious complications, such as permanent heart disease, nervous disorders and other disabling afflictions.

Complete rest in bed for a period of at least three months is advised for all sufferers from choreo. Enlarged and infected tonsils should be removed and all other centers of infection eradicated, if possible. In addition, special attention to diet and hygiene hastens convalescense and speeds complete recovery.

Answers to Health Queries

A Reader, Q.—Will you please recommend a good hair stimulant?

A.—Brushing the hair night and morning will prove beneficial. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

«» Hints for the Household «»

Enameled wood should never be cleaned with soda and water. It should be sponged with a solution of warm soapy water and then polished with a little furniture cream.

Apply powdered starch to fruit stains on linen. Allow to remain until the discoloration has been absorbed by the starch; then brush off and wash in the usual way.

When washing valuable china or glassware, place a thick Turkish towel at the bottom of the bowl, draping the edges over the sides. This lessens the risk of chipping.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is next to impossible to treat nail cuticle—lift it from the nail base—without conditioning it. Soak finger tips in warm soap suds for 15 minutes. Apply olive oil to each pink shell. Use the orange wood stick.

If a crayon must be used to complete the eyebrows, don't draw a straight even line. Make it a series of short lines; the effect will be more natural.

Black crayon is out of the question except for the girl with hair like the raven's wing. A dark brown usually suits brunets, blondes and the betwixt-and-betweens. One can get away with the eyelashes darkened to the limit, but the trick won't work satisfactorily on eyebrows.

Slovenly enunciation is a common habit, but one which the beauty-minded girl never trips up on. Words drip one into the other. The final g is dropped. "Goo' mornin.' Whatcher doin'?" That's a sign of laziness.

Time was when women believed that their sacred celestial faces should not be scoured with soap and water. That was before large cities were cursed with atmospheric soot.

Cleansing oils will do the work, but only soap suds gives one that fresh, clean feeling. At night the good old suds tubbing is in order, preceded by the use of a cream to remove make-up, followed along with another application of cream to soothe the epidermis.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Borrowing Trouble

It is a wise player who knows his own contract and who keeps in mind the fact that when the bidding is over the most important thing to do is to fulfill the contract undertaken, not to seek an illusive extra trick. Chances should be taken at the Contract table only when the situation requires it; otherwise it is bad play to take a chance of losing the contract undertaken in order to score a few extra points in the honor column.

Recently in a rubber game in New York City the hand below was dealt:

East, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K 8 6 5 4 2 ♡ 8 ◇ K 4 ♣ J 10 8 2
♠ A Q ♡ Q 9 3 2 ◇ Q J 3 ♣ K 7 6 3	North West East South	♠ 9 7 3 ♡ A K J 7 6 ◇ 10 8 2 ♣ A Q
	♠ J 10 ♡ 10 5 4 ◇ A 9 7 6 5 ♣ 9 5 4

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding requires no comment whatever. The natural contract was reached.

North and South were two of the world's ranking experts. When South elected to open the spade Ten, the Declarer took the unnecessary and strongly marked loosing finesse. North won with the King and, sensing that the situation was a desperate one, laid down the diamond King and followed with a low diamond. South won this and returned a diamond, which North ruffed for the setting trick.

Obviously, East misplayed the hand very badly. The contract need never have been in danger. All that was necessary to assure the making of four-odd was to win the first spade trick with the Ace and draw the adverse trumps. After that it mattered not what East did, as by no line of play could he lose more than two diamonds and one spade.

East's play can be explained only on the basis of seeking to secure an extra trick, as he could count enough tricks for his contract either already developed or developable.

Pippin Threatens to End Meetings With Dale

CHAPTER LXXIX.

Pippin pulled from him, laughing but disturbed:

"You're silly."

"Perhaps." He regarded her with intent and glowing eyes, "I didn't know I could care in this way; didn't realize how much you meant."

Pippin said, lured by his ardor, yet vaguely alarmed:

"I don't want to mean so much to you. If you go on like this I won't be able to see you any more."

"Yes, you will!"

"You don't know me, Dale. I mean what I say. I'm not committing myself to love you. I don't intend to love you or anyone!"

A warm red smile flashed over his lips.

"That's all right. I'm not asking you to love me. But I want to paint your picture as you looked when you came down that path. I want to remember it—make sure it happened!"

He saw the flush stain along her throat and said slowly, sobered: "Of course you don't love me. Why should you?"

He took out a cigaret, puffed idly. "Nice to return. Foggy in town—gray drizzle sweeping in from the ocean every afternoon. Did you take any good hikes while I was gone"

"No—but we got up swimming and boat races. I swam this lake but none of us could make the lower."

"Glad I missed that chilly business. You must have fish ancestors. I brought you that book about Henri Gaudier. You'll find it rather interesting. I'll get it."

Gale returned with the book. He went through it in a pleasant, casual way just as he talked to Kate Stone.

He said: "Poor Gaudier, a strange fellow—lonely, mad and unhappy as genius so often is. Only twenty-three when the war killed him but look at the wonderful things he did. Half starved all the time and only the evenings for work. Think of it—he sold exquisite bits of sculpture for $10.00 and never in his life got more than $100.00 even for a big group. It takes the mediocre to gather in the coin—in art, anyway."

Feels at Ease

When he talked in this impersonal, pleasant way, Pippin felt at ease. Glad he was back; glad to be sitting with him in the warm afternoon sun, the water sparkling.

Dale asked: "How did you happen to be passing this way?"

"I came deliberately to see if you'd returned."

"Did you really? And I worried you. I won't do that again. No more silly business, as you say. But you do look lovely in that big hat. I've the sketch of your grandfather framed. I thought your mother would like it. Let's take it over."

As they swung along, he said with a deep, humming laugh, teasing her: "So you're glad I've returned?"

She nodded but did not look at him, feeling too poignantly the excitement of his presence and the warm, trembling stir along her nerves.

There followed a week when Pippin alternately fumed against Dale and longed for him. He gave her such random attention. They went on hikes. He swung along with Kate as gaily as with Pippin.

He made pictures of Dadee's girl and said what a cute trick she was.

"So paintable with that dark, vivid color and sharp, piquant features."

"Are you using her for your illustrations?"

He answered carelessly as though not aware of the tight little voice in which Pippin spoke.

"She wants me to. She's a gypsy in heart as well as looks."

Irene flirted with Dale. She climbed to a great boulder and said: "Can you sketch me here? No? Then come and lift me down!"

Go to Dance

Dale thought she was cute! Pippin blazed.

They all drove into Tahoe one Saturday night for a dance.

It was the first dance to which Pippin had gone all summer long; her first dance in four months. She felt happy and didn't mind that the floor was gritty and the music poor. Neither did Dale.

He pulled her to him. His black eyes winked, and he sang softly, challenging: "Ho hum, feeling like a feather. Ho hum, we're together!"

With her eyes half closed and her thoughts lulled, Pippin listened to the rich, wooing voice.

"It's almost too good to be true, Pippin."

"What is?"

"This night, the moon outside, trees near the water—You!"

"It sounds like poetry, Dale."

"I could make a poem or live a poem—with you!"

They stole outside, down through a thin grove of trees to the water's edge. The lake was quiet. It swept on in a vast, pale glimmer from edge to distant edge of the towering, fargirding mountains. The moon, trailing clouds of jade swept over the wild black peaks.

"It's been a lonely week, Pippin."

She looked at the light moving spirit-like through the water.

She answered absently: "Yes—lonely."

"You thought so too?"

He had his arm about her and now drew her close.

"Don't worry. I won't trouble you. I can keep to myself. You see that. It's not so pleasant! Pippin, it won't hurt you if I love you a little. Now and then. Just a little. You don't mind if I kiss you—please. Just once?"

Held in His Arms

She glanced up, felt, rather than saw the dark demand in his eyes. She stood motionless, a tumult in her heart. He kissed her.

He held her in his arms and poured ardent words against her lips.

"I wish you'd give me a little hope. I could easily wait a year, then. I've never loved anyone before—like this. I'd like to take you right now. I wish I could! I didn't know I'd been lonely so long. I have been. Pippin, tell me that you care a little! You like to be here in my arms?"

His words made a swift warm river down which she floated in a strangely sweet, half-frightened dream.

She said: "I don't know. Let me go, Dale." Yet felt powerless to move, while in every sense went a little throb of joy.

She sat a long while in her tiny dressing room that night. She thought with flushed, unease excitement: "I don't love him. It's not love!"

She would not kiss him again. They would be cool, friendly, remote—as last week.

But as soon as she was with him, she heard again that strange, hidden song stirring along her nerves—urgent, intoxicating, sweet.

She sank down happily when he put his arm about her.

"We have only three weeks more, Pippin. Then you'll go home."

FutureUncertain

"I don't want to think about it."

"Nor do I. Have you made up your mind that you'll return to college?"

"I don't know yet—perhaps I'll go to Europe and stay with my brother."

"Then I'll go to Europe, too. You don't want me out of your life, Pippin?"

"I don't know what I want. Just to sit here. It's enough."

He stooped down until he could see the white, delicate oval of her face.

"It's more than enough. I could spend the rest of my life holding you—kissing you— On a night like this I could blot away the word—"

She gave a soft, vague laugh and moved from him, but her heart was on fire.

One day they decided on an over-night trip. Kate Stone and Blanche Woodman were hiking to Fallen Leaf Lake. They were camping there. They asked Dale, who was a good woodsman and Pippin to go with them.

They got their supplies ready. They were greatly excited. They planned to start about ten in the morning.

At nine, Pippin saw Dale coming up the trail from their pier. She went down to meet him.

"What's the mater?"

Decide on Hike

"I've just driven over to the store. I met Kate there. She was buying adhesive tape. Her friend has sprained her ankle."

"The trip is off?" Pippin asked in a blank, crushed tone.

"Blanche can't walk five or seven miles over a hard trail with a twisted foot."

He came up and took Pippin's hand.

"Why can't we go alone, Pippin?"

She turned white.

He went on: "We can make it there and back before dark."

"You're a good hiker Pippin, you pass some of the loveliest spots on that trail. There's going to be a full moon—a great golden moon. We've only ten days more."

"It's too far, Dale. We'd have to start about five in the morning if we want to get there and back in one day."

"We can do it. What if it does get a little dark."

He stood very close and now drew her to him.

"Please come, Pippin. We'll have a glorious time."

Her heart went quick and faint:: "Do you really think we can do it?"

"We can! I know we can!"

She looked at him with parted lips and wide, brilliant eyes.

"All right—I'll get ready. I'll meet you in the trees above your cabin."

He leaned down quickly and kissed her.

"I'll wait there. Make it in an hour."

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party. Kevin disappoints Pippin, but saves a man's life. Bill arrives home and takes Pippin on airplane trip. They're forced to land in desolate country, but finally find a house and arrive back in town. Bill leaves. Gregg sails. Kevin goes East. Bill's plane crashes. Bill dies. Kevin's letters stop. Pippen spends much time in walks, alone, through mountains. She meets Dale Owens, an artist, who makes love to her.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Announcement Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have planned to announce my engagement very soon. I would like to have an engagement party. Is that what's being done? If so, do I invite my friends merely to "a party" and then have some member of my family announce the engagement? If this is correct, when does the ring come into view?

L.

Yes, an engagement announcement party, while not of course necessary, is very often "done," and it can be a very charming and gala occasion. Your mother may give a luncheon for your close girl friends, or a luncheon-bridge or a tea party. Or the announcement may be a dinner party or a buffet or sit-down supper party.

I'm so happy that you ask that last question the way you do . . . "When does the ring come into view" . . . for I hope that it means that this simple and delightful way of announcing your engagement at the party is the one that you have chosen. It is the best taste . . . very early in the party for the engaged girl to slip her engagement ring on "the" finger. Some alert-eyed guest sees it . . . and the secret is out!

If the party is a dinner party given by your father and mother, the news may be announced by a toast, as well as by your slipping on the ring. Your father, for instance, may rise and say, "Here's to our Mary and to her Tom . . . May they and happiness always walk close together!

Usually, in the invitations, the reason for the party is not indicated.

How to Register

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the correct way to register my son (who will be sixteen in the fall), a niece and a girl friend? We are going to travel a lot this summer.

H.

For yourself you would register:

Mrs. Perrine House,
Ridgewood, Massachusetts

For your son:

John House,
Ridgewood, Massachusetts

For your niece:

Miss Mary Gardner, Boston

For a girl or young lady:

Miss Margaret Wilson, Boston

Informal Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am to be married the first week of next month and as I am not having a large wedding—just the close relatives—I do not care to have invitations printed, but would like to send a nice letter. Will you please help me out and send me a form of this sort?

2—Also please let me know what kind of letter paper to use and if it is necessary to use double envelopes? We are going to be married at the minister's home and have the reception at my aunt's home, as my parents live out of town.

K.

1—Since your aunt is to be the hostess of your wedding reception, the proper thing is for her to write the note of invitation. Something like this:

Dear Grace:

Mary and Tom are to be married on Tuesday, the first of June, at four o'clock, at our minister's home (Doctor Faraday, 534 West Avenue). Of course you and John will be with us, won't you, at the ceremony, and later, at our home, for an informal gathering of the relatives to give felicitations and best wishes to the couple. Do say you'll come, for we are all looking forward to greeting you on "the day"!

Dearest love to you both,
Devotedly,
Jane.

2—The letter-paper on which you write to me is quite all right to use for these invitations. Use the single envelope . . . the double envelopes are only for informal, engraved invitations.

Accepting and Refusing

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a young man asks you to go out with him, and you wish to accept, what is the correct thing to say? If you wish to refuse, how should you go about it?

P.

If you wish to accept the invitation, simply say, "Thank you very much, Bob. I'd love to go to the dance with you." If you wish to refuse, say, "Thank you so much for asking me, but I have an engagement for Tuesday evening," or "I'm sorry I have to work on Wednesday evening, but you were very kind to ask me."

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Never enough blouses it would seem, as new designs appear daily. A charming version of the popular black and white blouse is of white satin, with large black polka dots. It is worn with a narrow, black antelope belt. There is a cowl-draped neck and short, puffed sleeves.

Swish along and wear taffeta or faille. A charming suit made of taffeta or stiffened tie-silk is in black with a thin white cross-bar pattern. The lower part of the jacket is marked with curved, pleated self-ruffles. Similar ruffles mark the neckline and the hemline of the skirt.

Out of a picture step the new afternoon hats with their trimmings of ribbon and flowers. A lovely model has a shallow crown of fine, black straw and a wide brim of pleated, stiffened organdie in white, held at the side back by velvet ribbons and a cluster of velvet rosebuds.

Daisies won't tell how popular they are as a print. One of the nicest ensembles to greet the new season is a beautiful black, white, green, red and yellow daisy print of heavy crepe de chine. With it is a long velveteen coat, lined with the print of the frock. Wide coat revers are also print-lined.

It is no use trying to tell us not to wear furs in the summer time. So the shops are showing all sorts of new summer furs. A useful cape is in white caracul. It is fitted at the shoulder and then hangs quite loose to the waist. It fastens with a frog made of strass and seed pearls.

-:- JUNIOR PATROL MAIL BOX -:-

We'll bet you like to watch a magician, fellows!

They are the men and women who can make things happen that don't seem possible. Right before your eyes, a big elephant vanishes from the stage. A girl jumps out of a ball of yarn. People climb up to the top of ladders and—vanish!

A magician can cut off a man's head and put it back on again! In plain ordinary flower pots huge bunches of flowers, all colors of the rainbow, grow and bloom in half a minute! A wave of the magician's handkerchief and a stack of gold fish bowls, full of water in which goldfish swim, appear on a table.

This kind of thing doesn't seem possible does it? We call it magic. But really, underneath the fun and the magic, it just shows how clever men can be. And it shows, too, how some natural things always seem mysterious.

The Hindu fakirs, or magicians in India, have a very famous trick. They show a basket which is very shallow but which bulges at the sides. It is a small basket, apparently, and it has no opening except the mouth at the top. The magician puts a husky boy inside the basket and takes a sword. Again and again he sticks the sword through the basket in every direction—with the boy inside it! It doesn't seem possible for the boy to escape.

The sword must be going right through him! The basket is so small, apparently, that he cannot possibly escape.

But really he does. The magician lifts the lid. The boy steps out unharmed. How was it done?

The explanation is easy—not really mysterious, spooky or magical at all. The basket is so designed that the boy can curl up in the bulge of the sides when the sword is thrust straight down. And in other ways move around inside it so that the blade always misses him. But it wouldn't do for us to try this trick. It would be dangerous because we are not skilled that way. We wouldn't know how to curl up in the basket. But it can be done.

So it is with most all tricks. They try out your wits.

'Nerves' Spoil Beauty

Nervousness upsets the beauty cart. If a woman is going to display poise and make the beauty grade she must have a sound nervous system. She gets it by paying attention to diet, having regular hours for sleep, getting out into the fresh air daily, refusing to let worry bugs fuss up her brain house. Nervousness reacts upon the appetite. Few jittery persons eat properly, when the stomach doesn't get fuel, eyes don't carry bright glints, and the complexion suffers in texture and coloring. It all simmers down to the important business of learning how to live. Without health the house of pulchritude is built upon sand.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

There is simply no use worrying about those few extra pounds!

Choose this model for your new frock and you will stop thinking about them—and so will everyone else. With such smart graceful lines before them, who could give a thought to anything so prosaic as pounds. Look at that yoke-cape arrangement! Isn't it good looking? And what it does for the figure is just nobody's business. The design is a very nice thing in chiffon, as the drawing shows, the pleats in the skirt giving it plenty of fulness. But it is a good crepe or cotton frock—and lovely plain, in georgette or silk crepe.

Pattern 1680 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Belgium's Radium For Debt Favored

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Representative Connolly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, said Secretary Morgenthau has indorsed the bill which would permit Belgium to send the United States $10,000,000 worth of radium in part payment of her war debt.

Connolly said the secretary felt the question should be referred for the State Department to ascertain Belgium's attitude toward the proposal.

MAGICIANS BRINGING TRICKS TO CITY

National Convention To Open Here Next Week

Bag and baggage, with their rabbits and linking rings, the magicians are arriving. By Sunday night, their invasion of Pittsburgh will be complete.

The national convention of the Society of Magicians at the Hotel Schenley, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will bring to town the country's foremost professional and amateur artists of slight-of-hand.

Queer sights will be seen on the street corners in Oakland. Small groups will gather about th. street corner performer to the tune of "Have you seen this one?" and possibly answered by, "Yes, but I do it this way."

Also will probably be seen Fred Robison, of Curwensville, Pa., leading "Jerry" by the hand; conversing casually they will walk down the street together. "Jerry" is only a dummy, Fred is a ventriloquist.

The public will have ample opportunity, however, to see a more formal presentation of the arts of legerdemain. Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the public will be admitted to performances in the Hotel Schenley ballroom.

CHIEF OF POLICE SLAYS BROTHER

GATE CITY, Va., May 25.—(AP.)—Clifford Davidson, chief of police of Gate City, was charged today with killing his brother whom he had sought to arrest.

The police chief said he had gone to arrest his brother, Cecil Davidson, for fighting with a Negro. An argument followed and the police chief fired at the brother when he feared the latter had a gun.

After the shooting Chief Davidson surrendered to Sheriff O. B. Darnall and was released on $1,000 bail

Prior to the shooting, Chief of Police Davidson had been summoned to a barber shop to quiet a disturbance involving the brother.

Footprints Convict Alleged Moonshiner

Nick Totino, of Bethel Township, was convicted in Federal Court yesterday of operating an unregistered still and manufacturing moonshine whisky. He was arrested January 9 as the operator of a distillery, when government agents identified him by footprints in the snow leading from the plant to his home.

McKeesport Boxer Victim of Poison

Chiffon Butter
WHIPT PURE

Chiffon Butter created by Kraft . . . is an ideal food for children—it's rich in nourishment. They love its fresh flavor. And they like its texture because it spreads so easily. Every member of the family enjoys Chiffon Butter's ideal instant flavor.

● The instant Chiffon Butter touches your tongue you will realize that you never really tasted butter before. You will enjoy all the delicate flavor of creamy, freshly-churned butter, and enjoy it instantly.

You will have discovered the secret ● known until now by only a few of the world's epicures—that when butter is whipt it tastes much better—just as whipped cream tastes better than ordinary cream.

Open the Chiffon Butter package and you will notice first of all the rich, creamy texture of this new butter—its delicate color—how easily it spreads. And then you taste it—that delightfully full, fresh flavor—a new experience in butter.

WHAT IS THE SECRET OF CHIFFON BUTTER'S Instant Flavor

The reason for this delicious, instantaneous flavor lies in a sensational new method of making butter which Kraft has perfected and introduced in Chiffon Butter.

In the past, a few skillful chefs whipt butter for their own patrons; but not until the great resources of the Kraft organization were put to work on the problem, was this superior butter made available to the general public. Now the Kraft facilities in the production and distribution of fine dairy products bring Chiffon Butter through the stores to you.

Starting with the finest selected and pasteurized cream, the Kraft method of making Chiffon Butter adds to the customary churning operation of the past a further step—scientifically developed and perfected by Kraft dairy experts. In this additional whipping operation the butter flavor and aroma elements are distributed more completely and uniformly through every bit of the butter. They are more instantly released when the butter reaches the taste buds on the tongue.

When you eat Chiffon Butter, you really taste butter. You discover the true, complete, delicate flavor—instantly.

Spreads easier

● Chiffon Butter spreads more easily, more smoothly, than ordinary butter—yet keeps its form in warm weather. Easy to make sandwiches with this delicious butter.

ATTACK IN PARK FATAL TO GIRL

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 25.—(AP.)—Search for an unidentified attacker of a coupie near here Sunday night was redoubled today following the death of Fannie Kurz, who with her companion, Milton J. Brown, was found unconscious in Battlefields Memorial Park.

Miss Kurz died in a hospital without regaining consciousness. Brown is in a critical condition with head injuries and has not been able to tell authorities how he and his fiancee were hurt.

The two were found Monday lying in a shallow depression in the park, hours after the assault was believed to have occurred.

Authorities found a two-foot section of lead pipe within a few hundred yards of the spot. They were told by at least six persons that a Negro had been lurking in the park. Another clue studied by investigators involved a man sought for a club killing in Washington on Sunday and later traced to Fredericksburg.

PLAN TO END SHORT LOOPING

Short looping of street cars on Routes 86, 88 and 95 will be discontinued within a few days if the Department of Public Safety approves the change, acording to Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board.

Mr. Finley said Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, has agreed to extend the routes from Ninth stret to Sixth street for a trial period of 60 days.

The Conference Board ordered discontinuation of the short looping on May 9 following receipt of a petition signed by 10,000 trolley riders who protested the inconvenience caused by ending the car lines on the edge of the downtown district.

HINTS FOR ZESTFUL PICNIC BASKETS

Meat Roll Suggested As Helping to Solve Open-Air Snacks

Getting ready for the younster's school picnic? After a day of romping and trying everything in the park that is to be tried, they'll be plenty hungry on their grand closing holiday of the class year.

Baskets will simply have to be loaded to satisfy them, and in addition to the sandwiches, cakes, and fruits which you must have, a picnic meat roll, like Miss Agnes Power's $5 prize winner, will fit in perfectly with the rest of the lunch.

Prudence Penny is curious to know what sort of a picnic meal your family likes best. With summer making out-door outings a weekly event, her housewife readers will want new things for their open-air snacks. Send in your recipes and menus to her at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and she, in turn will continue to make daily awards of $5 and $1 to the best recipes received. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MISS AGNES FOWERS,
550 Talbot Avenue, Braddock.
PICNIC MEAT ROLL

Two pounds forequarter of lamb.
One and one-fourth cups cracker crumbs.
One tablespoon onion.
Three tablespoons green pepper.
Two raw eggs.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon salt.
Four hard-cooked eggs.
One cup milk.

To finely chopped lamb, onion and green pepper add remaining ingredients, excepting hard-cooked eggs and mix thoroughly. Turn out on slightly-floured board. Place hard-cooked eggs in center of meat. Shape into a roll and dredge with flour. Put in roast pan and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes. Serve with chopped parsley sprinkled over it.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. HARRY BORRES,
5518 Harrison street, Lawrenceville.
STRAWBERRY CHIFFON PIE.

One level tablespoon gelatine.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Four eggs.
Three-quarters cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One cup strawberry pulp and juice.
One tablespoon of lemon juice.
Red coloring.

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Beat egg yolks slightly and add one-half cup of sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook over boiling water (in double boiler) until it is of custard thickness. Add the softened gelatine, stirring thoroughly, then add strawberries and coloring. Cool, and when mixture begins to congeal, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which has been added the other one-quarter cup of sugar. Fill baked pie shell and chill. Just before serving spread a thin layer of whipped cream decorated with strawberries over the pie.

MRS. ARTHUR KRESS,
542 Stokes avenue, North Braddock.
SCALLOPED CORN AND CHICKEN

One cup thin cream, top milk or chicken stock.
Two cups cooked fresh corn.
Two eggs.
Two cups minced cooked chicken.
One cup buttered bread crumbs, grated cheese and chopped parsley.

Add cream, top milk or chicken stock to corn with beaten eggs. Season to taste. Cover with diced cooked chicken. Next, add a layer of the corn mixture. Continue alternating layers until all material has been added. Sprinkle bread crumbs, grated cheese and chopped parsley on top. Bake in a moderate oven until a delicate brown. Minced ham can be used in place of chicken.

MISS LILLIAN LOEFFLER,
Wildwood Country Club, Allison Park.
SILVER CAKE

3 cups sugar.
1 cup butter.
6 egg whites.
¼ teaspoonful salt.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.
3 cups cake flour.

Beat the butter and sugar until very light and creamy. Add the milk alternately with the flour with which the baking powder has been sifted in the last cup of flour. Beat thoroughly before adding the baking powder. Add the well beaten whites of eggs. Bake about 40 minutes in three nine-inch layers. This will make a large cake.

MRS. B. A. GEIER,
225 S. Birmingham avenue, Avalon.
MOLDED CHEESE AND PECAN SALAD

Half pound grated American cheese.
One small can pimentos.
One dozen stuffed olives, finely cut.
One cup pecan meats.
Few grains cayenne.
Lettuce.
One heaping tablespoon gelatine.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Half cup boiling water.
Half teaspoon salt.
One cup cream, whipped.
Mayonnaise.

Soak gelatine in the cold water, then dissolve in the boiling water. When perfectly dissolved and cold, mix in the other ingredients, all except the whipped cream. When salad begins to stiffen fold in the cream. Chill in small brick molds or little bread pans, either to be rinsed with ice water for several hours or over night. When serving cut in squares, put a square on a lettuce leaf, then a spoonful of stiff mayonnaise on the square, and serve on small plates, adding a tiny sprig of cress.

MRS. M. GRIVAS,
6322 Penn avenue, East Liberty.
BAKED MACARONI AND FRESH ASPARAGUS

One cup macaroni, broken in inch pieces.
Four tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
Two and a quarter cups milk.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon white pepper.
Three-quarters cup American cheese, grated.
Three teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
Two cups cooked fresh asparagus, cut in three-quarter-inch pieces.

Three-quarters cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and rinse with cold water. Make a white sauce in double boiler with the butter, flour, milk, salt and pepper. Add cheese and stir until melted. Remove from fire and slowly add Worcestershire sauce and mayonnaise, stirring constantly. Arrange alternate layers of macaroni and asparagus in buttered casserole. Cover with sauce and buttered bread crumbs on top. Bake in slow oven until brown. Serves eight. Canned asparagus may be substituted for the fresh.

Accused Justice Admits Big Loans

NEW YORK, May 25.—(Universal.)—Justice Harold L. Kunstler, whose removal from the Municipal Court bench is sought by the Bar Association, yesterday admitted he banked $166,660 in three and a half years, although his salary over the same period was only $40,035.

Kunstler said the $126,625 difference between salary and deposits came from loans he obtained from "hundreds of people" following his appointment to the bench in 1928 by former Mayor Walker.

DOOM

The wonder exterminator for rats, mice, bedbugs, roaches, moths, mosquitoes, flies, fleas and many other insects. Prepared in powder, liquid, pill and paste form. The liquid is sold in pints, quarts and gallon cans. The powder is put up in ¼, ½, 1 and 5-pound cans. Special prices in bulk lots. We absolutely guarantee that one application of Roach Doom will completely rid your premises of roaches. It not only kills the old insects—it kills the young also. Bug Doom will exterminate to your complete satisfaction, all bedbugs. Besides killing the live bugs it destroys all eggs as well, in fact, it cleans out the whole breed. Mice Doom pills are sugar coated pellets about the size of a pea which mice eat readily. Rat Doom is a phosphorus paste that can be spread like butter on any article of food. The phosphorus in this form unites with the gastric juices of the stomach and causes severe suffocating and internal pains. The pains drive the rats into the open air, thus reducing to a minimum their dying in obscure places in the home.

Remember these preparations are sold under an absolute guarantee "No riddance—no pay." On sale at our Retail Department.

STUDENTS' GIFT TO PROF BANNED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 25.—(AP.)—Ferndale High School seniors, in the midst of a "nickel and dime" raising campaign yesterday, were forbidden to present a farewell gift to their supervising principal, Dr. H. A. Hay.

The students had planned to give the principal a watch at commencement exercises last night.

Ruling against the gift, Frank Levergood, president of the school board, said:

"Graduation is for senior students and their parents—and for no one else. This would not be a proper time for such a presentation."

With much of the watch-fund raised, leaders of the graduating class pledged themselves to purchase the gift and present it to Dr. Hay informally "in a day or two."

Pitt Undergrads Begin Examinations

YOGI, 135, GOES TO GRAVE ALIVE

International News Service.

CALCUTTA, May 25.—Declaring his gods were calling him to "a more important world," the 135-year-old yogi Shambhunath, of the famous Bareilly Temple in Calcutta, was buried alive today at his own request.

Thousands of Hindus surrounded the newly-dug grave, as the priest was ceremoniously enclosed in his coffin and lowered into the ground. Fresh earth then was filled into the hole.

Participants in this strange burial then stood by for hours, awaiting a "sign of approval" from the gods.

Mother Takes Baby To Flaming Death

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—(AP.)—Leaving a note saying "it is best that I do this," a Japanese mother carried her 11-month-old son to a flaming death with her last night in the Japanese tea garden at Golden Gate Park.

The woman, Mrs. Aiko Hagiwara, 23, police said, drenched herself and her son with gasoline, applied a match and leaped into a rubbish pit at the tea garden, where, a short time before, she had served guests.

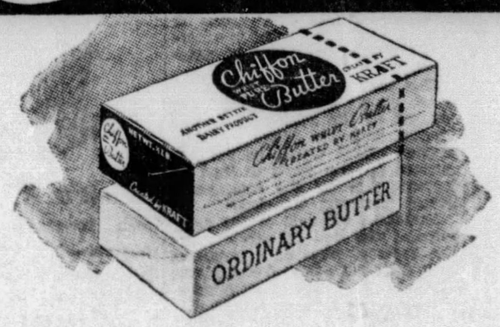
Salted or unsalted. Packed only in half-pound cartons

She knew the secret . . . Madame Fontaine in sunny Provence knew a secret shared by few, until now. Her grandmother and her mother in turn handed on to her the laborious ritual of whipping butter—because only in this way is the delicious, "fresh-churned" flavor and aroma of good creamery butter released—instantly—for the full enjoyment of the senses. Now you may share the enjoyment of this secret, thanks to the enterprise of Kraft.

CREATED BY KRAFT

Creams more quickly

Economical



● Chiffon Butter creams in much less time and much more easily than ordinary butter. Saves time and work in making sauces and cakes. And the Chiffon Butter flavor makes all good foods taste better.

● Chiffon Butter is economical, as you will appreciate when you see the big Chiffon package—nearly a third larger than the usual half pound of butter package—because this butter is whipt.

Numbers in Job Line Fewer

By B. K. FORBES

VISITING THE locality in New York City where unemployment offices abound, I was yesterday struck by the decrease in the number seeking jobs — not more than one-tenth of what it was not so long ago.

Mr. Forbes

There were, however, a notably large number of carpenters, with their working kits of saw, hammer, squares, etc., hunting work.

One major trouble with the building industry is that wages and costs are out of line. The union wage rates for carpenters and other building tradesmen are much higher than most other classes of workers are today enjoying. Therefore, there is little encouragement for the ordinary family to embark on building a new home.

Stagnation in building is also aggravated by the circumstance that there are available in most communities homes and other structures at lower figures than it would cost to put up new ones. There is thus scant encouragement for speculative or other builders to launch new operations.

This condition will cure itself in time, but the immediate outlook is not inspiring notwithstanding the various schemes adopted and planned by the government to aid builders and home owners.

Nevertheless another building boom greater than any ever witnessed will develop in a few years—perhaps a very few years from now.

A BUSINESS MAN who has a sense of humor sends this:

N. R. A. me down to sleep,
Pray the Lord
My codes I'll keep;
If I should bust
Before I wake,
The A. F. of L.
My plant will take.

RAILWAY PRESIDENT L. F. Loree, member of the old school, long has been noted for his autocratic attitude towards labor, the public, everybody.

When a stockholder at the annual meeting of Delaware and Hudson urged the payment of a dividend, Loree peremptorily reprimanded him that any such suggestion from a stockholder was out of order!

Corporation executives are going to find that stockholders hereafter will insist upon having some voice in affairs. Just as Sam Insull mistakingly imagined that every "Insull" company was his own personal property, old school Loree retains a notion that the railroad he heads belongs to him, to be run exactly as he sees fit and that it is "out of order" for any of the owners (stockholders) to discuss dividends or anything else.

Happily, this old-fashioned, anachronistic idea is rapidly vanishing.

IT SEEMS to me that Wall street has been overdoing pessimism.

WASHINGTON WAS astounded at the furore created by its ill-considered cancellation of all air-mail contracts. That a tragic blunder was committed is now generally recognized. What should now be done to enable this country to insure aviation leadership? One of the ablest men in industry, consulted, offers these suggestions:

1—Eliminate political considerations.

2—Mistakes made in the development of the railroads should not be repeated: Unnecessary and uneconomic duplication of service should not be tolerated.

3—Payment should be based on work done—a rate per pound mile, not greater than the income received by the post office from air mail stamp revenue. Possibly certain sound economic feeder lines should be paid an additional amount to insure service.

4—Too much has been said about air mail subsidy and not enough about providing a service which the country needs and wants. Why should the air mail be required to pay its own way when the same requirement is not demanded of rural free delivery, 2nd, 3rd and 4th class matter, parcel post, the lighthouse service, the coast guard, the internal waterways, and many other federal services?

5—An enabling act to provide federal certificates of convenience and necessity, with intelligent regulatory provisions as to rates, type of equipment, safety devices and general conduct.

6—The government should encourage the development of other sources of revenue than mail, passengers, express and freight, to reduce mail cost. This will discourage using all-mail planes.

7—All lines should be required to adhere to the same specifications as to type of flying equipment, conduct of flying personnel, safety devices, etc.

Sounds sensible, doesn't it?

WALL STREET SPIRITS AT LOW EBB

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—The stock market appeared to be deep in the doldrums today and speculative enthusiasm was at an even lower ebb than in the preceding session.

News developments generally were negative if not neutral and the few traders who visited the boardrooms were deaf to the pleas of customers' men to "get aboard for a turn." Labor clouds still obscured the economic skies. The Washington political scene was also a little murky. Some equities firmed moderately on scattered buying, but as many isues were either unchanged or slightly lower.

Equities were inclined to ignore a rally of about 2 cents a bushel in wheat which was based largely on further drought reports. Rubber futures recovered substantially and cotton and silver were fairly steady. Bonds moved lazily in a restricted range and foreign exchanges registered unimportant fluctuations.

A rather firm tone was displayed by shares of American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Union Carbide, General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, du Pont, Case, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, American Sugar Refining, Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit. Most of the metals were easier, the oils were at a standstill and the utilities merely marked time. The rails were around their previous closing levels.

Some commentators were of the opinion that, to a considerable degree, current and nearby uncertainties surrounding the economic picture have been accounted for marketwise. It was also pointed out that the technical position of stocks seems to be satisfactory and that the recent subnormal activity shows that many issues may be at "sold out" levels.

The strike situation at Toledo and in other sections of the country were being watched closely and fears were expressed that, unless federal intervention proves successful, labor trouble may spread. The threat of a walkout in the steel industry on June 16 was also not being overlooked, although in some quarters it was thought that, in view of the expected summer drop in production, the shutting down of some of the mills would not cause them to fall too far behind prospective orders.

WHEAT SCORES SHARP RISE

CHICAGO, May 25.—With buying spirited, wheat and oats bounded upyard late today to the highest price level since February and corn to the highest since March.

Forecasts of renewed excessive heat in drought regions Northwest had much to do with making grain prices soar. Winnipeg led the wheat advance, although remaining at a liberal discount under Chicago.

Wheat scored a maximum rise of 3¼ cents. The close was strong, 2⅜ to 3¼ above yesterday's finish; July, 91⅜ to 91¾; corn, ⅞ to 1⅜ up; oats, 1½ to 1⅝ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 9,403

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Loading of revenue freight during the week ended May 19 totaled 611,142 cars, an increase of 9,403 cars over the preceding week, an increase of 75,423 cars over the corresponding week in 1933, and a gain of 95,514 cars over the same week in 1932, the American Railway Association announces.

Rayon Price 'War' Upsets Industry

NEW YORK, May 25.—Competitive price cutting continues in the rayon industry. Following cuts in acetate rayon made by the Celanese Corporation, the Du Pont Rayon Corporation has announced a new scale on acetate rayon materially lower than prices quoted by Celanese. On the 150 denier reduced by Celanese to 75c a pound from 78c, Du Pont is quoting 65c and on 100 denier Du Pont is quoting 85c against 90c by Celanese.

Current price reductions bring rayon to the lowest level in history.

DETROIT MAYOR URGES TAX SAVINGS

Tapayers should not be denied the essential services rendered by their local and state governments but at the same time every frill and every duplication of effort should be eliminated in governmental operation, Mayor Frank Couzens, of Detroit, declared in a recent radio address.

Mayor Couzens, like every other public official, is aware of the increasing demand for reduction in taxes, which can only be brought about through economy in governmental operation. Like every other public official he knows, there is too much overlapping and duplication through the multiple units of government. He has stated many times that governmen costs can be reduced by eliminating the duplication and overlapping in service.

URGES ECONOMY

Mayor Couzens said that practical experience shows that reductions in the cost of government can, and have been made and at the same time efficiency and humanitarian impulses can be maintained.

He declared:

"Public office is not a sinecure but a job for a man to work at as loyally and as attentive as if it were his own private business. Economy is something to be endured."

Continuing, he said:

"When a public official endures economy it is the duty of the people to support him and applaude the economy as much as they formerly applauded extravagances. When necessary reductions are made the public official steps on the toes of a lot of people and the people have long memories. Selfish resistance on the part of many must be overcome. We must be willing to deny ourselves things we would like to have and should have, but which we can not afford. The public desire to cut costs and thus reduce taxes must be militant."

ATTORNEY IN PLEA

Attorney Arthur J. Lacy, of Detroit, who appeared on the same program with Mayor Couzens, also made a plea for governmental economy.

Lacy said:

"One of the most important phases of the permanent recovery program is the federal action being taken and the national recognition being given of the necessity for modernizing and reducing the administrative costs of local government units so that they can become self-sustaining and self-reliant, and perform their full local functions, preserving to the people everywhere the immediate control and administration of their own local affairs at a cost within the taxpaying ability of the people."

LEADERS NAMED FOR CIVIC CLUB

Three new members were added to the directorate of the Civic Club of Allegheny County, holding its annual meeting last night in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. They are B. B. Croup, second vice president; Miss Elizabeth S. Arbuthnot and Alexander P. Reed.

Dr. M. K. McKay was elected president. Other officers named are: Francis S. Guthrie, first vice president; Croup, second vice president; Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., treasurer; H. LITTLE GAINS FINAL IN BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Swift Doing Best Hurling. Strong in Three Starts. Padden Winning Factor.

Unwanted Pitcher Shines. Fistiana's Unusual Pair. Track Chance for East.

After a limping start, Bill Swift is now doing the best pitching on the Pittsburgh club. In tripping the Boston jinx yesterday to break a string of seven straight Pirate defeats at Braves Field, the Scranton citizen turned in his third consecutive well-hurled engagement. With ordinary luck, Swift would have scored three victories during that stretch, as his lone defeat came in a game in which he held the Dodgers to one run in nine innings, only to lose out in the tenth through a wild throw by Earl Grace. In the three games, Bill allowed a total of only seven runs, which is stylish chucking with that lively ball. Incidentally, it was Swift who pitched the last previous Buccaneer victory in Boston, a 6-to-2 win on June 20, 1933.

Bill Swift

The fact that Tommy Padden did the catching for the Rovers in the routing of the Boston hoodoo is another feature that calls for more than passing notice. The presence of the hustling and greatly improved Padden behind the bat appears to mean success for the Pirates these days. Yesterday's game was the seventh straight caught by him that resulted in a victory. Only two contests in which he started this season were lost, and he has hit safely in all of his 12 games, barring two that did not give him a legal time at bat, his clouting average up to date being the healthly one of 361.

NEW DELEHANTY DOESN'T LIKE BASEBALL

The name of Delehanty has been so inseparably connected with baseball that it is hard to believe any offspring of the famous family that sent five brothers to the major leagues could grow up without having a strong leaning toward the diamond sport as a favorite pastime. You'd imagine that surely it would have to be in the blood. There was the original Ed, the only man who ever led both the National and American Leagues in hitting, and ranked by many veterans as the greatest batsman of all time. Then there were Joe, Jim, Frank and Tom, all of whom saw big league service. Tom was with the Pirates for a short time in 1896. He was obtained from the Cleveland club, then in the National League.

But now comes another Ed Delehanty to pass up baseball and go in for track and football. He is a son of Frank, who played big league baseball for Cleveland and Washington. The strapping youngster, 6 feet tall and weighing 180 pounds, is a student at Cathedral Latin School in Cleveland. Unlike his father and uncles, young Ed sees no appeal in baseball, but is a weight man on his school's track team, with a shot-putting record of 50 feet 9 inches, and plays fullback on the football team, having been shifted from tackle last season.

PITCHER BELIEVED DONE IS CLUB'S ACE

Clark Griffith and Joe Cronin may complain that in some respects the fates have been unkind to the Senators this season, but they must admit that they got one lucky break in the fact that nobody took Pitcher Alphonse Thomas off their hands last winter when they were trying to give him away. It happens sometimes in baseball that a player viewed as holding the least promise on a club turns out to be one of the most valuable. The Thomas story is a case in point. Washington kept Thomas only because no other club could be induced to take him, and now he is the ace of the Cronin mound corps.

Alphonse Thomas

His fast ball gone as a result of two arm operations, Thomas was practically counted out a few months ago. Not only did all of the major league clubs waive on him, but even the minor operators declined to take a chance on him because of his questionable arm. Tommy still had his old courage, a good curve ball, and plenty of pitching knowledge, and when the Senators were forced to give him another chance he surprised everybody by turning right in to become the club's best bet in the box. An April prediction that Alphonse would win more games than the great Alvin Crowder or Earl Whitehill during the first five weeks of the season would have been considered a joke, yet with four wins in five starts the pitcher who was not wanted has delivered more victories than Crowder and Whitehill combined and twice as many as any other flinger on the Washington staff.

FOSTER AND M'LARNIN RARE RING TEAM

It is more than a business partnership that exists between Pop Foster and Jimmy McLarnin. They are more than manager and fighter. It is difficult to conceive, particularly in the fight game, where such things are so rare, a greater loyalty than they have shown to each other. They are like father and son.

Some of the hard-faced gentry who make their way in the world by cashing in on the work of others tried to muscle Foster out of the picture and take over the management of McLarnin. But it didn't work with McLarnin, and even gun threats failed to scare Foster, so at last the muscle men gave up. Pop and Jimmy will go the rest of the way together. "When Jimmy quits the ring, I'll quit, too," Foster said. "I'll never manage another fighter."

BIG TRACK TITLE MAY RETURN TO EAST

A big track and field championship that has made its home on the Pacific Coast for nine years may return to the East as the outcome of the fifty-eighth annual I. C. 4-A title meet on Franklin Field in Philadelphia today and tomorrow.

John Lyman

Not since Yale won in 1924 has the Atlantic side of the country tasted victory. Every year in the meantime the team honors went to the Far West. When it wasn't Southern California, it might be California; if not California, it was Stanford. But at last the East has a fighting chance again, not so much because of any remarkable advance on the part of its own athletes as because of the fact that the western opposition has been cut down.

The usual army of Pacific Coast athletes will not compete this time. The Trojans are remaining at home and Stanford and California have sent only 12 athletes in two teams. In spite of the changed conditions, however, an eastern victory is by no means assured, and if scored at all it won't be achieved without a hard struggle. For the Stanford team, though including only seven men, packs a wealth of class. One Cardinal considered a sure winner, for instance, is John Lyman, who would be a world champion in the shot-put but for Jack Torrance, of Louisiana State. Blackman, in the 400 meters, Klopstock in the low hurdles, and Moctram, in the javelin throw, also will be hard to beat, and the Stanford team has other possible point winners in Deacon, Dunn and Nimmo. Possibly that array may prove strong enough to take the honors right back to the Far West for the tenth successive time, but at least the East has a better chance than at any time since 1924, with Cornell and Yale leading.

Death Thins Ranks of Pitt's Greatest Team---Here's That '16 Eleven

DALE SIES, GUARD PUD SEIDEL, TACKLE PAT HERRON, END JIM MORROW, QUARTERBACK JIMMY DE HART, HALFBACK

JOCK SUTHERLAND, GUARD CLAUDE THORNHILL, TACKLE CLIFF CARLSON, END GEORGE M'LAREN, Fullback ANDY HASTINGS, HALFBACK BOB PECK, CENTER

With the death of Andy Hastings, the second member of the greatest football team in the history of the University of Pittsburgh—that of 1916, when Pop Warner was coach and Jock Sutherland, present coach, was a player—has answered the final call. Bob Peck, captain of the outfit and twice Walter Camp's choice for all-America center, later athletic director at Culver Military Academy, was the first to go. Chalky Williamson, quarterback and captain of the 1915 team, also has died, along with Tom Kendrick, another player of the same era. Pitt's teams went undefeated throughout the 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918 seasons. Cliff Carlson, a member of the 1916 regular team, pictured above, now is the basketball coach of the Panthers.

NETTERS LIFT TOURNEY LID MONDAY

The first taste of real tournament competition of the district tennis season has been anounced for Monday evening of next week, when the third annual Stanton Heights invitation men's singles event will get under way on the North Aiken courts. The conclave will continue over Memorial Day, with the final slated for the ensuing Sunday, unless rain should cause delay.

ENTRY LIST CLOSED

According to word from Chairman George D. Henderson, the entry list has been closed with some 25 names on the roster. Included among the entrants are seven of Western Pennsylvania's "First 10"—Dr. Dave and Dr. John O'Laughlin, of the P. A. A.; Frank Broida, of the Belmont Racquet Club; Charley Lockhart, of the University Club, and Frank Smith, Russ Unger, and Henderson himself, of Stanton Heights. Twelve visitors and 13 Stantonians comprise the list, which shows, in addition to those enumerated above, the folowing performers: Frank McClintock, Don Mattern and Bob Madden, of the University Club; Bill Clardy and L. M. Tickvinsky, of Westinghouse; Ed Alcorn and Bob Lampus, of the Belmont Racquet Club, and Hub Rinehart, Wally Arensberg, E. A. Knoche, Carlton Hughes, Stan McCaskey, Bob Caffee, Vin Glidden, Karl Wolfe, Mehl and Allen, of Stanton Heights.

The two previous editions of the Heights tourney have been September features, this year's gathering having been moved ahead with the dual object of filling the long-lamented Memorial Day net vacancy and providing a spirited warm-up test for the Western Pennsylvania championships, which are to get under way on the same lot on Saturday, June 16. Dr. John O'Loughlin defeated his brother Dave in the final of the 1932 Stanton classic, while in 1933 Broida downed Billy O'Loughlin in the trophy struggle.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

Publication of details of the North Aiken feature is said to be precursor of the proclamation of a heavy schedule of competition, including at least two brand new tournaments, soon to be released by the Pittsburgh Tennis Association.

The P. T. A. executive committee, in session yesterday, passed a regulation whereby the captain of each team in the Inter-Club League must, before the second round of matches, file with President Bob Schmertz a complete list of the ranking of his players. Revision of such lists may be made only on the basis of actual play, and notice of any switch must be in the hands of President Schmertz not later than noon of the Saturday whereon the changed line-up is to go into action. The executive group will convene again next Thursday, when final regulations of competition will be adopted—PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: A PIN IN HIS MOUTH FOR 23 YEARS—For some unknown reason, Robert Ball, machinist helper employed by the Seaboard Air Line Railroad in Jacksonville, Fla., has carried a common brass pin in his mouth continuously for the last 23 years, never removing it even for meals or while he sleeps. Ball contends that the pin has great historic value and represents a large amount of money invested in it to protect one of his ancestors from a conjurer in olden times. According to people who have known Ball for many years, he never has failed to produce the pin at any time of day or night if called upon to do so. PILOTED A TRAIN FROM COAST TO COAST—During recent weeks the Union Pacific system has shown its new streamlined train in many of the large cities of the United States and Engineer Harry D. Robinson, of Kearney, Neb., was chosen as pilot. Robinson took the controls at the shops of the builders in Pullman, Ill., ran the train to Washington, Detroit, Omaha and thence to Los Angeles and up the Pacific Coast—the only engineer to accomplish the task of taking a train from coast to coast across the continent.

TOMORROW: TUNISIAN LEANING TOWER.

GEORGE DUNLAP DEFEATED IN SEMI-FINALS

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 25.—(AP.)—W. Lawson Little, husky San Francisco youth, today gained the final round of the British amateur golf championship by defeating Leslie Garnett, of London, by 1 up at the nineteenth hole.

Little's opponent for the championship will be James Wallace, sensational unemployed Scottish carpenter, who eliminated George Terry Dunlap, Jr., American amateur champion, by 2 and 1, in the semi-finals.

The 36-hole championship round will be played tomorrow.

After turning all even, the square-shouldered Pacific coast star won the twelfth to take the lead, but Garnett wiped out the deficit by winning the next hole. Little regained the lead at the sixteenth and then the Englishman squared the match at the eighteenth.

SINKS 16-FOOT PUTT

Garnett sank a great 16-foot putt for his birdie three at the home hole. Little, who appeared to have the match won after chipping his second eight feet from the cup, sighted his putt carefully. The ball held the line to the hole for half the distance and then curved away.

The wildly-excited crowd of 10,000 fans surged over to the first tee for the extra hole play-off.

Both got good drives and both got home with their seconds, but Garnett was fully eight yards inside the Californian's ball. Little rolled up to within three feet of the hole. Garnett putted and went two feet over. Without a sign of nervousness, Little stepped up and mildly banged his ball into the cup for a par 4.

MISSES SHORT PUTT

Garnet stepped forward and the huge gallery groaned as he, for the first time during the tournament, missed a putt of less than a yard. The ball rolled to the rim of the cup, seemed to teeter and then stopped. The duel was over and with a wry grin, the young Englishman walked over to Little and shook hands warmly.

News reached Little while playing the sixteenth hole—at a time when his match was all square—of Dunlap's defeat. The knowledge that he remained as the sole American entry seem to give the Californian added courage.

Little defeated T. A. Bourn, British veteran, 4 and 2, in the quarter-final round this morning.

DUNLAP DISAPPOINTS

After his hair-raising first and second-round recovery victories, Dunlap was regarded by old British golf disciples as "a man of destiny." After being 5 down and with five holes to play, the slender American titleholder finally nosed out G. P. Packenham Walsh on the twenty-second hole in the first round. A. W. Breault, of Detroit, carried him to the eighteenth in the second round. He also had a close call with Roger Wethered yesterday, finally winning again on the last hole.

As one local character here put it, Wallace is playing in the championship because there are no roofs to fix in Prestwick. He has been promised a job if he wins the title.

Dunlap—even par for the 17 holes the match lasted—had no apologies to make for his round which included three birdies.

Wallace shot phenomenal golf on the last eight holes, among the hardest in Scotland. He played them in three under par.

STRONG FINISH

Once Wallace took the lead at the fourteenth Dunlap never really had a chance to recover. Wallace came close to sinking birdie threes on both the fifteenth and sixteenth.

Dunlap became the fifth Wal-

GIANTS HONOR MRS. DREYFUSS

Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, widow of the late owner of the Pirates, and Mrs. John McGraw, widow of the former manager of the New York Giants, will be honored at the Polo Grounds, New York, tomorrow, when the Giants unfurl the world championship banner which they won by defeating the Washington Senators in the world series last fall.

Officials of the New York club deferred the raising of the championship emblem until the Pirates' appearance at the Polo Grounds in order that Mrs. Dreyfuss might join Mrs. McGraw in sharing in the ceremonies.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates, and his wife are to accompany Mrs. Dreyfuss to New York.

Pirate officials today received word from the Chicago club that the Bucs' games with the Cubs in Chicago on Memorial Day will be staged as a double-header in the afternoon, rather than as morning and afternoon games, as heretofore.

Local Pro Gridder In Seashore Shooting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 25.—(AP.)—Harry Parzow, 31, night club proprietor, is being held by police as the result of the fatal shooting of Edward Kennedy, 201-pound Philadelphia wrestler.

Kennedy was shot in the Morocco Club during a fight early today and died about seven hours later.

Police reported that Kennedy and Nelson Rhoades, 24, 225-pound guard of the Pittsburgh professional football team last fall, became involved in a dispute with Parzow and the bartender, Harry Spewick, 39.

BARTELL RAPS VAUGHAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—The Inquirer says Dick Bartell, injured captain of the Phillies, claims Arky Vaughan, Pirates' shortstop, deliberately hit him on the head with a thrown ball while attempting to make a double play.

Bartell was going to second base in the final game between the Pirates and Phillies Tuesday when he was hit. He has been unable to play since that time.

The Inquirer quotes Bartell as saying:

"You can't tell me it was not intentional. I have played shortstop for seven years, have made double plays until my head was in a whirl and I have never seen the time when I could not and did not avoid hitting a baserunner who was speeding toward second base.

"If you have watched Vaughan make the relay to first base on double plays you will notice that he always throws the ball overhand. On this particular occasion he threw it sidearm so he wouldn't miss."

RAIN PREVENTS FINAL BATTLE OF BUC-BRAVE SERIES

SWIFT IN HERO ROLE IN 7-3 PIRATE WIN

BOSTON, May 25.—Rain today prevented the final game of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves. The Pirates open a there-game series with the New York Giants in New York tomorrow.

Pie Traynor was back in his batting stride yesterday as the Pirates powdered Eddie Brandt with another convincing defeat. Cookie Lavagetto furnished a high spot in the seventh when he smacked a homer into the left field bleachers to put his club in front. The Pirates put the game away in the eighth as they scored four wins, to win, 7 to 3.

LINDSTROM INJURED

Lindstrom was injured in the sixth inning in trying for a catch of a low liner off Marty McManus' bat. It was felt that the injured finger of his left hand would keep him out of action for quite a spell. An X-ray picture disclosed no broken bones and Lindy will be able to play within a week.

Bill Swift came into his own in a couple of ways as he worked successfully to keep the Pittsburgh entry on top of the National League heap. Bill not only pitched effectively, he slammed the rocket for two triples and a double to figure deeply in the scoring.

Swift's three-bagger of the eighth was at first designated as a three-run homer, but after hearing a loud protest from the Braves, the umpires reversed themselves and put Swift back on third to conform with a ground rule.

Bill's battery mate, Tom Padden, singled with the bases loaded and two out to drive in two runs, just before Swift connected for his second long hit.

BRAVES TIE SCORE

Lloyd Waner opened the game with a double, and he scored the first run of the game. The Braves tied up the battle in the second and they forged ahead in the third by scoring a run. Swift uncorked his first triple in the fifth, and he scored the tying run on P. Waner's double.

Lavagetto untied the knot heroically in the seventh when he belted one of Brandt's offerings into the left field seats. The eighth-inning drive of the Pittsburghers took the contest out of the doubtful stage, although the Braves fought back in the ninth to the extent of scoring one run.

The Braves last night announced the sending out on option of Pitcher Bob Brown and Outfielder Joe Mowry to Albany, of the International League.

Brown was a pitching sensation with the Braves in 1932, but was disabled last season by a sore arm and this year started late. Mowry came to the Braves from minor league baseball last year.

Max Baer's Hands Brittle, Report

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 25.—(INS.)—Max Baer, California's fun-loving heavyweight contender, today refused to discuss reports current in New York that his hands have turned brittle on him.

Baer and his staff of sparring partners go through about six rounds of boxing daily and outwardly, at least, the Californian appears in good shape. If he is making an effort to spare his hands, he is doing it cleverly.

TELEGRAM AND CABLE FIGURING IN NEGOTIATIONS FOR MIDDLEWEIGHT BATTLE HERE IN JULY

Telegram at top above is self-explanatory. Manager Max Waxman, after week of negotiating, finally informs Matchmaker Lew Raymond he does not care to have his Vince Dundee, world middleweight champion, risk his title against Ted Yarosz in a 15-round bout here, turning down a guarantee of $12,500 with a privilege of 37½ per cent of the receipts. Yarosz defeated Dundee twice in bouts before Dundee won the championship. Raymond has sent the cable (below) to Jeff Dickson, the European promoter and manager of Marcel Thil, European champion and former N. B. A. world titleholder, offering Thil the match with Yarosz at a big guarantee and expenses. At the same time, Manager Ray Foutts has asked the New York Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association, in telegrams, to declare Dundee's title vacant if he refuses to box Yarosz, who is recognized as logical contender by both bodies.

ENTRY HEAVY IN SOFTBALL

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI,
Softball Tournament Secretary

Entries for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur championship softball tournament are coming in so rapidly that indications are that the field will exceed all expectations for a first-year event.

District leaders report surprising enthusiasm and a general trend from mushball to the standardized game of softball, which, it is expected, will dominate the field before another year rolls around.

In connection with the deputies, Bid Schwartzkopf, the East End director, also has been named to take care of the Wilkinsburg entries, and Ziggy Kahn, director in the Hill District, has appointed a committee to co-operate with him. It includes Everett Utterback, athletic director of Kay Community House, famous broad jumper; Walter Petty, of the Center Avenue Y. M. C. A.; Bill James, Washington Park; Joe Raciappo, Soho; Charles Supowitz, Coterel A. A.; Sam Mensein, Lee A. C., and Dave Bitach.

Entries close one week from today, and play gets under way during the week of June 10. You can't get in your entry blank too early.

Among the latest entries received are those of the Brown Buddies Girls, of Duquesne; Rex Club, of Pittsburgh; Hill Billys, of the Hill; Schenley Falcons, of Herron Hill; Campbell's Lunch, of Homewood; Newells, of Newell, Pa.; Western Electric Company, of the East End; the Eagles, of Troy Hill; the Dragons, of Beltzhoover, and the Nationals, of Squirrel Hill.

Grimes May Join Washington Senators

ST. LOUIS, May 25.—(AP.)—Burleigh Grimes, last of the major league spitball pitchers, conferred yesterday with Manager Joe Cronin, of the Washington Senators, in an effort to land a job with the American League champions.

Cronin said after the conference that he was interested, but was unable to figure how he could sign Grimes, as Washington is carrying the limit of 23 players. Grimes recently was released by

PENNANT ASPIRANTS BUNCHED IN NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

CORSAIRS HOLD LEAD IN CLOSE FLAG CHASE

Associated Press.

The current trend of the National League race, instead of heading toward a decision, appears to be toward keeping the four contenders as closely bunched as possible.

Today's standing found Pittsburgh's Pirates with a clear lead of a half game after their 7-3 triumph over the Boston Braves, coupled with New York's 7-to-1 victory over the Cubs. Chicago had dropped to third, a few percentage points behind the Cards, who trounced Brooklyn, 7-3, while the fourth-place Giants were only one game out of the lead.

LAVAGETTO HITS HOMER

A home run by Harry Lavagetto, rookie infielder, touched off the Pittsburgh fireworks. It came in the seventh to give the Bucs a 3-2 lead in a duel between Bill Swift and Ed Brandt; then Pittsburgh went on to get four more tallies in the eighth.

Carl Hubbell, trounced by the Cardinals his last time out, held Chicago to four singles while the Giants belted Bud Tinning and Jim Weaver to score in six innings.

The Cardinal advance resulted from steady and timely hitting with Dutch Leonard as the principal victim, plus a couple of Brooklyn misplays and some effective hurling by Tex Carleton. Curt Davis won the other National League contest for the Phillies, 5 to 0, as he limited Cincinnati to three hits.

BROWNS WIN AGAIN

The St. Louis Browns continued their sparkling American League advance into third place by a 6-to-5 victory over Washington as Ray Pepper hit a home-run with Harland Clift on base in the seventh to win the game. Detroit stepped one percentage point behind the Browns despite a 6-to-3 triumph over the Atheletics, gained when the Tigers smashed Johnny Marcum for four doubles and six singles, most of them in the early innings.

The Yankees stopped their downward slide by taking a 2-to-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox behind Lefty Gomez while Cleveland and Boston were rained out. Gomez, who won the only other Yankee victory in the West, held the Sox to three hits.

Young Girl Star Loses at Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., May 25.—(AP.)—Betty Jameson, 15-year-old Dallas High School girl, who won the women's southern golf championship at New Orleans a few days ago, was swept out of the women's Texas state championship in the quarter-finals yesterday.

Wednesday she shot a 36-36—72 to equal men's par on the Dallas Country Club course, but playing in a steady rain she was far off form and went down, 2 and 1, to Mrs. Ralph Randolph, of Dallas.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
Former Star, now Coach of Pirates.

To the Sports Editor:

I like to read baseball stories and see baseball movies about as well as the next fellow, but I can't understand why the hero always knocks a home run and wins the game. Of course, people like to read about success and they don't care much about hearing about the hero whiffing in a pinch because it reminds them too much of their own lives. That's what the movies and the magazines will tell you, but I don't think they are entirely right about it. Perhaps the best known and best loved character in baseball fiction is good old Casey, the mighty Casey who struck out.

BOUTS BOOKED FOR BENEFIT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Danny Hassett vs. Billy Ketchel (for state light-heavyweight title), 15 rounds, and Bucky Jones vs. Mike Marshall, Bill Hendrie vs. Larry Wagner, Gene Gulotta vs. Milt Jacobs and Billy Harkins vs. Joe Santo, 6 rounds each, Cambria Club, Philadelphia.

Bob Godwin vs. Bob Olin, 10 rounds, Hollywood, Cal.

A tentative list of bouts for the benefit boxing show for the family of the late Mike Ray, former local boxing manager and second, has been decided by the matchmaking committee, of which Lew Raymond is chairman.

Ted Yarosz will meet the best opponent obtainable in the 10-round main bout and will donate his services. Mike was one of Teddy's seconds and close friends.

All of the other bouts will be six-rounders, with the exception of a four-round opener. At the moment they shape up as follows:

Max Elling vs. Jimmy Belmont.
Harry Weekly vs. Charley Burns.
Jackie McFarland vs. Mike Barto.
Patsy Severo vs. Johnny Durso.
Joey Speight vs. Tiger Joe Randall.
Joey Bazzone vs. General Burrows.
Al Quaill vs. Ray Winbush.
Mose Butch vs. Orville Drouillard.

Sunny Jim McVey and Patsy Hennigan also have offered their services.

Joe Bazzone, McKeesport welterweight boxer, is recovering in McKeesport Hospital after swallowing the contents of a two-ounce bottle of iodine following a quarrel with his father.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Dominic Mancini is laid up with a broken rib and will not be in action again for weeks.

Mike Mitchell and Rosy Rosales top a boxing card at Riverview Park, Bellaire, O., Monday night. Chuck Mullins meets Mike Bazzone and Sammy Paris boxes Claire Repole in preliminaries.

Al Diamond, who recently boxed Vince Dundee for the middleweight title, meets Ben Jeby, former champion, at Paterson, N. J., next Monday night.

With the signing of Al Quaill to box Kid Barry and Carl Montebano to box Casey Rhodes, Promoter Bus Vogel has completed his card for the Anson Green-Johnny Pilo show at Hickey Park, Millvale, Monday night.

Weldon Victor In Dixie Shoot

ATLANTA, May 25.—(AP.)—A. M. Weldon, of Shreveport, La., won the Class A Southern zone singles trapshooting championship here yesterday, running 25 straight in the shoot-off to break a tie at 198 out of 200 with T. K. Lee, of Birmingham.

Isaac Andrews, of Spartanburg, S. C., won in Class C with 195, with Ferd Kahler, of New Albany, Ind., second at 190.

Joe Kiestand, of Hollsborough, O., broke 97 to win the day's shooting for top honors in the 500 singles included in the two days' events.

DONNELLI HERO OF U. S. SOCCER WIN ABROAD

ROME, May 25.—(AP.)—An all-star United States soccer team yesterday earned the right to meet Italy Sunday in the world soccer championships as it defeated Mexico, 4 goals to 2, before a crowd of 10,000 in the National Stadium.

The match was an "elimination" between the two North American entrants and saw the heavier, faster United States team outplay and outscore Mexico from the start.

Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, of Curry, Pa., and Julius Hjulian, of Chicago, were the stars of the victory, the former booting through all four American goals while Hjulian did a grand job guarding the American net from the tricky Mexican attack.

Only one untoward incident marred the game, which was witnessed by Premier Mussolini and the United States ambassador, Breckenridge Long. Azpiri, right back from Mexico, protested to the referee in the second half he had been fouled, but the official ruled instead he had tripped one of the American players and he was ejected from the game. The American lineup:

Goal, Hjulian (Chicago); right back, Czerklewiz (Pawtucket); left back, Moorehouse (New York); right half, Lehman (St. Louis); center half, Gonzalves (St. Louis); left half, Pietras (Philadelphia); right wing, Gallagher (Cleveland); inside right, Nilsen (St. Louis); center forward, Donnelli (Curry, Pa.); inside left, Florie (Pawtucket); left wing, McLean (St. Louis).

AMATEUR HEADS MEET

The final meeting of the convention committee of the Allegheny Mountain Association was scheduled at the Chamber of Commerce Building this afternoon.

Greensburg Troopers Victors in Shoot

HARRISBURG, May 25.—(AP.)—A five-man team from Troop B, Greensburg, won the feature event yesterday in annual inter-troop pistol matches of the state highway patrol.

They scored 1,282 out of a possible 1,500 to finish ahead of Troop A, Harrisburg, and Troop C, Bellefonte, tied with 1,225 each.

M'LARNIN SET TO SCORE K.O. OVER ROSS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25. (AP.)—While one-half of boxing's most colorful combination, old Pop Foster, mumbles of trickery and deep, dark plots, the other half, soft-voiced Jimmy McLarnin, placidly winds up this business of preparing to bring sudden unconsciousnes down upon another aspiring young ring man.

Jimmy is certain he will tag out youthful Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, in Madison Square Garden's Bowl on Long Island Monday night. You can't get James Archibald to make a positive statement to that effect, Jimmy being most quiet and reserved, but there is confidence in every line of his perfectly trained fighting figure. He always has knocked those little men out.

Ross, a natural lightweight, is not expected to scale over 138 pounds at the weighing in Monday and may be as low as 136. He will gain but a few ounces before ring time, leaving Jimmy's advantage a full 10 pounds at least.

Foster, a grizzled 60-year-old veteran of bare knuckles' days, is satisfied Jimmy's lay-off of a year has not hurt his fighting ability.

YALE AND STANFORD I. C. 4-A TRACK MEET FAVORITES

STAR ATHLETES OPEN CARNIVAL IN PHILLY

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP.)—Stanford and Yale, chief standard bearers of the Far West and the East in the fifty-eighth track and field battle for the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championship, jockeyed their athletes today for the qualifying trials which may indicate which way rival fortunes will swing in tomorrow's finals. Eliminations were slated in 11 of the 15 championship events.

Although greatly outnumbered by Yale, as well as such other strong eastern teams as Cornell, Harvard and New York University, Stanford's seven-man array ruled a decided favorite to take the championship trophy back to the Far West for the twelfth time in 13 years. The Elis in 1924 alone have the distinction of interrupting this streak, and it appears the East has again put the burden up to the boys in Blue.

Few of the outstanding stars figured to be pressed in today's preliminaries. The, included Bob Kiesel, of California, favorite in the 100 and 200-meter events; Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, out to score his second straight "double" in the 800 and 1,500-meter runs, with Gene Venzke, of Pennsylvania, among his rivals in both events, and John Lyman, Stanford's record-breaking shot-putter, who also is doubling up with his teammate, Gordon Dunn, in the discus.

Two of the brightest specialists, Keith Brown, of Yale, in the pole vault, and George Spitz, of New York University, in the high jump, will confine their efforts to tomorrow's program. There are no preliminaries in these events or in the 1,500 and 3,000-meter races.

At the long sprint distances of 200 and 400 meters, Capt. Karl Warner, of Yale; Bob Kane, of Cornell, and Allan Blackman, of Stanford, were billed for double duty in an effort to pick up every possible point.

East-West Team In Tennis Final

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 25.—(AP.)—Anorma Taubele, redhaired New Yorker, and Jane Sharp, up-and-coming tennis star from Pasadena, Cal., teamed up in fine fashion yesterday to reach the doubles final in the women's Eastern clay courts championships.

They eliminated Mrs. Daniel P. Caulkins, of Englewood, and Mrs. Charles Stone, of Washington, 6-2, 6-3, without any apparent difficulty, while the Baroness Maud Levi and Mrs. Philip Hawk, also of New York, were making the first appearance in defense of the title they won last year. The black-haired Baroness and her partner conquered Louis E. Stauffen and Margaret Ferguson, of Montclair, 6-1, 6-2, to reach the semi-finals.

Mrs. Hurd Seeks New Golf Laurels

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former national champion, seeks her sixth Philadelphia championship today in the final round of the 1934 women's golf tourney.

Taking advantage of an "off day" in the play of Frances Williams, Mrs. Hurd yesterday eliminated the Allentown girl, who was the defending champion, by a 1 up score. Her opponent today is Mrs. W. G. Hamilton, Jr., of Abington, who conquered Edith Quier, of Reading, 1 up, in the semi-finals.

Baby Thevenow Makes His Bow

TOMMY THEVENOW, JR., ONLY A FEW DAYS OLD, AND HIS MOTHER . . DAD'S PIRATE STAR

The Pirates have a good infielder to look forward to some 20 years hence if there is anything in heredity, for Tommy Thevenow, the star utility man of the locals, now has a son, born in the West Penn Hospital, whom he won't see until he returns home with the club next week. Maybe this Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture of his heir will give him a real thrill.

KNIGHTS TAKE FIRST PLACE

Most of the Mid-Atlantic warriors remained in their tents last night, pouting at the weather man, but not the Black Knights, of Beckley, who rode into the lists against Huntington and toppled the Red Birds out of first place.

Pointing their lances at the offerings of two Huntington pitchers, the Beckley boys cracked out 12 hits and levelled the erstwhile league leaders, 15 to 1. The victory sends the Knights back into first place, thereby continuing the see-saw process which has seen the two teams monopolize the position, to the exclusion of the other clubs, since the outset of the season.

In the course of the evening's entertainment, Jack Heath and Gordon Johnson both walloped homers and the bases were loaded to capacity on each occasion.

All three Pennsylvania State Association contests were rained out.

Tilden, Vines Win In Pro Net Tourney

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP.)—Two former rulers of amateur tennis took another step forward in the Eastern professional tennis championship yesterday when Big Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, Jr., turned back the bid of two French stars in the first of a six-match round robin series among the four semi-finalists.

A crowd of 2,000 at the fashionable Park Avenue Club saw Tilden beat back the challenge of Martin Plaa, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3, and then watched Vines take three straight sets from his rival of amateur days, Henri Cochet. The scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

With each one of the four to play the other with the winner determined, in case of a tie, in matches won, on the basis of sets won, Tilden will clash with Cochet today and Vines will meet Plaa tomorrow. The final match will be played Sunday.

R. R. CROSSING MISHAPS GAIN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Railroad grade crossing accidents and casualties are increasing.

Reports made public today by the safety section of the American Railway Association showed such accidents totaled 718 for the first two months of 1934, an increase of 184 over the same period last year.

Fatalities resulting from such accidents totaled 240, an increase of 31, while persons injured totaled 875,an increase of 268.

Solters, Carnegie Here for Treatment

Julius (Moose) Solters, of the Boston Red Sox, and Ollie Carnegie, of the Buffalo International League club, both local sandlot graduates, are home as a result of injuries.

Carnegie is taking treatment from Bert Munhall, Crnegie Tech trainer, for an injured ankle, while Solters is out of action as a result of two broken bones on the third finger of his left hand.

PLAY RESUMED IN WOMEN'S GOLF LOOP

By TOM BIRKS

Competition in the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania Team League will be resumed this afternoon with Section I matches carded at the Westmoreland Country Club and Section II battling at Highland.

Because of inclement weather, league matches scheduled at Westmoreland and Butler last Tuesday were postponed, and will be played off at these courses next Thursday.

Virtually all of the professionals in the district will make the trip to Oakland Beach over the week-end for the pro-amateur and the open tournaments there. Ted Luther, popular Valley Heights profesional, is to defend his laurels in both affairs at the Conneaut Lake course.

The 36-hole medal play tourney on Monday will provide the necessary competition to put the local players on edge for the National Open at Merion, one week later. All have been practicing all week but keen competition means much more than the usual practice strokes.

Sectional champions in the Interscholastic League probably will be determined in matches this afternoon. Peabody beat Oliver yesterday at Shannopin, 4 to 1, in a match halted by rain.

RESCUE GIVES WOMAN THRILL

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS.)—Mrs. Mary Rees, 88-year-old Cincinnati invalid, has had her "big thrill."

For 30 years she has been confined to a cot in an upstairs room of her home. Then, because a fire broke out on the roof of the house, she made a surprise trip downstairs, her first in three decades.

Her grandson-in-law, Jacob H. Klein, Jr., rushed upstairs and carried her to safety just as a half dozen fire companies arrived.

"That was the biggest thrill of all," she said. "It has been a long time since a husky young man put his arms around me."

Kansas Lockup Empty 7 Weeks

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kan.—(INS.)—Sheriff Arthur L. Deering, of Chase County, is out looking for some prisoners for his jail. It has been empty for seven weeks. Only three persons have been held for minor offenses during the entire year.

GRAPHIC GOLF

PUTTING PRACTICE

Nothing semes to desert the player who lays off golf as quickly as putting. For that reason it requires more practice than other shots during the spring campaign when golfers attempt to regain last season's form. A good method of practice here is to start with the short putts and gradually extend the distance. Change both the yardage and the line to the hole for best results. Starting out with short putts will attune the fingers and arms to delicate, accurate stroking while the eye will be benefitted by this process. The vision will not be strained by trying to size up too much territory at once. As the putt is gradually extended the player still will stroke smoothly, even the very long ones where a wide arc and some weight transference is essential. Holing the short putts will give one an assurance that will aid the longer ones. The eye, gradually sizing up a point here and there, will be able by the time the long putt is reached to pick up the line and judge the undulations with accuracy.

DAVIS CUP DOUBLES TILT POSTPONED

FRANK SHIELDS, STOEFEN WIN IN SINGLES

WILMINGTON, Del., May 25.—(AP.)—The doubles tennis match between the United States and Canada in the first round of American zone play for the Davis Cup, postponed by rain today, will be run off tomorrow, the cup committee announced.

Decision on a schedule of further play, if any is necessary, will not be reached until the doubles end, it was announced. Victory in the doubles for the United States would give the Americans the round.

The doubles competition will find George M. Lott, Jr., and John Van Ryn, of the United States, pitted against Walter Martin and Marcel Rainville, victims of the two defeats Canada sustained in the opening singles engagements yesterday.

SHIELDS EASY WINNER

Francis X. Shields, of New York, defeated Martin, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, in the clash of the two nations' No. 1 ranking players. Lester R. Stoefen, of Los Angeles, accounted for Rainville in the opening encounter, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1.

The victors in the series will go to Baltimore next week-end to meet the Mexican team, and the winners there cross the Atlantic to compete in inter-zone competition.

Stoefen, the 23-year-old, 6-foot 4-inch West Coast lad, made short work of Rainville, his rather diminutive opponent. The Canadian barely came to Stoefen's shoulders, but he put up a good battle against rather heavy odds.

STOEFEN IMPRESSIVE

The Coast youth went right after the Canadian veteran of five American zone campaigns. He slashed through to a 6-to-1 victory in the opening setto, and eased up in his game in the second set. However, he smashed forward in the final set to win as he pleased.

Martin, who is the leader of the Canadian forces and the top player in Canada, did not seem able to fathom the play of Shields. He could not cope with the tactics of the New Yorker, although he did get going in spots. However, Shields seemed to come back on his game when he needed to, and brushed through the match in a convincing manner.

YANK NET ACES LOSE ABROAD

PARIS, May 25.—(AP.)—Wilmer Hines, former University of North Carolina player, last American survivor in the men's singles division of the French hard court tennis championships, was eliminated in the third round today by Max Ellmer, of Switzerland, 8-10, 6-4, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3.

Hines, who twice had beaten the Swiss this season, played erratically, and Ellmer took full advantage of all the American's mistakes.

Joan Hartigan, champion of Australia, put out Josephine Cruichshank, United States Wightman Cup player, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3, in the second round.

Miss Cruichshank appeared to have the match won as she reeled off the first set and led 5-3 in the second. Then her game went to pieces and she offered little opposition as the Australian girl ran it out.

Betty Nuthall, of England, defeated Jacqueline Adamson, of Belgium, 6-4, 6-4, in another second round feature.

Alice Marble, third ranking United States woman tennis player of San Francisco, who collapsed yesterday during the Franco-American team series, today was reported resting comfortably in American Hospital.

200 Stars Enter Local Swim Meet

More than 200 swimmers are entered in the Keystone A. C. water carnival, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and evening in the club pool. No fewer than 30 teams have entered for relay events.

The Carnegie Library Club, of Homestead; Pittsburgh Aquatic Club, Duquesne Library Dolphins, K. A. C., Downtown Y. M. C. A., I. K. A., Willow Pool Club and the Division of Recreation Swimming Club are among the entrants.

Trials in all events will get under way at 2 o'clock, with the finals slated for 8 o'clock in the evening.

COCHRANS FACE BELLEVUE

Bellevue, the latest addition to the North Side Twilight League, will be the attraction at Pleasant Valley this evening, meeting the Ottie Cochran club, so far undefeated in league competition.

The Cochrans have scored 33 runs in the last three games, Dutch Spencer, Hetie Chichus and Les Stetson have been pitching great ball. Spencer likely will get the call against the North Boro outfit in this evening's game.

Randazzo, Rapp, Rodgers, Krepp and Dundon have been hitting the ball hard and often, and there are visions of another championship landing at the Wilson avenue grounds.

Two games are carded for the City League this evening, Beltzhoover invades the Salt Works grounds to meet the J. J. Vaughans and Mt. Oliver travels to Frick Park to meet Parmelee. Manager Bill Dalzell, of Homewood, has announced that he has signed Joe Beggs, pitcher from Geneva College. All the East Enders need now is a good shortstop, and Dalzell is on the trail of a good one. Homewood plays the Whitaker club, of the Independent League this evening at Homewood. Sewickley plays at Dormont and the Homestead Grays at Highstown, N. J., in non-league games.

The Bachrach Giants will open a five-gagme series with the Pittsburgh Crawfords beginning this evening, when the teams clash at Beaver Falls in a twilight battle. Tomorrow they move into Greenlee Field for a single game. Sunday the teams meet in a double header, the first game getting under way at 2:45 o'clock. On Monday, also at Greenlee Field, a twilight game at 6 o'clock, with bargain day rates for the ladies, is listed.

The Crawfords, playing at Chambersburg last evening defeated the Chambersburg Independents, 6 to 1. Streeter kept Chambersburg's eight hits well scattered.

SCHOOL TENNIS STARS MEET IN PLAY-OFFS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The champion Mt. Lebanon squad, winner in Suburban Section II, battles Taylor Allderdice High, city premier, this afternoon for the right to encounter Shady Side Academy on Monday in the final round of the inter-sectional play-offs in the Interscholastic Tennis Conference.

Shady Side, Suburban Section I victor, achieved the wind-up yesterday by dint of overwhelming the clever Wilkinsburg array, survivor of the Suburban Section II race, 5-0, while the Lebanonians and Allderdice, getting under way belatedly, were halted by rain before a decision could be reached. Today's tussle will be staged at 3 o'clock on the Shady Side Academy courts in Fox Chapel, yesterday's contests, as well as those of Monday being features of the Pitt Trees Field rectangles.

Coach Harris Haviland's Shady Siders flashed the keenest form of the season in eliminating Wilkinsburg—form, indeed, that bodes ill for their opponents in the windup for the Conference crown and the University of Pittsburgh trophy symbolic thereof. Though the Holy Citians paraded such talent and experienced youngsters as Bob Merchant, Byron McLaughlin and Bob Bodycomb, there never was an instant when the success of the Jimmy Arensberg-Allerton Miller-Dick Sunstein contingent hung in jeopardy. Not a set could Wilkinsburg bag; in fact, only one canto got to the 6-4 stage.

BILL FAY VICTOR

Just one match of the Mt. Lebanon-Allderdice tilt was completed yesterday. Bill Fay, West Penn boys' titleholder, having trimmed Irwin Solow, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6, to slip the Mount lads a slight edge. Meanwhile Paul DeJohn, at number one for Lebanon, was all even at a frame apiece with Oliver having bagged stanza two, 7-5. Bob Bald, younger brother of Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon's ace, who is out of action due to illness, barely had started with husky Bill Kunkel, of the Squirrel Hilltoppers, when the shower spoiled the fun. Under the conference rules none of the unfinished meeting counts, an entire new deal being listed for today. The Shady Side-Wilkinsburg summary:

Shady Side Academy 5, Wilkinsburg 0

Singles: James Arensburg defeated Robert Merchant, 6-2, 6-2; Allerton Miller defeated Byron McLaughlin, 6-0, 6-2; Dick Sunstein defeated Robert Bodycombe, 6-1, 6-4.

Doubles: Arensburg and Miller defeated Merchant and McLaughlin, 6-2, 6-1; Sunstein and High Moor defeated Bodycomb and Charles Smith, 6-0, 6-2.

W. VA. AT DUQUESNE

The Duquesne varsity squad will entertain West Virginia University on the Bluff today in the lone engagement for a local college outfit. Tomorrow Pitt terminates its campaign by playing host to Grove City while the Dukes visit Geneva.

Winooka Beaten In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP.)—With a final furlong rush that left Winooka, Australia's wonder horse, far behind, Isaiah, a 4-year-old owned by E. Trotter, of Kentucky, stuck his head past the wire yesterday to win the $2,500 added Washington Handicap, opening feature of Chicago's South Side racing strip.

His driving finish under a perfectly judged ride by Jockey Joe Kacala ruined a great killing by the long shot Brigade, as Some Pomp seemed a certain winner until the final charge. Some Pomp, off to a wide lead of four lengths at the halfway mark of the six furlong sprint, was the longest priced horse in the field of nine, at 40 to 1, and almost lasted. Advising Anna, Jack Howard's brown filly, finished a fast closing third. Winooka, never in the contention, finished a bad eighth.

PEABODY GOLFERS WIN

Peabody's golfers won over Oliver, 4 to 1, in a curtailed interscholastic golf conference match at Shannopin yesterday. On account of rain, only nine holes were played.

BELLEVUE VICTOR

The Bellevue track and field team defeated Dormont, 83 to 45, in a dual meet at Dormont yesterday.

School for Women Anglers Opened

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 25.—(AP.)—A model stream improvement project to be a classroom for women anglers is to be opened today by state officials and nationally known fishermen.

Spring Creek, near Bellefonte, Center Country, is the locale of this novel experiment, which the fish commission says, is the first of its kind in the United States.

Experts on fly casting and authorities on fish conservation and stream improvement formally will open the "school."

The Thin Man

By DASHIELL HAMMETT

Just as the prospectors were about to give up in despair, they saw an Indian camp in the distance, and while they had no assurance as to what treatment they would receive at the hands of the "Reds," they decided that any death was preferable to starvation, so they agreed to take a chance.

When they approached the camp they were met by an Indian who appeared to be friendly and escorted them to Chief Ouray. To their great surprise, the Indians treated them with every consideration and insisted upon their remaining in the camp until they had fully recuperated from their hardships.

Finally the party decided to make another start, with the Los Pinos Agency as their goal. Ouray attempted to dissuade them from continuing the journey, and did succeed in influencing 10 of the party to abandon the trip and return to Salt Lake. The other 10 determined to continue, so Ouray supplied them with provisions and admonished them to follow the Gunnison River, which was named after Lieut. Gunnison, who was murdered in 1852. (See life of Joe Smith, the Mormon.)

Alfred G. Packer, who appeared as the leader of the party which continued the journey, boasted of his knowledge of the topography of the country and expressed confidence in his ability to find his way without difficulty. When his party had traveled a short distance, Packer told them that rich mines had recently been discovered near the headwaters of the Rio Grande River, and he offered to guide the party to the mines.

Party Splits

Four of the party insisted that they follow Ouray's instructions, but Packer persuaded five men, named Swan, Miller, Noon, Bell and Humphrey, to accompany him to the mines, while the other four proceeded along the river.

Of the party of four, two died from starvation and exposure, but the other two finally reached the Los Pinos Agency in February, 1874, after enduring indescribable hardships. Gen. Adams was in command of this agency, and the unfortunate men were treated with every consideration. When they regained their strength they started back to civilization.

In March, 1874, Gen. Adams was called to Denver on business, and one cold, blizzardy morning, while he was still away, the employes of the agency, who were seated at the breakfast table, were startled by the appearance at the door of a wild-looking man who begged piteously for food and shelter. His face was frightfully bloated but otherwise he appeared to be in fairly good condition, although his stomach would not retain the food given him. He stated that his name was Packer and claimed that his five companions had deserted him while he was ill, but had left a rifle with him which he brought into the agency.

After partaking of the hospitality of the employes at the agency for 10 days, Packer proceeded to a place called Saquache, claiming he intended to work his way to Pennsylvania, where he had a brother. At Saquache, Packer drank heavily and appeared to be well supplied with money. While intoxicated, he told many conflicting stories regarding the fate of his companions, and it was suspected that he had disposed of his erstwhile associates by foul means.

Arrests Packer

At this time Gen. Adams stopped at Saquache on his return from Denver to the agency, and while at the home of Otto Mears he was advised to arrest Packer and investigate his movements. The general decided to take him back to the agency, and while en route they stopped at the cabin of Maj. Downey, where they met the 10 men who listened to the Indian chief and abandoned the trip. It was then proven that a great part of Packer's statement was false, so the general decided that the matter required a complete investigation, and Packer was bound and taken to the agency, where he was held in close confinement.

On April 2, 1874, two wildly excited Indians ran into the agency, holding strips of flesh in their hands which they called "white man's meat" and which they stated they found just outside the agency. As it had been lying on the snow and the weather had been extremely cold, it was still in good condition.

When Packer caught sight of the exhibits, his face became livid, and with a low moan he sank to the floor. Restoratives were administered, and after pleading for mercy, he made a statement substantially as follows:

"When I and five others left Ouray's camp we estimated that we had sufficient provisions for the long and arduous journey before us, but our food rapidly disappeared and we were soon on the verge of starvation. We dug roots from the ground upon which we subsisted for some days, but as they were not nutritious and as the extreme cold had driven all animals and birds to shelter, the situation became desperate. Strange looks came into the eyes of each of the party, and they all became suspicious of each other. One day I went out to gather wood for the fire, and when I returned I found that Mr. Swan, the oldest man in the party, had been struck on the head and killed, and the remainder of the party were in the act of cutting up the body preparatory to eating it. His money, amounting to $2,000, was divided among the remainder of the party.

Killed in Fight

"This food only lasted a few days, and I suggested that Miller be the next victim because of the large amount of flesh he carried. His skull was split open with a hatchet as he was in the act of picking up a piece of wood. Humphreys and Moon were the next victims. Bell and I then entered into a solemn compact that as we were the only ones left we would stand by each other whatever befell, and rather than harm each other we would die of starvation. One day Bell said, 'I can stand it no longer,' and he rushed at me like a famished tiger, at the same time attempting to strike me with his gun. I parried the blow and killed him with a hatchet. I then cut his flesh into strips which I carried with me as I pursued my journey. When I espied the Agency from the top of the hill, I threw away the strips I had left, and I confess I did so reluctantly as I had grown fond of human flesh, especially that portion around the breast."

After relating this grewsome story, Packer agreed to guide a party in charge of H. Lauter to the remains of the murdered men. He led them to some high, inaccessible mountains, and as he claimed to be bewildered, it was decided to abandon the search and start back the next day.

That night Packer and Lauter slept side by side, and during the night Packer assaulted him with the intent to commit murder and escape, but he was overpowered, bound, and after the party reached the Agency, he was turned over to the sheriff.

Discovers Remains

Early in June of that year, an artist named Reynolds, from Peoria, Ill., while sketching along the shores of Lake Christoval, discovered the remains of the five men lying in a grove of hemlocks. Four of the bodies were lying together in a row, and the fifth, minus the head, was found a short distance away. The bodies of Bell, Swan, Humphreys and Noon had rifle bullet wounds in the back of the head, and when Miller's head was found it was crushed in, evidently by a blow from a rifle which was lying near by, the stock being broken from the barrel.

The appearance of the bodies clearly indicated that Packer had been guilty of cannibalism as well as murder. He probably spoke the truth when he stated his preference for the breast of man, as in each instance the entire breast was cut away to the ribs.

A beaten path was found leading from the bodies to a nearby cabin, where blankets and other articles belonging to the murdered men were discovered, and everything indicated that Packer lived in this cabin for many days after the murders, and that he made frequent trips to the bodies for his supply of human meat.

After these discoveries the Sheriff procured warrants charging Packer with five murders, but during his absence the prisoner escaped.

Nothing was heard of him again until January 29, 1883, nine years later, when Gen. Adams received a letter from Cheyenne, Wyo., in which a Salt Lake prospector stated that he had met Packer face to face in that locality. The informant stated that the fugitive was known as John Schwartze, and was suspected of being engaged in operations with a gang of outlaws.

Detectives began an investigation, and on March 12, 1883, Sheriff Sharpless, of Laramie County, arrested Packer, and on the 17th inst. Sheriff Smith, of Hinsdale County, brought the prisoner back to Lake City, Col.

Synopsis

Nick Charles, noted detective, who tells the story of "The Thin Man," and Nick's wife, Nora, meet Dorothy Wynant, daughter of a former client, in a speakeasy. Dorothy asks where her father is and Nick refers her to Herbert Macaulay, Wynant's attorney. Macaulay, calls on Nick and tells him Mimi, Wynant's divorced wife, is hunting him.

Next day Nick reads of the murder of Julia Wolf, Wynant's secretary. Mimi found the body when she went to get Wynant's address.

While a Mr. Norman is telephoning to Nick a loud report as of a shot is heard and his words end abruptly.

It is learned Julia was a former sweetheart of a racketeer.

Dorothy appears at Nick's apartment and flashes a gun which she says she got in a speakeasy. She is drunk and Nora puts her to bed. Morelli, a gangster, is suspected in Julia's murder.

Nick is shot by Morelli. Police find Dorothy's automatic in Nick's apartment. Dorothy, beaten by Mimi, seeks shelter at Nick's, and tells new story about gun. Nick and Nora visit Jorgensens', but leave suddenly. Julia served time for working badger game. Guild tells Nick. Wynant's letter urges Nick hunt slayer. Nick gives Gilbert story on cannibalism.

Now go on with Charles' narrative.

THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE—NAPOLEON SIGNS TREATY—MAP OF LOUISIANA TERRITORY

In 1800 Spain agreed to cede the Louisiana territory to France to create a protective barrier. Soon after she curtailed the trading privileges of United States. President Jefferson in co-operation with Sec. of State Madison, his Minister to France Livingston and Monroe (sent to Paris), negotiated with Napoleon, first consul of the French Republic, a treaty for the purchase of Louisiana for $15,000,000, ratified by Senate in October, 1803. Napoleon was glad to sell in face of his naval defeats by Great Britain, making impossible adequate defense.

The Louisiana purchase doubled the area of the United States, gave full possession of the most important waterways through the heart of the continent connecting the Great Lakes regions with the Gulf of Mexico. Changing the economic and political life of the country, it ranks in importance with the Declaration of Independence and the adoption of the Constitution. (U. S. History)

PRESIDENCY OF JEFFERSON—MADISON—WAR WITH BRITAIN—PERRY

After a Painting by W. J. Powell

Pres. James Madison 1757—1836

Administration of Thomas Jefferson (1801-1809) is memorable chiefly for Louisiana purchase; repeal of some obnoxious laws; the Embargo Act, prohibiting export to check pirating by the warring French and British; the Non-Intercourse Act, loosening the embargo in face of threatening secession of New England; abolishing of slave trade.

James Madison was elected fourth President (1809-1817). Congress declared war on Great Britain for interference and inciting the Indians whose chief, Tecumseh, sided with the British. Changing fortunes of war brought victories and defeats. Com. Oliver H. Perry captured a British fleet on Lake Erie (Sept. 10, 1813). He reported: "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

LEO TOLSTOY

Count Tolstoy (1828-1910), one of the greatest novelists, though born as an aristocrat and an army officer of autocratic Russia in his youth possessing great wealth, he discarded the comforts and privileges at his command. Professing the salutary effects of work, he led the simplest life, cobbling his own shoes, teaching peasant children. His life exemplifies that work, no matter how humble, gives distinction even to a genius. After a Painting by Jan Styka

VENUS, SECOND PLANET IN ORDER FROM SUN

Venus' main distance from sun is 0.723 astron. unit. Its diam. is 7,575 miles, its mass and surface gravity is about 82% of those of the earth. Venus shows phases like the moon and a great range in apparent diameters. Markings in ultra violet photos show probably a cloud-laden atmosphere. Though oxygen was not detected, it may be present beneath the clouds. (Gen. Science) 87-III-B

CHARLEMAGNE, THE CONQUEROR, RULER AND TEACHER

Charlemagne (742-814), Frankish king, one of the greatest rulers of the Middle Ages, united most of the Teutonic peoples under his rule, broke the power of the Lombards in Italy, introduced Christianity in the conquered lands.

The artist pictures him above, making peace with Wittekind, chieftain of the Saxons (785) closing the retaliation war, arising from the annihilation of a Frankish army at Suntelberg by Wittekind (782) and the execution of 4,500 Saxons at Verden by Charlemagne. Wittekind was baptized and became Duke of the Saxons.

In 800, Pope Leo III crowned Charlemagne Roman emperor. Charlemagne fostered science, art, literature, founded schools, established scholars in principal cities of his vast empire, which fell apart after his death. From its debris developed later the nations of Western Europe. (World History)

SPIDERS (ARACHNIDA)—A CLASS OF TWELFTH PHYLUM (ARTHROPODA)

Spiders include scorpions, usually parasitic mites, chiggers, ticks. Spiders, largely land animals, feed on insects, hence are beneficial. Their body is in two sections, cephalothorax and abdomen, the former having six pairs of appendages. The first pair is the poisonous mandibles, the second, the pedipalps; the remaining four pairs are walking legs. Spiders have no antennae; they breath by air tubes and book-lungs (sacks with tiny plates). They have spinning organs at their abdomen, issuing threads of glutinuous material hardening in air. Above some dangerous and disease causing species. (Gen. Science)

FOOD—FUEL OF HUMAN ENGINE

The human body is a marvelous engine. It burns its fuel—food—and converts heat derived from it into chemical, mechanical and electrical energy. It also repairs worn out parts, cells, tissues.

Fuel value of food is expressed in calories. One kilogram calorie (Cal.) equals 1,000 gram calories (cal.) and is the heat needed to raise the temperature of 1 kilogram water 1° C.

Above: Daily need in a balanced diet. Principal constituents of food are carbohydrates (starch, sugar) proteins (albumen, casein, lean meat), and fats (butter, lard, oil).

Left: Bomb calorimeter serving to determine fuel value of materials. (General Science)

You cannot blame folks for thinking repeal is just a new kind of prohibition.

It's almost as popular. Results are just as charming and vivacious.

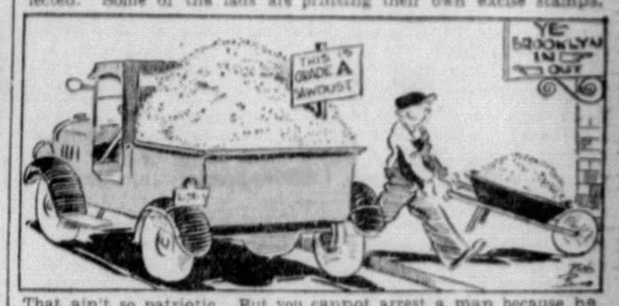
They are playing pretty good rugby in the dry states. Eddie Hoops has been appointed knock-down timekeeper for Virginia and the Blue Ridge districts. He has started some pretty good fights. But only for taxation.

Things along Broadway are normal. But the oldtimers would like to get back their swinging doors. No matter which way you are going, or how fast, swinging doors never brush you against the grain. Write to your Congressman and help to standardize our traffic.

We don't know how much money the government has collected. Some of the lads are printing their own excise stamps.



That ain't so patriotic. But you cannot arrest a man because he has a hobby. The doctors say these little relaxations keep a man young.

We have not yet made the circuit of the wet states to check up on statistics. Some of the barkeeps are a little out of practice. Their judgment of distance is bad. Due to the long lay-off they often miss the cash register with both hands. However, it was always that way in the old times. The proprietor took plenty of vinegar in his salad days.

In New York City at first they made you drink in a chair. The Legislature had forgotten to add an aviator's safety belt to the list. In other states you can drink standing up. That means without the assistance of two friends. But in no state has a law been validated telling you how to get home.

How do the modern drinkers compare with the old-time champions? We don't know. We never saw John L. fight.

Unbalanced Justice

The Scales Are Not Held True Under the Present Petty Court Proceedure

Nearly 3,000 boys were committed to the Allegheny County Jail for petty offenses last year after summary conviction before justices of the peace.

The arrests and prosecutions were due in large part, it is charged, to the constables' and squires' greed for the fees that would come to them out of the cases.

Judges James H. Gray and Elder W. Marshall, of the Common Pleas Court, went before the County Commissioners yesterday to ask for the services of a social worker to investigate the cases of youthful prisoners. Both judges asserted that many of the boys were committed to jail so that the arresting officers could receive the costs that go to them in such cases.

Here we have another strong argument for the abolition of our present system of squires and constables, a relic of oxcart days. It not only is expensive and inefficient, but it leads to the jailing of people for trivial offenses such as trespassing and vagrancy, which might better be dealt with in some other way, and also tends to promote injustice.

The United States Supreme Court handed down a decision in 1927 which has a direct bearing on this subject. It was in the case of Tumey against Ohio. The Mayor of the village of North College Hill found Tumey guilty of violating the Ohio prohibition act and ordered that he be imprisoned until the fine and costs were paid. Since the Mayor stood to profit personally from the conviction, through the costs that he would receive, Tumey appealed to the Supreme Court, which set the conviction aside on the ground that Tumey had been deprived of that "due process of law" guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, who wrote the decision, said this:

"To subject a defendant to trial in a criminal case involving his liberty or property before a judge having a direct, personal, substantial interest in convicting him is a denial of due process of law.

". . . the requirement of due process of law in judicial procedure is not satisfied by the argument that men of the highest honor and the greatest self-sacrifice could carry it on without danger of injustice. Every procedure which would offer a possible temptation to the average man as a judge to forget the burden of proof required to convict the defendant, or which might lead him not to hold the balance nice, clear and true between the State and the accused, denies the latter due process of the law."

To remove from squires the temptation to find persons guilty for the sake of the fees that the squires would gain from convictions, the Pennsylvania Legislature provided for the payment by the county of costs to justices of the peace in cases in which the defendants were discharged. But this has led to enormous abuses.

The taxpayers of Allegheny County have had to pay many hundreds of thousands of dollars to squires in discharged cases. A number of these magistrates and their constables were found to have collected costs in fake cases, in which the names of all concerned, as given on the squires' books, were purely imaginary. It was this revelation that led County Comissioner C. C. McGovern to denounce the squire and constable system as an outrageous "racket."

It is to be hoped that the remarks of Judges Gray and Marshall will strengthen the movement for a change in the system.

Fees should be done away with, and straight salaries paid.

We do not need nearly so many petty magistrates as we have.

Now that transportation is by railroad, trolley car and automobile, it is extravagant to have two justices of the peace in every township or borough, however necessary they may have been in the days when people traveled with horses or on foot over bad roads.

A minor court with a single judge for every 50,000 of population probably would be sufficient.

And the judge should not only be a man of highest integrity, but should be learned in the law.

Postoffice Defects

The Cracked Stone Is One, and the Poorly Planned Ramp Is Another

An employe of this newspaper, passing the new Postoffice Building some months ago noticed cracks in the stone. The Sun-Telegraph called attention to the defect, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen became interested, and as a result the Treasury Department has just issued orders for the replacement of the cracked stone.

In addition, an investigation is to be made to determine the responsibility and decide who shall bear the cost of the reconstruction. The government announces it will not accept the seven million dollar structure until the investigation has been completed.

The postoffice has another defect scarcely less serious than the fissures in the building blocks. We refer to the poorly planned ramp, now under construction, by which trucks carrying the mails will leave and enter at a point in Seventh avenue close to its intersection with the Bigelow boulevard. All the traffic authorities are agreed that the ramp will interfere intolerably with the flow of traffic and lead to dangerous congestion.

There is an alternative plan by which the trouble may be avoided. It will cost more at the outset, but will be less expensive in the long run.

If the government is wise, it will see that the ramp defect is also remedied.

Jobs for Graduates

A Carnegie Tech Survey Furnishes Grounds for Feeling Optimistic.

Thousands of young men and women will be graduated from colleges and high schools in the Pittsburgh district during the next month. What is the prospect of their getting jobs?

The prospect is pretty good if the experience of Carnegie Tech's graduates of the class of 1933 can be taken as a criterion.

Herbert L. Grau reports in the Carnegie Tartan that, of 203 graduates of engineering and industries in last year's class, 149, or more than 73 per cent, are employed in engineering and industrial work, while most of the others have had part time jobs since graduation.

Young people can find much encouragement in this. But it is not to be overlooked that unless one is favored by good fortune some special training or special aptitude is necessary to get a job easily.

The sagacious youth will stay at school or college, if possible, until that special ability has been developed.

CALIFORNIA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Irvin Cobb and daughter Buff are here to dredge a bit of movie gold. Dining with them last night, the restaurant was in suspended animation to gaze at the noted pair. Cobb, who has just signed an acting contract, spun yarns over his cigar, and none laughed more uproariously than his daughter.

Every whip-stitch the torn corner from a menu was shoved at him to autograph and the curious circled to gawk. In the adjoining booth I heard a mumbled philaloo about Gallipolis, O. It was Ted Lewis, the minstrel, wandering the world disconsolately to inquire if everybody's happy.

As though anyone born in Circleville, O., could be. In every strange city one is sure to run afoul that zooming devastator of space, Tippy Gray. He rang in from a neighboring inn this morning. On the train out someone mentioned coming upon him in a Gibraltar bazar a month ago. Hospitality in exciting overplus...

A telegram from Charles and Kathleen Norris at Palo Alto invites us to their silver wedding anniversary. Also, there is bid to the Hearst ranch at San Simeon. Olga and Sidney Fish offer hospice at their Carmel rancho. Marion Davies suggests dinner at her beach house. Rob Wagner, an evening with Chaplin before an open fire.

A character I greatly miss in Los Angeles this visit is Jim Woods, the hotel man. He has returned to his first love, San Francisco, after many years here. Beginning as a night clerk at the old Gilsey in New York, and later manager of the Belmont, he came to California opened the Los Angeles Biltmore, was state boxing commissioner, and deservedly one of the most popular figures on the coast.

The California street corner flower sellers seem coal carriers to Newcastle. But they never give up. Burnt black by the sun and with extended bunches of posies, they rush chaffering toward every automobile. Flowers are so plentiful here, and everybody has an abundance. Yet they must make a living unless they are just retired business men who enjoy being out in the open air.

There is a blind alley in downtown Los Angeles that every Friday evening throngs with New Yorkers. At an open air newsstand Variety and the New Yorker arrive on that day. Times Square transplanted with a town pump flavor.

Irvin Cobb had the time of his life today watching the formulation of plans on a movie lot to transform an English village into his native Paducah, Ky., for his Judge Priest tales. The chemist shop will become a river town drug store with a red jar in one window, a green in the other and perhaps a mason jar containing the leading citizen's tape worm. For a confederate soldier statue, they will put whiskers on the statue of a saint. Horse troughs and hitching posts will be installed in the public square, an Indian sign for the tobacconist. Et voila—Paducah! What Cobb especially desires, however, is the country town hound dog that went out with the motor car. The lazy sort that would not even flinch when grazed by a wagon.

A favorite American park is a clump of greenery, a little breathing space close to Los Angeles' throbbing heart, called Lafayette. For many visits it has been a romping ground for the dog. It's one of the most exquisitely kept anywhere, slit with rambling walks, upward slopes that furbelow into beautiful landscaping, sun dial, a variety of trees and shrubbery. All so much like a stage setting that in the shifting shadows one rather expects Belasco himself, tugging at a forelock, to step from behind a eucalyptus for a hesitant bow in the moonlighty spot.

Seasoned sunners here warn the novitiate to begin with five minutes the first day, ten the second and so on until one can take all guns. I soaked up an hour's worth at the first sitting and my face suggests two burnt holes in a red washrag. During a fevered night I sent a bell hop for a cooling lotion. He was gone but five minutes, yet it seemed long enough for a trip to Nome and return by dog sled. Ah, Nome, what a paradise—ouch!—it suggests to the sun-scorched. Yet if there is any more fun than when the blisters reach the peeling stage I don't want to know about it.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Why Do the Wicked Triumph? Because They Have Faith!

King David had a Crime Wave on his hands. It was an amateur affair in comparison with the goings-on of any lively American metropolis, yet it was quite sufficient to make plenty of trouble in Jerusalem, 1050 B. C. For what those ancient outlaws lacked in numbers, they made up in technique. And they certainly had Judah on the run!

Between grief for his harrassed people and fury at outraged law, old David passed sleepless nights. And pacing back and forth on the flat roof of his great palace, looking up at the mocking stars, looking down at the jeering streets, he cried in fear and exasperation, as many another man has cried before and since—

"WHY . . WHY . . WHY?"

"WHY, O GOD, ARE THESE THINGS PERMITTED?"

"WHY ARE THE EVIL SO POWERFUL AND THE GOOD SO WEAK?"

And seizing his tablets, he set down those words which we read today—though his palace crumbled long, long ago, and King David's bones are dust before the wind—

"I HAVE SEEN THE WICKED IN GREAT POWER, AND SPREADING HIMSELF LIKE A GREEN TREE THAT GROWETH IN HIS OWN SOIL . . .

"THEY BREAK IN PIECES THY PEOPLE, O LORD, AND AFFLICT THINE HERITAGE . . . THEY SLAY THE WIDOW AND THE STRANGER, AND MURDER THE FATHERLESS . . . THEY GATHER THEMSELVES TOGETHER AGAINST THE SOUL OF THE RIGHTEOUS AND CONDEMN THE INNOCENT BLOOD.

"LORD, HOW LONG SHALL THE WICKED TRIUMPH?"

How long should the wicked triumph? And what made them triumph? But even as he asked the question, wise old King David— who had attained his own wisdom through wickedness as well as righteousness—knew the answer. In his own words lay the reason. Why did the wicked triumph "like green trees that grew in their own soil?" Because they DID "grow in their own soil." They were rooted in, they were nourished by that most powerful of all foundations—THEIR OWN FAITH.

THE WICKED TRIUMPHED BECAUSE THEY HAD FAITH.

They believed in their own strength. They believed in the strength of their gangs. They believed in the things they did. They believed they were justified in doing such things, no matter how cruel they might be.

Anything that was backed by fearless faith would work. Faith was the most terrific power on earth. Nobody knew exactly what it was or how it operated . . . how a man could change his luck, attract a friend or defeat an enemy, by his own belief. But it happened. King David had seen it happen—had made it happen. Stronger than the spears of his army, mightier than the gold in his treasuries, was his own faith.

Yes, faith worked. AND FAITH WORKED BOTH WAYS. It didn't just work for a good man with a good plan. It worked quite as successfully for a bad man with a bad plan. As long as a man believed in himself and his plan.

WHY DID THE WICKED TRIUMPH? WHY COULD NOTHING STOP THEM? THAT WAS WHY.

And nothing would EVER stop them until good people had as much faith as bad people—until good people believed in the things they did. But it was strange—how rarely good people had faith. Real faith.

BUT IT WASN'T ENOUGH TO BE GOOD—

YOU HAD TO BACK YOUR BELIEF WITH FIGHTING FAITH.

YOU HAD TO BELIEVE SO THOROUGHLY THAT THERE WAS NO FEAR LEFT IN YOU . . . ONLY FIGHT!

That was the way bad people believed in themselves and in the things they did. WHEN A GOOD MAN BELIEVED IN HIMSELF AS A BAD MAN DID, THE BAD MAN WOULDN'T HAVE A CHANCE!

* * *

Struggling angrily through the dark nights, watching wearily for the dreadful dawns, King David found that truth and set it down, 3,000 years ago.

Today, it's as true for the kidnapers of Detroit, the gangsters of Chicago—and for all the Peeved, Pious people who wonder how they get that way—as it was for the dizzy denizens of Jerusalem.

BELIEVE IN YOURSELF! BE WILLING TO GO THE LIMIT FOR THAT BELIEF—AND NOTHING IN HEAVEN OR HELL CAN STOP YOU!

Love Knows No NRA

You never realize how different God intended to make men and women until you see an "overstuffed" girl in slacks.

* * *

To a man, love is like a spring cold in the head. He will fight against it to the very last minute; but he always feels better when he finally gives up the struggle and frankly succumbs to fate.

A perfect husband is a matter of individual taste and personal preferences—but the Ideal Lover is a "type" which has been standardized and appeals alike to matrons and debutantes, highbrows and lightweights, spinsters, widows and ex-wives. He was born to be loved—but never to be married!

* * *

At 40, a man is almost woman-proof. But, ah! After that, there is a gradual softening of the heart, the emotions and the vanity which makes him more and more susceptible.

* * *

It may take brains to find out anything you want to know about the man you love—but it takes real genius to keep from finding out the things that you DON'T want to know about him.

* * *

To impress a man with your brilliant reasoning powers, never try to prove anything to him. Just agree with him that two-and-two make seven and tell him how you admire his taste in cravats and how beautifully his hair waves back from his forehead.

* * *

A girl doesn't have to bother, nowadays, to get her parents to consent to her engagement; her Big Problem is how to persuade them to control their enthusiasm and appear a little more reluctant about it.

There are no NRA rules which apply to the heart, the imagination or the vanity. At this time of year, these three work seven days a week and a lot of overtime—but, what can you do about it?

* * *

The best thing for a girl to put in her hope-chest is a lot of LOVE. When a little love has to last for a life-time, it spreads out awfully thin.

Industrial Loan Bill To Break Credit Jam

By James T. Williams, Jr.

CHARLES DICKENS once said that "an idea, like a ghost, must be spoken to a little before it will explain itself."

After talking two years to the ghost of an idea which Mr. Garner urged two years ago while he was Speaker of the House, Congress is about to send this idea to the President in the form of a legislative enactment.

Thanks to this Garner proposal, now a Roosevelt policy, sound industry will be permitted to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and from the Federal Reserve for constructive projects that will put men to work. In this way it is hoped that the industrial credit jam from which this country has been suffering ever since the depression will be finally broken.

The industrial loan bill as it passed the Senate would authorize the RFC to lend 250 million dollars and the Reserve Board 140 million dollars to small industries. The Senate bill limited individual loans to one million dollars. The House Committee on Banking reduced the total amount of industrial loans to 440 million and individual loans to $100,000. A compromise will doubtless be agreed upon in conference midway of the Senate and House limitations.

The argument for this form of Federal aid to industry was no more convincingly set forth than as Mr. Garner put it to the House nearly two years ago. Leaving the Speaker's chair on July 5, 1932, Mr. Garner took the floor to report upon a White House conference just held between the leaders of the House and President Hoover. At that conference Mr. Hoover had served notice that he would not approve any measure containing the Garner proposal authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to private corporations even when they offered adequate security.

* * *

Pleads for Loans To Corporations

IN ONE of the few speeches he made to the House while Speaker Mr. Garner said:

"Why should you not loan to a private corporation if it has adequate security?

"Why should you not loan to that corporation to carry on its business and give employment to labor? Somebody ought to answer that.

"I yield for an answer. I have not yet found a man who can answer that question. It can not be answered. That is the size of it exactly.

"You propose to increase the capital of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from 2,000 million dollars to 3,500 million dollars. Now, in doing so, I plead with you to let all the people have some drippings from this wonderful banking institution. Do not keep it just for a few. Let the people have a little bit of consideration with respect to their own money."

When President Hoover urged Speaker Garner to withdraw his proposal Mr. Garner respectfully declined to do so, and addressing the President directly said with great earnestness:

"Not I, Mr. President. There is a principle involved in this that I will not surrender. I will not surrender the principle that we ought to legislate for all the people rather than for a preferential class."

* * *

Garner Condemned By Republicans

IN HIS whole 30 years in Congress, Mr. Garner never took a position that brought him more scathing criticism from the Republicans in both houses of Congress and from the Republican press throughout the country. Finally, President Hoover said in public condemnation of the Garner proposal:

"Such an undertaking by the United States government would make the Reconstruction Finance Corporation the most gigantic banking and pawnbroking business in all history."

Mr. Hoover's disapproval of Mr. Garner's practical plan for breaking the credit jam by federal aid to industry resulted in the defeat of that plan by the Senate two years ago. Now, both houses of Congress, on the recommendation of a Democratic President, have come around to Mr. Garner's way of thinking.

And the best part about the vindication of Vice President Garner's common sense, as revealed in his championship of this idea, is the benefits that will accrue to industry, which has been choked all too long by lack of adequate credit facilities.

Human Side of the News

The United States Secret Service 'Gets Its Man' and Has an Impressive Record of Arrests

By Edwin C. Hill

THE sharp eyes of a teller in a New York bank light on a $10 banknote, thousands of which pass through his hands each day. There is something just the least bit out of the ordinary in this one. He runs it through his fingers and looks at it through a microscope. Counterfeit! Sure enough! The find is reported to Washington at once and there a white-haired Presbyterian deacon with a fine bass voice, who also happens to be William H. Moran, Chief of the United States Secret Service, moves into action.

The warning goes out to all banks to watch the ten-dollar notes on the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 1928 B series with the signature of W. O. Woods, Treasurer of the United States and Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasry, and bearing the portrait of Alexander Hamilton. That done, Chief Moran starts after the counterfeiters. He gets them, too, and has been doing so for the last 50 years.

He is so good at his job that although he is past 70 years, President Roosevelt wants him kept on the job, and only recently extended his term of office for two years when he had reached the retirement age. It just isn't the time for William Moran to step out of the harness because counterfeiting today is near an all-time peak and the Secret Service is kept on the jump from coast to coast, stamping out the "green goods" men who are specializing in five and ten dollar notes.

Counterfeiters Generally Caught

IN 1933, a record number of arrests, 3,003, were made, and $921,499 in spurious currency confiscated. So far, in this fiscal year, these figures have been surpassed. Of all crime, counterfeiting pays least. Our Uncle Sam, usually a slow moving old gentleman and difficult to provoke, absolutely will not stand for anyone tampering with his money. Punishment follows here almost as certain as death and taxes. Only this month, Chief Moran and his men struck a telling blow at an international ring which was turning out the best counterfeit money ever circulated in the United States.

At its head was a young heart specialist, Dr. Valentine J. Burtan, a native of Russia, a naturalized American and a Communist to boot. He was convicted in the Federal Court of New York of being involved in the unloading of $100,000 in counterfeit bills in Chicago. This ring was formed primarily to flood the United States and South America with millions of dollars of its money in an attempt to discredit the American government.

The trail was picked up by the Secret Service at the Democratic Convention in Houston in 1928 and it led to Berlin where American agents, seeking to seize the engraving plates, found themselves a day too late as the metal had been shipped to Moscow. It was charged specifically against Dr. Burtan that he had passed $30,000 of the money in Berlin in 1930 and $6,000 more the following year in Havana.

Cases Frequently Involve Women

ONE of the most famous cases in which Chief Moran has figured was the Philadelphia-Lancaster $100 silver certificates of 1891. The government had issued the bill bearing the portrait of Monroe, and within a year Moran came up with a copy which defied identification. Experts of the Bureau of Engraving pronounced the bill genuine. Moran insisted it was a counterfeit. He put the bill in hot water, pulled the paper apart and showed the false silk threads. Thereupon the Government withdrew the issue to protect the public.

Mr. Moran says that the criminal with whom he deals "is the smoothest, suavest and meanest in existence—the meanest because he defrauds the small man."

"I know," he says, "of a case where a spurious note was circulated to come back finally to the counterfeiter's own mother and rob her of her last dollar." The chief offenders, Mr. Moran rates, "are men, but very often counterfeiting is the work of clever women, and in all my experience I have yet to solve a case where some woman has not been involved.

"Strange as it may seem, too, counterfeiters come from all walks of life, from the wealthy class, as well as from the poor. Why this sort of criminal continues to operate, I cannot say, for he is always caught sooner or later. No man has ever prospered in the industry of counterfeiting. If he does accumulate any money, eventually it is spent in his defense in the courts. Some cases drag on taking us 10 or 12 years to unravel, but ultimately every one is solved."

Like the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the United States Secret Service gets its man. . . .

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Tomorrow

Tomorrow is a siren
Who sings with hope's own voice
And bids you, putting care aside
For thoughts of her, rejoice!

Tomorrow is the fairest
Of all time's varied brood.
Days may be false, days may be true;
This day is ever good!

So why look back with sorrow
To dark days, past and done?
Tomorrow's but one night away,
And shining like the sun!

Take heart of cheer, you weary,
Who cower in defeat;
Look up, tomorrow is so near,
You hear its dancing feet!

You may be stripped and starving,
You may be old and poor;
But all tomorrow's golden store
Will wait you at your door!
